TOKYO CLEARS THREE-POWER TREATY'S WAY

Triple Inside Quintuple Pact Is Indicated in U. S. Circles.

AMERICANS' TERMS ACCEPTED BY JAPAN

Reservations Are Fixed but Reply Is Held Satisfactory.

BRITISH AND FRENCH EFFORTS COLLAPSE

Three Rear Admirals Given Orders by Adams to Sail for Home.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, March 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—Naval conference developments today were these:

1. Word was received from Tokyo that the Hamaguchi cabinet had decided to accept the American terms, with the reservations that a percentage of 70 in 8-inch cruisers was still claimed and the claim could be raised again in the next conference. The American delegation has determined to accept the reply, with the reservation of the right to contest the Japanese claim after 1936. This will shelve the 70 per cent wrangle for six years, and the result is a draw.

2. Efforts by French and British experts to evolve a security agreement acceptable to both London and Paris have broken down, although Foreign Minister Aristide Briand said tonight that he and Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson, after an exchange of views, had drafted "a few phrases on paper" that might possibly form the basis of a security formula.

British Seek Five-Power Pact.

3. Announcement by Prime Minister MacDonald in the House of Commons that "the government still adhere to their determination to arrive at an agreement between the whole five powers in the conference and not between two or three of them."

4. The Big Five met to prepare for the plenary session Friday, but adjourned after a few minutes, and merely decided to discuss the agenda Wednesday.

5. After Secretary of State Stimson and Ambassador Morrow visited M. Briand and later Mr. MacDonald it was rumored they had suggested a security pact between France and Italy. The rumor was promptly denied. The Americans declined to comment.

There were more than the usual crop of rumors current today in view of the obviously desperate position of the five-power conference. There is slightly more optimism noticeable tonight.

Briand Issues Warning.

M. Briand, however, warned correspondents against optimism, stating that although the conference might fail in its main purpose, this, while regrettable, would not be catastrophic.

Earlier in the day M. Briand had spoken with some bitterness of the British spokesman's declaration last night that Great Britain would not increase her military commitments in Europe. The French foreign minister complained, first, that France had never asked this and, second, that the British had agreed to make no statement during the course of negotiations.

In American circles there appear indications that an attempt will now be made to conclude a three-power agreement within a five-power treaty, although the situation is in too much of a state of flux to allow this to be said definitely. The idea seems to be to refer to a drafting committee, at Friday's plenary session, all agreements that have been reached or may be reached between the five powers, such as how to scrap a ship and how to limit warships by the global-tonnage-category compromise, and to get on, if possible, with humanization of the submarine.

Rapidan Figures Would be Used.

Coincident with this work a three-power agreement would be drafted on the Rapidan figures and the expected Japanese reply, with a clause giving the powers the right to build up if any of the three deems it necessary, and this agreement would be included within the scope of a five-power treaty.

All this is nebulous and, so far as the New York World News Service can learn, nothing has really been decided between the delegations as to the course negotiations will take. It appears unlikely from indications in the French camp that M. Briand will sing a swan song Friday and withdraw the French delegation, and this fact is probably the basis for the talk today about a three-power within a five-power agreement.

U. S. Envoys Impose Curb On Pacifists

London, March 31 (A.P.).—The American delegation to the naval conference, disturbed by what it considers to be the increase of efforts to influence unduly public opinion at home, tonight moved to circumscribe the activities and the privileges of representatives of several nonjournalistic organizations permitted to use the conference press room.

The general sentiment in the delegation was for the imposition of a rule that only those who send daily telegraphic reports of conference developments should be allowed to attend press conferences or enjoy the full use of the press room.

Press correspondents who accompanied the delegation to London have frequently made informal protests against alleged misuse of the press room and of the facilities available to accredited newspapermen.

Listed in the official press directory of the secretariat-general are a number of organizations that the American delegation feels have overemphasized peace propaganda, though with the most sincere motives. At delegation headquarters it was said the chief difficulty for the Americans in handling the situation lay in the fact that most of these organizations are officially recognized by the secretariat-general and are therefore entitled to press privileges.

Among those listed by the secretariat in the press directory are the American Committee for the Outlawry of War, the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace, the Foreign Policy Association and the National Council for the Prevention of War.

Those close to Secretary of State Stimson report that he is anxious to keep all but regular press representatives out of his own press conferences, most of which have been privately held for American correspondents.

An instance was reported in which one person, after presenting credentials from a large group of American dailies and using the press facilities for about six weeks, announced in the press room that he was leaving for the United States to lecture on the conference, but had not previously written home a single story about its activities.

On the other hand, some of those connected with different nonjournalistic organizations contend their use of press facilities is fully justified because they also represent individual newspapers. They further assert that they write for various bulletins published by their employers and therefore must have the same access to news sources as the correspondents of press associations and of metropolitan dailies.

A prominent foreign office official, explaining the granting of credentials before the conference began, said that the British had felt it would be simpler in certain cases to grant without question those asked for than to withhold them.

It is noteworthy that several organizations, including the League of Nations Union, are listed among the press representatives of the British Empire. Some attend the British press conferences at St. James' Palace, in addition to the American.

In discussing the possible measures to be taken, one American official this evening recalled the method that has so far been followed by the delegations in issuing a limited number of tickets for plenary sesions of the conference. Under this method at the outset it was decided by the correspondents themselves that only representatives of accredited press associations or daily newspapers sending telegraphic reports, should be allotted tickets, though in at least one instance an exception was made in the American press room, the representative of a group of religious weeklies being given a ticket.

Some of Mr. Stimson's advisers have in mind the application of this method to the American conferences, but it is not known whether the delegation will aprove it.

HOOVER'S VETO OF TARIFF BILL DEEMED LIKELY

Debenture May Be Used as Excuse, Should It Pass House.

MEASURE THREATENS FLEXIBILITY POWER

Possible Revision by President Seen as Bold Stroke.

PRESTIGE IN HOUSES WOULD BE ENHANCED

Full Report by Commission May Be Presented Within Week.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The possibility has developed that President Hoover may welcome the debenture feature as an excuse for vetoing the tariff bill in order to proclaim his own tariff revision through the exercise of his flexible power.

Indeed, one authority who professes to know of the President's dissatisfaction with many of the rates in the pending bill is counseling that the debenture be utilized for just such a purpose. Some substance is given to the story by the fact that as things are shaping up the President stands to lose his flexible power, at least the unfettered exercise of it, if he should sign a bill.

As matters now stand, there seems little likelihood that the debenture will reach the President. The agricultural members of the House have not rallied to it and it has now been arranged for the measure to go to conference today with instructions that the House conferees come back for a vote on cement and sugar, lumber and shingles, before settling these items in conference. In all of the bartering among the leaders, the agricultural group and the high tariff group, that preceded this arrangement there was little if any discussion of the debenture. And this seemed rather significant, in view of the determined stand of the Senate coalition.

Debenture Favor Seen.

It looked as if the debenture were being deliberately scuttled by the House agricultural members.

It is quite likely, however, that the debenture will come prominently to the fore again when the conferees come to the endurance stage. When the Senate conferees report to the Senate that the House conferees will not accpt the debenture, coalition senators will undoubtedly make the demand that a vote on the question be had in the House.

Now when this stage is reached it would be interesting, in view of the counsel that is being given, if the debenture should be found to have surprising strength. There are unquestionably any number of House members who would like to vote for the debenture if the reins on them were loosed.

Dissatisfaction of President.

Few, if any of the agricultural members relish facing an opponent in the forthcoming elections who will charge them with denying the farmer something. They may have their own views as to its economic soundness, but politically speaking they would not mind voting for it in the least.

So should the word go out that the debenture would best serve the President after all, it would be very easy for the measure to pass with the provision in it.

As to whether this procedure would be helpful is for those counselors who are urging it, particularly one, to worry about.

The President has been represented as being dissatisfied with the form the

Will Hays Bans Lure Of Sin in Film Plays

Crime and Punishment Must Henceforth Go Hand in Hand.

New York, March 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—Give ear, ye 250,000,000 children of the movie audience, to the latest commandment of Will H. Hays, the guardian angel of your favorite art and entertainment; its new-found voice henceforth shall not be lifted up in praise of illicit love, foul murder or strong drink.

No longer can the silver speech of the silver screen lisp lightly of the allurements of sin, it was decreed today. Crime, in the shadowy world of the cinema, must go hand in hand with punishment, and tippling must be followed not only by intoxication but disgrace.

Loudly had the ministers cried out against Hollywood "warbling its native woodnotes wild," booming strange oaths, hiccoughing in its cups, exterminating its villains with the casual rattle of a machine gun.

Their prayers were answered today when the board of directors of Mr Hays' organization, the Motion Picture Producers and Distributers of America, Inc., ratified a new code of movie conduct "that not only will determine the character of most pictures exhibited in 22,000 theaters in this country, but which serve a world audience of more than 250,000,000 people weekly."

SENATE NEARS FIGHT ON MUSCLE SHOALS

Slated to Take Up Issue Today; Huston Report Also on Program.

PARKER AGAIN ASSAILED

(Associated Press.)

Starting the last portion of the session today, the Senate will tackle the 10-year-old problem of disposing of the Muscle Shoals, Alabama power project, but it faces much general debate and routine legislation before the prospective adjournment on June 1.

Even before getting started on the Muscle Shoals debate, an outbreak of the long-deferred prohibition discussion is in prospect. Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, a wet, was preparing last night to assail the dry law.

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, will lead the Muscle Shoals contest. His resolution providing for Government control of the gigantic power project is the measure before the Senate. It was adopted two years ago by Congress, but was given a pocket veto by President Coolidge.

Opposition to it from the Hoover Administration has been indicated.

Secretary Hyde has announced objections, but Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, believes he can offer amendments to meet these.

Senate committees will swing into action also today and interest centers on the prospective report this week of the lobby committee on its inquiry into the activities of Claudius Huston, chairman of the Republican National committee, in behalf of Muscle Shoals legislation.

Signs of increasing restlessness in Republican ranks over the Huston situation led to a renewal yesterday of speculation whether he would resign his party chairmanship. Party

MERGER MAY BRING GAS SERVICE LEVY

New Feature Called Offset Where Consumption Is Unprofitable.

RATE CUT UNDER STUDY

A meter tax to be imposed on gas consumers whose consumption is below a profitable figure to the gas company, is a part of the plan of the new owners of the local gas companies, F. S. Burroughs, of Harris, Forbes & Co., declared yesterday at the public hearing held by the Public Utilities Commission on the proposed legislative authorization for a merger of the Washington and Georgetown companies.

No definite figure was specified by Mr. Burroughs nor did he indicate what he thought should be the minimum consumption, but he insisted that that matter could readily be ironed out later and the two figures fixed by the utilities commission at a point reasonable for consumer and producers alike.

Average rate reductions of at least 10 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas and "we hope more than 10 cents" was the way in which Mr. Burroughs formally put into the record of the hearing the intention of the new owners to submit a new and reduced rate schedule immediately after the gas merger was approved by Congress.

The contemplated rate reductions would mean a loss of $400,000 a year to the two companies under the present rate of consumption, he said, but added that "we do not intend, however, to lose that amount, but intend to overcome that loss through increased consumption of gas."

Gas is to be put into direct and effective competition with coal and oil in household and commercial heating and other uses, Mr. Burroughs said. Additional capital is needed to

Charge Faced By Two In $100,000 Abduction

St. Louis Gangster and Kansas City Man Accused of Kidnaping and Extortion as Wealthy Victim Maintains Silence.

Kansas City, Mo., March 31 (A.P.).—Eddie "Google-Eyed" Leonard, St. Louis gangster, and Bossie Nigro, of Kansas City, were formally charged late today with the kidnaping and extortion of $100,000 from Michael H. Katz, wealthy drug company executive, here last March 18.

The charges were the first filed in the case, the last of a series of reported abductions of wealthy Kansas citizens. Leonard and Nigro were denied bail and placed in the county jail after arraignment before Justice of the Peace Joseph J. Dougherty.

Leonard told police that he operated a used car firm at 1447 Cass avenue, St. Louis. He was brought here from St. Louis last night. Nigro, 33, told officers he was in Omaha at the time of the abduction.

Raymond Tipton, 22, wanted by Chief of Detectives Edward P. Boyle for questioning in connection with the case, surrendered to St. Louis police late today on a charge not related to the Katz case. Chief Boyle was informed Tipton was released on $25,000 bond returnable April 10.

Katz today again refused to discuss the case with police. The officers said the kidnapers extracted from the wealthy drug company president a promise of silence under threat of death.

Katz, however, said he had never seen Leonard after viewing Leonard's photograph. The St. Louis man served a term at Leavenworth Federal Prison for a confessed part in the Pocohontas, Ill., mail robbery, June 15, 1923.

The county grand jury called for tomorrow is expected to attempt to pierce the veil of silence. Michael Katz and his brother and business partner, Isaac Katz, are listed as possible witnesses to be subpenaed.

Leonard's arrest followed the finding near St. Charles, Mo., of a wrecked motor car which had been purchased in Kansas City. The serial numbers on currency given in payment for the car correspond with the numbers of currency obtained by the Katz family from the Federal Reserve Bank here on a special order from a bank with which Katz does business.

A motor car of the general description of the automobile which crowded Katz' car to the curb near his home in an exclusive residential district was located today near Marshall, Mo.

Leonard, in a statement to police, said a black coupe in which he had driven to Leavenworth, Kans., was left at a garage near Marshall.

Admiral Slashes Red Tape To Save U. S. Consul's Life

(Associated Press.)

Reports reaching the State Department yesterday told how an American admiral ignored governmental red tape to save the life of an American consul seriously ill at his post in Foochow, China. The consul, is Samuel Sokobin, of Newark, N. J. The admiral is Charles McVay, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet.

Mr. Sokobin telegraphed the American Legation at Peiping on February 26 that he had been ill for ten days and feared he was suffering with fever.

On March 3 a physician wired the legation confirming this diagnosis and a week later he reported to the American Legation that pleurisy had set in.

Fifteen days later, with Mr. Sokobin apparently unconscious, the legation heard that the doctors themselves could not agree on a diagnosis. The American Legation wired the State Department to ask it to take the ordinary channels toward obtaining a navy vessel and a naval doctor to go to the relief of the stricken man.

Yesterday, following those channels, the State Department received word from the Navy Department that what

HOUSE G. O. P. SETS PROGRAM ON TARIFF BILL

Party Differences Over Procedure Adjusted by Leaders.

CONFERENCE TO GET MEASURE DIRECTLY

DEMOCRATS ASSAIL PLAN OF OPPOSITION

Garner Insists Its Adoption Will Provide 'Trading Stock' for Conferees.

(Associated Press.)

House Republicans settled their party differences over procedure with the tariff bill yesterday by agreeing to send the measure directly to conference with the Senate, but providing for House votes on sugar, cement, lumber and shingles before these rates are finally determined by the conferees.

Agreement was reached after three previous sessions of the Republican chieftains had failed to smooth out differences. It was a compromise between administration forces who wanted the bill sent to conference in the regular way by disagreeing to all Senate amendments and certain groups desiring separate preconference votes on the quartet of controversial duties.

A rule to carry out the program agreed upon will be formulated today and an effort made to adopt it tomorrow.

Farm Senators Satisfied.

Although they preferred placing the House on record on the disputed rates before the conference, farm State Republicans appeared satisfied with the arrangement by which House conferees would not bind themselves on sugar, cement, lumber and shingles without coming back to the House for a record vote.

"This is exactly what we requested in the Republican conference at the time the tariff bill was first up," said Representative Johnson (Republican), South Dakota.

"We probably will get more votes on these items after the bill has been in conference a while."

Democrats, who wanted an opportunity to vote on all the 1,250 Senate amendments, assailed the Republican program.

Suggestion by Garner.

"I can see no reason for delaying action on the tariff by sending the entire bill to conference," said Representative Garner, of Texas, the Democratic leader.

"My contention is that we should expedite the measure by voting on the Senate amendments by schedules, thereby assuring that many of the most controversial features will not go to conference.

"Under the program proposed by the majority leaders I doubt if it will be possible to secure final action before June 1.

"I wish to suggest to those representatives who are interested in the welfare of agriculture that a vote for the majority program will be a vote against the Senate's amendments to the agricultural schedule, and that adoption of the program will mean that the Senate's agricultural rates will be just that much trading stock for the conferees."

Line-up Not Yet Known.

How the House would line up on the four major rates is not known, but in all instances except one the Senate has curtailed or eliminated entirely the House duties.

The House increased the Cuban sugar tariff from 1.76 to 2.40 cents a

Mae West Trial Elivened By 'Allez Oop' of Acrobats

Pair of Tumblers Stage Their Turn in Court to Show Judge What They Contributed to Play, "Pleasure Man."

New York, March 31 (A.P.).—Something new in courtroom procedure enlivened today's session of the trial of Mae West and 56 others, mostly actors, involved in the presentation of "Pleasure Man," Miss West's new play which was closed as objectionable by the police in October, 1928.

"Allez-oop!" grunted a tall, stringy man, and a little, chunky man, who a few minutes before had been turning handsprings over at one side of the courtroom to limber up, leaped nimbly to his shoulders.

The judge in his trailing robe came down off the bench, and the jurors left the jury box and crowded around as Herman Lenzen and William Selig, acrobats, showed them just what they contributed to "Pleasure Man." Their act, detectives have testified, was one of the reasons why police closed the show.

After explaining that they had been doing this same act for three years in vaudeville, Lenzen and Selig went through it twice for the jury today.

Otherwise, today's session was dull, with minor witnesses for the defense going over their lines, word by word, under direct and cross-examination. The trial having entered today its third week, the judge threatened to hold night sessions if it is not speeded up.

GIRL SOUGHT BY POLICE IN FIHELLY CASE

Trio Indicted For Alleged 'Shakedown'

Interest in the alleged police "shakedown" scandal which came to light several days ago with the shooting of James Crotts was revived yesterday when the District grand jury returned an indictment charging Ardie C. Swortzell, suspended Fourth Precinct policeman; John C. Elgin and Crotts with conspiracy to extort money from two women as "protection" against arrest.

Crotts is still confined at Casualty Hospital as a result of his wound, while Detective S. F. Gravely, of the Third Precinct, and Detective William F. Burke, also of the Third Precinct, as well as Swortzell face charges before the Trail Board as a result of the affair.

Gravely is alleged to have shot Crotts while he and Burke were investigating an alleged holdup at the home of Rose Marie Foster, one of the reputed victims of the alleged shakedown. Burke, while not charged in connection with the shooting or the alleged shakedown, was suspended when it was learned that he had sought a bond for the Foster woman last November when she was arrested on a disorderly house charge.

The indictment against the three men follows an investigation conducted last week. Two alleged overt acts are recited. In one, it is charged that the trio "extorsively demanded" $30 from the Foster woman at a house on First street near U street northwest.

In the other, it is charged that they "extorsively demanded" $25 from Ada Reid, colored, at a house on P street near Eighth street northwest.

The alleged "shake down" of the Foster woman is fixed as March 19, while the Reed woman is said to have been approached two days previously.

It is charged that between January 1 and March 20 the trio "did unlawfully, wilfully, feloniously and corruptly conspire, confederate, combine and agree with one another and each with the other, and others, that they would and should commit an offense against the United States of America, that is to say, that they, the said defendants aforesaid, would and should unlawfully, wilfully, feloniously, corruptly, decitfully and extorsively, by color of said office and position and employment of the said Ardie C. Swortzell, exact, extort and demand of divers violators of the criminal laws of the District * * * sums of money as fees for refraining from aresting or causing to be arrested the said violators of the said criminal laws of the District."

Gravely also is charged with assault with a dangerous weapon in connection with the shooting of Crotts.

He is scheduled for a preliminary hearing in Police Court on April 4, when the victim, it is thought, will be able to leave the hospital.

Police Chief Will Get Stoll's Report on Beating Today.

NO EXPLANATION YET MADE BY DETECTIVE

Attacked Officer Claims He Does Not Know Assailants.

DIFFERING ACCOUNTS OF ARREST ARE GIVEN

Maj. Pratt Also Is Awaiting Data on Warrantless Letterman Raid.

Inspector Louis J. Stoll is expected to submit today a report to Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, on the unexplained assault on Detective Sergt. Arthur T. Fihelly in the early morning hours of Sunday. Inspector Stoll is still awaiting Fihelly's report. He also is seeking the girl in the case for her version.

Fihelly yesterday was on sick leave, nursing a bruised eye but Detective Sergt. Benjamin J. Kuehling, his headquarters partner, discounted reports that the beating given Fihelly may cause the loss of his eyesight.

So far no logical explanation has been given of the affair. Fihelly told inquirers that he did not know the men who had attacked him, adding that he intended to know them, but he has been loath to discuss the affair.

Fihelly was said to have been calling on a young woman in her apartment at Sixteenth and S streets northwest when two men came to the apartment door and after a few words the detective left with them, returning subsequently to get his hat and coat, bleeding from a cut over one eye and apparently angry.

In the meantime Mrs. Mary Laber, manager of the apartment house, had called the Eighth Precinct police station, saying that three men were creating a disturbance in the apartment hall. Policeman Ruby Downs, in the station on emergency duty, responded to the call and it was while he was talking with Mrs. Laber that Fihelly made his appearance in the hallway. Mrs. Laber had told Downs, he said, that two of the three men she had seen arguing vehemently in the hallway had left the apartment house, but that one man was still in the building and she wished his identity discovered.

Fihelly, however, refused to make known his name and Downs said that he told him he would have to go to the precinct station. One account had it that the detective sergeant declared "that is your pleasure," and went along peacefully enough, but another account had it that he objected so strenuously that the patrol with several policemen from the station was called.

No charges were placed against Fihelly at the station, however, Capt. R. E. Doyle, commander of the precinct, ordering Fihelly released under instructions to make a report of the affair to his commanding officer at the Detective Bureau.

Mrs. Laber yesterday insisted that there was no fight in the apartment building. She declared that she had been awakened by an argument over a telephone call, apparently made a few minutes before to the apartment at which Fihelly was visiting. Subsequently, Mrs. Laber said, the three men left the apartment house when she ordered them out, but she feared they might return and called the police station. Police at the station said they were informed that a fight was taking place in the apartment house.

Girl in Apartment Leaves.

The woman occupant of the apartment at which Fihelly was visiting was said to have left the apartment yesterday. She had lived there three Capital Residents Escape Drowning Below Annapolis.

A narrow escape from a watery grave in the overturning Sunday of a canoe on the South River, 4 miles south of Annapolis, Md., was experienced by Miss Christine Doyle, 23-year-old Georgetown Hospital nurse, and Earl Wenger, 27 years old, of 3815 Cathedral avenue, a salesman.

Frank Siama, Annapolis merchant, heard the cries of Miss Doyle and Wenger, who were clinging to the overturned canoe about 400 yards from shore. He ran several hundred yards along the shore until he located a rowboat.

Aided by his wife and son, Mr Siama paddled with improvised oars to the canoe and effected the rescue just as Wenger, exhausted, was losing his grip on the craft.

weeks, it was said. She is said to have told investigating officers that she heard no disturbance and could not say who the men were who called at her apartment door for the detective sergeant.

Fihelly very probably was the victim of mistaken identity, she said and evidently the men came to the wrong apartment, thinking to find some one else. Fihelly himself said that he was struck with a weapon probably a blackjack.

Maj. Pratt is expecting a report today from Inspector T. R. Bean on the warrantless liquor raid made last week by Sergt. Oscar J. Letterman and his vice squad on the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Eleck Harmon, on S street near Sixteenth street northwest.

Criminal Action Threatened.

Criminal warrants and civil suits have been threatened against the vice squad members but it was said yesterday, that such action would be withheld pending action by the Police Department itself against the raiders. In the meantime, however, no formal complaints have been been lodged by the aggrieved couple with the police chief's office.

Although Maj Pratt had declared flatly that he will order the men before the trial board if a formal complaint is lodged against them it is not regarded as likely that he will do so unless the raided parties deem themselves sufficiently harmed to make a complaint.

Sixteenth Street Portal Approved

Park Commission Plans to Complete Project in Short Time.

The Sixteenth street entrance to Washington, which for some time has been under discussion both in Congress and the National Park and Planning Commission, will be completed within a short time, according to announcement yesterday by Capt. E. N. Chisholm, engineer of the Planning Commission.

The plans, which have been indorsed by the District government and the State of Maryland, call for an over-all width on Sixteenth street of 160 feet, with a 70-foot central panel and a 38-foot wide road on either side.

The commission has purchased land on both sides of the street, where parks will be built. A monument at the District entrance, which will form the end of the boulevard portal, will have a cascade tumbling down into a pool, where Sixteenth street slopes down hill toward the District line.

Bethesda Department Elects New Fire Chief

E. S. Ryan, Bethesda contractor, last night was elected chief of the Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department at a meeting held in the firehouse. Mr. Ryan succeeds Chief Dudley Browne, who resigned because of pressure of personal business.

Wade Imirie, who was first chief of the volunteer fire department, presented the silver service which was the gift of the department to the retiring chief. Mr. Imirie told of the efforts of Chief Browne and lauded the results of his administration, which had given Bethesda one of the best fire departments in the county. Chief Browne said that he regretted exceedingly having to leave the post as chief, but his patent law practice is requiring too much of his time to permit efficient handling of the chief's job. He remains a member of the department.

ATTACKED

DETECTIVE ARTHUR T. FIHELLY.

DEATH TOLL IN BOAT CRASH PUT AT EIGHT

CAUSE IS IN DISPUTE

St. Helens, Oreg., March 31 (A.P.). The death toll of the collision between the freighter Davenport and the excursion barge Swan on the Columbia River early yesterday was tentatively fixed at eight tonight. Four bodies had been recovered, a fifth located and three others were still hidden in the gray river waters.

The freighter rammed the Swan which was carrying 286 passengers on a pleasure trip. The barge was in tow of the tug Dix, which sank. In the sunken tug was the body of a boy, Richard Belland, jr., 13, son of the owner of the Swan.

The known dead: Richard Belland, jr., J. E. Larson, Mrs. G. E. Lundy, Mrs. Nettie Hagedorn and Mrs. Stanley Stone.

Hope had all but vanished that Lee Seigle, Fred Hoffman and C. G. Brown, missing, might have escaped a similar fate. Harbor patrolmen were dragging the bottom of the Columbia River late today searching for bodies.

The Davenport and the Swan collided as the barge was returning to Vancouver, Wash., from Longview, Wash. The cause of the disaster will be sought by Government officials.

"My lights were in order," Capt. R. J. Belland of the Swan said. "My lookout was not in the wrong. We did not see the Davenport until she was upon us, and then it was too late."

Isaac Turppa, pilot in charge of the Davenport's down-river voyage, said: "The Swan did not have regulation lights. I saw a small light some distance down the river and supposed it was a fishing craft."

TWO STAFFS NAMED FOR WATER WORKS

Annapolis Republicans Turn Tables on Democrats by Restoring By-Laws.

OUTCOME IS IN DOUBT

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 31.—Management of affairs of the Annapolis Water Co., a municipally-owned concern, today passed under Republican regime by virtue of the qualification of T. Roland Brown, recently appointed to the presidency by Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt, Republican, giving the Republicans three members of the board of directors against two Democrats.

The new board held its initial meeting tonight and proceeded to elect a staff of office and plant officials to supplant Democrats, who have been holding office for a decade and who were recently elected for a two-year term, through a rather unusual procedure engineered by the outgoing Democratic regime. The coup, which was to save these offices to the Democratic incumbents was brought about by amending the by-laws governing the board of directors by providing for a special election of these officials prior to the change of administration. This action was approved by the city council and the appointees were named to serve until after the annual meeting in July, 1932.

Republicans Restore By-laws.

Tonight, however, the Republicans turned the tables by restoring the by-laws to their original form and elected the following slate: Secretary and treasurer, Charles H. Sherman, to succeed Dr. Frank H. Thompson; collector, William G. Brewer, to succeed J. Henry Zeller; superintendent of the water works, Albert Krapf, to succeed Thomas H. Stinchcomb, and engineer, Charles B. Hyde, to succeed William J. Engle.

Participating in the election were President Brown, Mayor Quenstedt, Alderman Charles Oliver, colored, Republican, and D. V. Bright, Democrat. City Counselor George Woelfel, the other Democratic member, was not present.

What the ultimate outcome of the muddle will be is causing much speculation. At the close of tonight's meeting, Dr. Thompson was asked to turn over the books to his successor tomorrow, but stoutly replied that he would not. Later, he was asked if he and his associates would remain at their posts for a ten-day period with pay to "break in" in the new appointees, and his reply was equally as stern.

Directors Are Paymasters.

In the meantime, however, the new officials have been instructed to be on the job tomorrow. There is a Republican majority of one, however, as the board of directors and the directors are the paymasters.

The Democrats assert that the action of the outgoing directorate stands as binding for the next two years. Republicans, on the other hand, assert that their action in restoring the bylaws to original form is not subject to ratification by the council, nor was it necessary for the former directors to pursue such a course.

Merchant Who Spurned Safe Is Robbed of $200

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., March 31.—A safe is not a safe place to keep money, reasoned W. W. Gabbert, Staunton merchant. It cost him $200 to find out otherwise. When he closed his store Saturday night, Mr. Gabbert took the day's receipts home with him, instead of placing the cash and checks in his safe. At home he locked the money in his desk.

Sunday night he was absent from the house about an hour and a half. When he returned the $200 was gone. Police and a finger print expert are investigating.

Glass Buys New Site For Lynchburg Papers

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., March 31.—Senator Carter Glass, owner of the News and the Advance, the two Lynchburg daily newspapers, announced today the purchase of a site at Ninth and Church streets for erection thereon of a new building to house the plant of his papers.

The present building has been sold to the Federal Government, and will be razed to include its site in the land for the new postoffice building here. Work is to be started on the new building in two months, or as soon as present occupants, a marble yard, can vacate.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Not in session.

Senator Overman (Democrat), North Carolina, announced that hearings on the nomination of Judge John J. Parker to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court will begin Saturday before a judiciary subcommittee.

HOUSE.

Met at 12 and adjourned at 2:20 to 12 today.

Republican leaders agreed to send the tariff bill direct to conference with the understanding that no agreement should be entered on rates on cement, sugar, lumber and shingles without a separate vote by the House on these items.

Adopted and sent to the Senate the McMillan resolution providing for the appointment of three senators and three representatives to attend the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the founding of Charleston, S. C.

Representative Langley (Republican), Kentucky, introduced a bill removing all time limits placed by previous legislation on the filing of claims growing out of service in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps in any war.

Adopted and sent to the Senate a resolution appropriating $20,000 for participation of the United States in the International Fur Trade Exhibition and Congress to be held in Germany.

Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, blocked passage of the Wood resolution appropriating $2,665,000 for the Justice Department, to supply funds for increased prohibition law enforcement work.

Representative Johnson (Republican), Indiana, introduced a bill returning to policy holders premiums on uncollected war-risk insurance issued on the lives of seamen during the World War.

Interstate commerce committee will begin hearings in the investigation into railroad holding and investment trust companies on Saturday.

Representative Leavitt (Republican), Montana, introduced a resolution marking the spot on which Lewis and Clark held the first celebration of American Independence in the frontier country with a monument at a cost of $25,000.

CHAPTER X—PAGING MR. BARNUM.

My little violinist, De Vorzon, is a sort of buffoon. He has a personality that bubbles over and expresses itself in a dozen and one crazy antics and ideas, and as we play up to each other in our comedy numbers he reacts upon me and makes me quite a different individual for the moment.

Then my drummer, Toland, with his extreme size and happy-go-lucky personality, and Miller, my tenor sax, who has a mania for making almost as many faces as Lon Chaney, have helped make many a comedy number extremely laughable.

The germ of the idea is often mine and the subsequent outline I usually develop, but it is the little extemporaneous bits that the boys themselves think of that top off or complete the comedy sketches which we present even while the crowd is dancing.

Our first comedy number was a tune which I had been playing for several years. It was an old college tune which had only been played by two bands, our own and the orchestra directed by the boy who wrote the tune. Years before I heard it I had conceived the idea of exaggerated gestures with each word or line capable of illustration in pantomime in songs at dances.

Gold Diggers Given Idea.

The first tune which gave me this idea was a number from one of the early editions of the "Scandals" called "The Gold Diggers." In this number the word "dig" was illustrated by pantomime digging; the word "swim" by the movement of swimming, "Fifth avenue" by five fingers of the hand held upright, &c.

Gestures done by one man alone are hardly noticed, but when done by the front line of the band in perfect unison they hold the audience quite spellbound, and it was nothing unusual for the crowd to stop dancing and gather around us during the course of such a chorus.

"Show Me the Way to Go Home" was the next number that suggested itself to me as good material.

Both of these numbers, however, were just a little too moss covered to be used by our Heigh-Ho Club Band, so I dug up this old but new, college song, "You'll Love Me Some Day. So Why Not Now?"

On the line, "Think what you're missing" we all assumed an attitude of thought. On "It's a shame" we made a gesture of embarrassment and mortification. We illustrated "You miss the kissing" by blowing a kiss into the air. "In open spaces" we illustrated by the Indian gesture of shading the eyes from the sun. "Where men are men" we illustrated by bending the arm in a way to show the muscle. "A chicken never waits till she's a hen" was illustrated by bringing the hand up, indicating growth, to different heights from the floor. On the word "vow" we raised our right hands in an attitude of taking a vow.

Faces Always Brighten.

However listless our crowd may be when we begin a number like this the faces brighten and turn toward the band stand to watch the gestures we make as we sing the tune. But it remained for one of the greatest public dance hall orchestra leaders in the country to give me the idea of using props. (We now carry with us two hundred-odd dollars' worth of props in order to put over some of our best comedy numbers.) This band, which tours the New England States playing public dance halls, puts on practically a whole vaudeville show during the course of their numbers. They carry a special entertainer who sings and does practically whatever comes into his very clever head as he stands in front of the band. Meanwhile the band utilizes its props, among which are two big stuffed dummies, which almost look like life-sized flappers. Two of the boys dance with these and do a comedy number built around "Oh How We Love the College Girls!" They also have a great assortment of props for a wonderful chorus on "Crazy Words, Crazy Tune," and many other numbers.

When I heard them go through some of their comedy numbers, I realized the tremendous possibilities of such a thing, even in the most elite and fashionable night or supper clubs. Human nature is the same the world over; we all enjoy entertainment for the eye, even of the crazy and meaningless sort.

Key Is Worth Its Cost.

I have always made acknowledgment to Mal Hallett for having given me the idea of purchasing and using expensive props to put over a simple number. I paid $5 to have a large wooden key made to use in our "Outside" number. The ripple of laughter which goes over either our theater or supper club audience when the key is first produced is worth many times its cost. We have expensive silk toppers and opera hats for various numbers; in fact I have a very clever artist who stands ready at all times to make up any sort of a hat, either in paper or cloth, when I might need it for some number.

Waring's Pennsylvanians stand out in my mind as the greatest stage entertaining band in the world. Their neat, faultless attire, combined with their immaculate appearance and youth, the West Pointlike precision of everything they do in action, combined with the beauty, rhythm and tone of their music puts them on a plane all by themselves.

Any one who has ever seen their wonderful "Dancing Dominoes," or "Dancing Tambourine," or "Wobally Walk" numbers (especially the first two), will never forget the effects they secure with the lighted dominoes and lighted tambourines in the dark. They are almost unbelievably excellent and their work is the result of a brilliant conception and patient practice. I believe that Fred Waring deserves every bit of the tremendous popularity he has achieved.

Much as I would have liked to produce entertainment of this sort in a supper club, I realized that I did not have enough men to really create such a wonderful picture, but I did develop fully the possibilities suggested to me by Mal Hallett and his band.

We carry five flash boxes, little metal boxes into which we put flash powder which is exploded by electric contact controlled by a switch far away. We use this for many comic effects—when the devil is coming up through the floor, or some fellow puts on a ridiculous hat, or, in the case of our Naval Medley, when one of the sailors spits out some supposedly bad liquor which is so strong that it ignites when it touches the floor. I believe our Naval Medley is one of the best things we do.

It is done with every one wearing sailors' hats, and we have a storm at sea, with lightning effects, the howl of the gale, a fog horn in the harbor, and, of course, a comic passenger who answers the captain's command to go to the life boats by appearing wearing a bathrobe and holding a hot-water bottle in his hand. In this Naval Medley we play many would-be naval songs and some genuine naval chanteys that I learned while in the Navy, ending with the Naval Academy song, "Anchors A-Weigh."

In direct contrast to that, and to appease those who prefer the Army, we have our Army Medley in which we all wear steel helmets, and in place of the storm at sea we have an airplane attack. A blue light comes down from above and two of the boys search for the airplane while I imitate the noise of its motors on my saxophone, by sustaining a low note. We have pistol shots, and our flash box explodes as would bombs when thrown to earth from an airplane. In this medley we play many of the songs that were popular during the war such as "Over There," "Madelon," "Pack Up Your Troubles," Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning," "Oh, How I Miss You Dear Old Pal," "Long, Long Trail," "Tipperary," "Hinky, Dinky, Parley Voo," and "My Buddy." I end this by playing "Taps" with a muted saxophone, sounding like a bugle in the distance, while the lights of the entire club gradually die down leaving only one blue light from above striking my steel helmet.

Leaves Audience Subdued.

This always leaves the entire audience very subdued and quiet for the next two or three seconds. Of course, as we play these different songs, especially on the brightest of nights, the week-end nights, Friday and Saturday, nearly every one either hums sings or whistles these tunes, which will never die in popular fancy. They are especially dear to the hearts of those who knew them during the dark days of 1914 to 1918.

We are particularly fortunate at the Villa Vallee in having a switchboard even larger and more elaborate than that of many of the best theaters. All in all, the villa has something like 2,000 lights on the stage and in the spacious part where the guests dance and dine. Our switchboard operator gives a different lighting effect for every number. A moonlight number and you have the feeling of a country lane in the moonlight. In the case of a warm passionate number, red is the predominating color, and so on.

Of course our Army and Navy Medleys would not be half so striking if we were lacking in these wonderful lighting effects. But one of my greatest feelings of pleasure and happiness came at a country club where our lighting effects were very meager, when Elsie Janis, who, of course, is so dear to all of those who knew her overseas, stopped and applauded our airplane attack in the War Medley.

If we did all our medleys and comedy numbers together, I have estimated that we could give almost a nonstop two-hour show. Some of the numbers we rarely do. One of them we still receive requests for, and that is Cole Porter's immortal "Let's Do It," in which I had five complete choruses to memorize, each one dealing with different nationalities, different insects, different birds, different forms of fish and different animals.

Mood Needed for Comedy.

I have noticed that there are nights when to do our comedy numbers seems almost impossible, nights when the entire band seems a little out of sorts. However, I have found, too, that it is absolutely essential that I be in the mood to do it, or the numbers invariably fall flat. There is very little doubt in my mind but that enthusiasm is very contagious and that when I am dispirited or unable to enter into the numbers with a zest the boys themselves find it difficult to be lively.

I am fortunate in being blessed with good health and a superabundance of vitality, and we have never let an evening pass without doing at least two or three, or even more, comedy numbers, depending upon the requests (which sometimes are entirely for songs or sweet numbers).

I smile when I recall my career as a magician at the Heigh-Ho Club. There was a tune called "Persian Rug," which suggested the kind of thing a magician would have the orchestra play in a vaudeville theater while he did his magic tricks. I gave the boys a great surprise one night when I produced handkerchiefs that changed color, and an egg that disappeared into a small red bag. I performed these things while they played "Persian Rug," and the crowd danced around to watch the tricks. I have often wished I had more time to learn many sleight of hand acts so that I might present them against that beautiful melody of "Persian Rug."

FALL FILES APPEAL IN DISTRICT COURT

Plea Presents Five Points Why Verdict Should Be Set Aside.

DOHENY'S TRIAL IS CITED

(Associated Press.)

The appeal of Albert B. Falls, former Secretary of the Interior, from his conviction on charges of accepting a $100,000 bribe from Edward L. Doheny was filed yesterday in the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

The appeal, which was filed by Frank J. Hogan, counsel for Mr. Fall, set up five points as to why the verdict of the lower court should be set aside.

It maintained that the charge against Mr. Fall should have been dismissed because Secretary Denby and not Mr. Fall had power over the oil reserve which the Government charged Mr. Fall awarded the California oil man after receiving the bribe.

As its second reason, the appeal said that when Mr. Fall and Mr. Doheny were acquitted of conspiracy growing out of the same transaction, the Government was barred from trying Mr. Fall again.

Thirdly, it said that Justice William Hitz in the District of Columbia Supreme Court erred in admitting certain testimony as evidence against Mr. Fall.

The fourth and fifth reasons set up were that Justice Hitz in his charge virtually directed the jury to return a verdict of guilty with a recommendation of clemency and that this action in effect deprived Mr. Fall of the right of trial by jury.

The brief contained 400 pages with a digest of all the proceedings of Mr. Fall's bribery trial. It was signed yesterday by Justice Hitz and was filed in the Court of Appeals in the afternoon.

The appeal was filed nine days after Mr. Doheny had been acquitted of giving Mr. Fall a bribe.

West Virginia Farmer Succumbs to Illness

Special to The Washington Post.

Charles Town, W. Va., March 31.—R. Rion Lucas, a well-known farmer of Shepherdstown section, died late yesterday evening after a short illness, aged 59 years. He was a prominent Knight Templar and Shriner. The deceased was a son of the late James B. Lucas. Surviving are his widow, who was a Miss Osborne; a son and a daughter. Two brothers, former Postmaster A. S. Lucas and Daniel B. Lucas, both of Shepherdstown, and a sister, Mrs. Walter B. Stehl, wife of the Rev. Walter B. Stehl, rector of the Episcopal Church at Hagerstown.

Mrs. Nancy Nichols, widow of Robert Nichols, of Uvila section, died yesterday, aged 72. A son and two daughters survive.

Alpine Planes May Use Skis.

Pescocostanzo, Italy, March 31 (A.P.).—Minister of Aeronautics Gen. Balbo himself has carried out experiments here with a touring plane furnished with ski-landing-gear instead of wheels. Balbo took off and landed on the snow both on a regular landing field and on chance fields chosen from the air. His experiments may lead to the equipping of all Italian planes in this region with skis.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE: Have you made up your party for the opening night of the Metropolitan Opera which holds forth here at the Fox Theater April 23, 24 and 25? Besides the joy of the event from a musical standpoint, we will all be happy to see gay crowds of fashionables in their loveliest clothes. The shops all over town are planning to have special window displays the week before, so that the city will present a gala festive appearance for the occasion.

With the races opening at Bowie today, we might say that the spring season is definitely on. Spring in Washington is really delightful. There is so much to do, and so many places to go. Have you seen the cherry blossoms? More lovely than ever, wouldn't you say?

Fountain Service At The Hob-Nob

—appeals to everyone, who enjoys the sociability of taking a few minutes in the afternoon to sit in unusual surroundings having a chat over a tall cold drink.

If you have liked the Hob-Nob Cafeteria, 1010 F street, you will surely approve of their tea-room on the second floor. It boasts a series of rooms cleverly decorated in the highly modern manner, black and gold, green, and other colors, with artistic lighting effects. The tea-room is open continuously from 11:30 to 8 in the evening. The cafeteria is open from 11 to 2:30 and from 4 to 7:30.

Training Down For Present Styles

—is the occupation of all fastidious women. It does not mean a strict diet either. It means for the most part going into Elizabeth Arden's, 1147 Connecticut avenue, and interviewing the clever young woman in charge of the exercise department. She will decide just what you need and will put you through a course so beneficial and at the same time so enjoyable, you will never give it up.

The exercise room has high arched windows, with the sun streaming through discreetly drawn tomato-colored taffeta curtains. The floor has geometric angles in black and colors in the modern manner, with a tumbling pad of pale blue satin. Do see it!

Riding To Hounds In Spring Sunshine

—is one of the rarest sports imaginable! All of society takes to the out-of-doors these days. Girls who are having pictures of themselves made, are posing in riding habits, especially if they have swanky new things. The window at Underwood & Underwood's this week has charming studies of local society girls in riding clothes. The artists in this famous studio seem to catch the mood of a costume, so that the pictures suggest the fragrant breath of spring. The large portrait in the center, of Jane Kendall (taken before she became Mrs. George Grant Mason) is one of the most delightful portraits ever made of this beautiful young woman.

Just drop in Underwood & Underwood's the next time you are ready for a ride, and have a smart picture made of yourself in your pet riding habit.

New Gowns For The "Little Season"

—occupy the attention of the feminine members of society. In Pasternak's, 1219 Connecticut avenue, women are selecting day and evening gowns for spring and summer. The opera season, April 23, 24, 25, will be the occasion of the initiation of many handsome costumes. Selections for this event are being made in Pasternak's, even now. It is not so far off, this date.

It is the custom of many women to view the collections of smart models as soon as they arrive, and to choose their entire wardrobe, as rapidly as they can. This finishes the task before hot weather, and puts you in a position to enjoy the pleasure of summer when it comes, unfettered by shopping cares.

Tailleurs, furs, evening and day gowns, hats, are shown in splendid variety at Pasternak's, 1219 Connecticut avenue.

Dainty Little Frocks Found At Schwartz —are in such a wide range of sizes that even if you wear as small as size eleven you can be perfectly fitted, and of course the larger sizes are found in a splendid variety.

There is simply no describing the delicately patterned, colorful frocks for immediate wear, and for all summer use, as well. A pale green chiffon with white pin-dots has a removable shoulder cape. A wide skirted taffeta evening gown has a splashy pattern in many colors. French blue taffeta has tiers of flounces and an Eton jacket, for a young girl. The models shown now in Schwartz are perfectly wonderful, and are priced from $16.50. Schwartz, 1325 Connecticut avenue.

LABOR GOVERNMENT AGAIN IS DEFEATED

MacDonald Regime Beaten in Commons Ballot on Minor Point.

WINS VOTE TO ADJOURN

London, March 31 (A.P.).—For the second time since it took office ten months ago, the MacDonald government was defeated on a minor point in the House of Commons today.

The vote was close, 183 to 179, and took the ministry by surprise. The Labor members were speedily rounded up, and on a Conservative motion to adjourn the House immediately following, the government was victorious by 185 to 175.

The defeat came on a question of procedure, the government desiring to suspend the rule that the house adjourn at 11 p. m. It was greeted by loud cheering and cries of "Resign!" from the Conservative benches, but after the flurry was over it was not taken very seriously.

The check is not expected to have important political consequences, and its only immediate effect is to delay discussion of the business of the sessions by preventing the cabinet from getting work through more rapidly.

Two Marylanders Face Highway Robbery Count

Two men were arrested and placed in the county jail at La Plata, Md., yesterday charged with highway robbery by Maryland State Policeman F. S. Haddaway, he reported last night to the Laurel substation. The man, William Henry Harris, Clements, Md., and Charles Owens, Oakley, Md., were held on $1,000 bond each.

Haddaway's leg was wrenched in the tussle when he arrested the men the substation reports. Deputy Sheriff Hicks, of Waldorf, assisted in the arrest. The men are alleged to have stolen $167 from Joseph P. Blackstone, of River Springs, Md., after striking him on the head with a crank handle while riding in the car with him.

Police Seize Stolen Car Containing Alleged Rum

Hyattsville police yesterday seized a truck and a small automobile and fourteen cases of alleged liquor which were turned over to the Federal prohibition office. The truck later was returned to Louis Miller, Washington groceryman, who had reported its theft some time previously to Washington police.

Chief of Police Albert Anderson, Bailiff Albert Anderson, jr., and Special Officer Lloyd Anderson saw two colored men transferring the alleged liquor from the truck to the light car near Franklin street and Oakwood road, Hyattsville, and attempted to capture them. The men escaped in the woods nearby, however.

Two Telephone Employes Get Medals for Heroism

Vail Awards Are Received by Winchester and Capital Women.

Miss Marion Boyd, a clerk in the commercial department of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., Washington, and Mrs. Vera C. MacMillan, night chief telephone operator of the Chesapeake & Potomac Co. branch at Winchester, Va., have just been awarded Vail medals for distinguished public service.

The award goes to Miss Boyd for her courage and resourcefulness in saving a young girl from drowning at South River Beach, Md., June 30, 1929. After saving one girl, Miss Boyd made an unsuccessful attempt to rescue another.

Mrs. MacMillan was given the medal for her initiative and quick thinking in notifying police of sounds like the blows of a hammer on steel heard over a telephone located in the office of a creamery at 2 a. m. on January 20, 1929. Police, in response to her warning, found a burglar trying to open a safe. He was killed as he attempted to escape.

pound. The Senate reduced this to 2 cents. The House duty of 8 cents a hundred pounds on cement, now on the free list, was reduced to 6 cents by the Senate, with a proviso that cement intended for public construction by State and municipal governments be admitted free. The Senate returned shingles to the free list, while the House made these dutiable at 25 per cent.

While the House retained softwood lumber on the free list, the Senate adopted a rate of $1.50 a thousand board feet on fir, spruce, pine, hemlock and larch lumber and railroad ties and telephone and telegraph poles of all woods.

Adoption Is Virtually Certain.

Adoption of the majority program, which is virtually certain, will mean that both House and Senate will be called upon for roll call votes on half a dozen of the major disputes between the two houses before conferees make their final report.

Informal pledges have been given by Senate Republican conferees that they will not agree in conference to throw out the export debendture and the provision for repeal of the existing flexible tariff provisions without first seeking instructions from the Senate.

These assurances, given to the coalition of Democrats and Republican independents who incorporated both provisions in the bill over the expressed wish of President Hoover, make certain two important record votes before final conference action.

Senate Leaders in Accord.

Senate Republican leaders are in accord with the House majority program. After the agreement on procedure was reached, Senator Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate rules committee, visited the White House and informed President Hoover on the status of the measure.

The tariff engaged House attention yesterday when Representative Ragon, of Arkansas, a Democratic member of the ways and means committee, assailed methods employed by House Republicans in dealing with the tariff as constituting no less than "gag rule."

Representative Crowther, of New York, a Republican member of the tariff-framing committee, replied by saying the Democrats adopted similar, if not more drastic, rules in passing tariffs when their party was in power.

Virginian Held in Bail In Killing During Fray

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., March 31.—Holding that he acted in self defense, Cabell Brodie was under $2,000 bail in Henry County today charged with killing Gilmer Nelson, 35, at Stanleytown, following an altercation at Brodie's home.

Nelson, according to witnesses, is said to have inflicted an ugly wound with a razor on Brodie's neck, the latter drawing a revolver and shooting Nelson through the heart. Brodie surrendered to the authorities after the shooting. He will be given a preliminary hearing on Thursday.

Hit-Run Charge Made Against Arrested Man

Jailed on a reckless driving charge, M. V. Marlowe, 33 years old, of Wisconsin avenue near Thirty-fourth street northwest, was hardly in the Seventh Precinct station before police lodged a hit-and-run charge against him claiming that he drove the same car into an automobile operated by Freddy Payne, 24 years old, of 67 K street northeast, at Pennsylvania avenue and Twenty-ninth street northwest Sunday night.

Marlowe was arrested yesterday afternoon by Policeman F. L. Mason when the man was said to have failed to stop on entering Wisconsin avenue from W place northwest, and narrowly missed striking a street car Police quoted Payne as declaring that Marlowe was the driver of the machine which damaged his car to the extent of $75 in the alleged hit-and-run accident.

COTTON SEES NAVAL CRISIS BY WEEK END

"Cold Figures" Demanded by Britten Who Offers Three-Way Plan.

SECURITY PACT SCORED

(Associated Press.)

Expectation that developments this week would determine the course of the London Naval Conference was expressed yesterday by the Acting Secretary of State, Joseph P. Cotton.

His views attracted attention on Capitol Hill, where two prominent Republicans voiced observations on affairs at London. Senator Fess, of Ohio, a member of the foreign relations committee, contributed the latest opposition to American adherence to a consultative pact such as has been proposed.

Representative Britten, of Illinois, chairman of the naval committee, called upon the American delegation to "stop talking about impossible consultative pacts and lay cold figures on the table for acceptance or rejection."

By this method, his statement said, "we can mighty soon find out if England is on the square with us or merely passing the buck to France."

Borah Among Opponents.

Acting Secretary Cotton has been conferring with President Hoover almost daily of late. The Chief Executive is keeping in intimate touch with the London situation. It was Cotton who only recently averred Mr. Hoover's unwavering support of the American delegation.

His view that this week's efforts at London would lead to something definite was given informally to newspapermen. Just what he based it on was not disclosed. He failed to amplify.

There has been an outburst of protest in the Senate against the proposed consultative pact and this opposition has come from all ranks. Chairman Borah of the foreign relations committee is on record against it.

There is a growing feeling in the Senate that there is little prospect of a final agreement at London among the five powers on the basis of American participation in a consultative pact.

Favors Three-Power Pact.

"I have always had a fear," said Senator Fess in an interview, "that the interests in Europe are so complicated that it might be difficult for us to secure a five-power treaty. It would be a wonderful accomplishment if that could be brought about. However, I never have been enthusiastic about the possibility of it.

"I have thought from the beginning that there would be no serious obstacle to a three-power treaty and I shall be greatly disappointed if that desire is not reached.

"A consultative pact is clearly impossible. There has been hope expressed in some quarters that we would be willing to enter a consultative pact because of what we did in the Pacific, but the two problems are entirely different.

"It would be difficult for use to agree to consult in matters involving nations of the Mediterranean without being morally committed, which would be unwise."

Britten's Scrapping Plan.

Foes of any consultative pact have been estimating their strength, and have evidenced confidence that such a treaty could be rejected.

Britten outlined his plan for a three-way agreement among the United States, Great Britain, and Japan, as follows:

"The United States to scrap the battleships Florida, Utah, Wyoming and Arkansas;

"England to scrap the battleships Benbow, Iron Duke, Marlborough, and the Emperor of India;

Fixes Japanese Ratio.

"Japan to retain her present 10 battleships with a total tonnage of 292,400, as compared with 14 American ships of 427,400 tons and 16 British ships of 501,450.

"France and Italy combined would have but 284,000 tons of small gun battleships, all of which are due for the scrap heap during the next six years.

"England, therefore, would be vastly superior to the combined battleship forces of Japan, France, and Italy, while Japan would receive a 60 per cent ratio with England and a 70 per cent ratio with the United States."

advisers to our delegation, was ordered today by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams. They are expected to sail April 11 on the George Washington of the United States lines.

The strain on all the delegations is beginning to tell in frazzled nerves and a tendency to criticize other people, although this is less so in the American camp, where efforts tonight seem to be in response to home critics to convince the American people that their delegation here is urging nothing on anybody and in no way butting in on the Anglo-French dispute.

Jury Refuses to Drink But Convicts on Smell

Baltimore, Md., March 31 (A.P.). The sense of smell was all a Harford County liquor jury cared to exercise today—refusing the invitation of the court to taste.

Glasses, the judge said, would be provided. It was the first case to be tried by a jury under Harford County's dry law, and a conviction was secured. James Sullivan was convicted of selling a pint of corn whisky and fined $250. The maximum penalty under the law is a fine of $500 and twelve months in jail.

HOOVER TARIFF VETO SEEN AS POSSIBILITY

bill has taken, as considering it not the limited revision that he asked for at all. And he has also been represented as intending to express this dissatisfaction when the bill reached him with the added statement that he intended to revamp it with his flexible power.

Check In Hoover.

This being the case it might be said that the same end would be attained without the roundabout procedure of giving him the debenture as an excuse to veto the bill.

But there is this difference. As the bill is shaping up the President's flexible power will be considerably curbed if not removed. That is to say that the chances are that if he signs a tariff bill he will sign away considerable if not all of his flexible power.

The Senate provision in the bill takes this power away from him and returns it to Congress. There have been various modifications advanced but the point is that the overwhelming sentiment of both houses is at least to give Congress a check on this power.

Prospect of Veto.

Now if this is done, how can the President express his dissatisfaction with the bill and promise to give relief through the flexible power? He will not be able to carry out such a promise. Yet it is doubtful if he should want to veto the bill simply because of this. That would place him at odds with both houses of Congress, and on a matter of power.

Therefore, it can be seen that the advice of some of his close friends does not sound so foolish as one might have at first thought.

"For the President to veto the bill because of the debenture or for any other reason and then virtually write his own revision would admittedly be one of the boldest political strokes ever made. It does not follow however, that it would not be a good one. Indeed, there is reason to believe that it might serve to place the President out entirely by himself, as superior to the entire legislative body.

It would be helpful to him and immeasurably enhance his prestige in dealing with that body. Indeed, after such a blow as this there is the serious question of whether the Senate would not quit harassing him. It would have good reason to feel that it was fooling with fire.

Tariff Commission Action.

On the other hand, there is the argument that such action as this would enrage so many senators whose States did not come in under his proclamation revision that there would be a merry rumpus. The regulars, it is contended, would go straight up in the air.

But isn't the President being represented by his friends now as fully intending to revise a lot of the rates in the bill, to make it conform to his ideas of a limited tariff revision? The regulars will be angered just as much by this.

So it would not seem to be so illogical to assume that he may veto the whole bill. It is pointed out that the Tariff Commission should be able to make a report on every item in the measure within a week. It has been studying these items as the bill has progressed slowly through Congress. It should know more about every item than any senator or member of the House. The President could act promptly on this report with a sweeping proclamation effectuating the rates and thus give the country its first "scientific" tariff bill.

Western Union Workers Entertain With Dance

A dinner dance of the Association of Western Union Employes Local No. 61, in honor of the socalled early night employes, was given at the Venus Restaurant this morning. There were about 100 employes participating as well as several of the Western Union officials, among whom was J. W. Ayres, traffic manager.

E. M. Nichols made the keynote talk which was followed by brief responses from Mr. Ayers and Nelson Rose, president of the local.

SUBSTITUTE SOUGHT FOR AUTO LIABILITY

Two States Which Adopted Financial Responsibility Law Seek Change.

HALT OF PROJECT SEEN

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Financial responsibility legislation, paraded by the American Automobile Association as a panacea for the traffic ills of the District of Columbia, is staggering today in two of the largest States which already have adopted it. Refuting claims of perfect operation of the law, made recently before the traffic subcommittee of the House District committee, are two important developments.

The first of these is the demand of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, initiated by the appellate division of the New York State Supreme Court, that a legislative committee immediately consider a substitute law.

The second is the promised investigation of alleged abuses of the law in New Jersey by Harold G. Hoffman, who will take office today as State motor vehicle commissioner.

Situation Elsewhere Described.

While the House subcommittee considers the wisdom of such a law for the District of Columbia, the situation outlined above is that actually prevailing in New York and New Jersey. These actual conditions are in sharp contrast with the rosy picture of the law's success painted at the recent hearings on the proposed measure.

Coming simultaneously, the developments in these two States are based upon the rapidity with which the fundamental weaknesses and subtleties of the law have been revealed. In New York, the matter of relieving motordom of the sinister burden of the statute has been put squarely up to the Assembly. A straight-forward request lays before that body to consider the merits of compensation insurance to meet the dire need which the present law has not met and can not meet.

That it signally fails to compensate accident victims, that it leaves court calendars hopelessly colgged, that 83 per cent of the State's motorists remain judgment-proof so far as the law is concerned, and that administration costs are high are the main charges leveled against the law by the committee of the New York Supreme Court.

Hoffman Pledges Reform.

Mr. Hoffman is standing squarely on his promise to investigate reports that the law as enacted in New Jersey, is being used to bludgeon motorists into needless purchase of insurance policies. As a part of his pledge of a fair administration to motorists, he will launch an immediate inquiry into the machinations which are alleged to have grown out of the first few months of the act's enforcement.

That local agents of the motor vehicle department are "using the financial responsibility act as a club to increase their insurance business and their personal profits," is the precise charge that will be investigated. The charge sustains the point made against the law by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce before its enactment; namely, that it would permit use of the police power of the State to get business for insurance companies. Evidence of corruption of this character will be dealt with drastically if revealed

That the law is completely "insurance-minded" and has the covert two-fold purpose of stimulating insurance business and thwarting enactment of a statute more favorable to the public, a charge brought against it by other powerful agencies as well as the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, is seen as corroborated by the current situations in New York and New Jersey.

Recognition that compensation of accident victims, in final analysis, is the only justification for such legislation is clearly evident in the demand made upon the New York Assembly.

Accordingly, in its demand for repeal of the financial responsibility law, the Supreme Court committee proposes the substitution of a compensation system patterned after workmen's compensation legislation with coverage provided by a State fund, private insurance companies, or through self-insurance. Stating that the annual cost of such a system to the individual car owner is estimated to be $20, the committee recommends that the legislature gather expert acturial evidence on the point.

In this connection, it proposes that the legislative body be empowered to subpena all the data it needs from insurance companies. The sudden turn of events in the States most emphatically cited by proponents of the legislation is expected to have a considerable bearing in forestalling its successful exploitation in the National Capital.

leaders believed something definite would develop this week.

The lobby committee is preparing a report on Huston, which probably will get before the Senate this week. Today the committee will examine Chester Gray, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and M. G. Waldo, consulting engineer of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, in connection with its inquiry into activities concerning Muscle Shoals.

W. B. Bell, president of the American Cyanamid Co., will be heard tomorrow. The Tennessee River Improvement Association, of which Huston was president, favored the bid of the Cyanamid company for Muscle Shoals.

The Senate commerce subcommittee will resume today its hearings on the unemployment bills of Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York. Chairman Johnson of the committee has asked Senator Wagner to call his own witnesses.

Considerable interest is developing in the Senate also on the nomination of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court. The American Federation of Labor is opposing his confirmation and Senator Overman (Democrat), North Carolina, the chairman of the judiciary subcommittee considering the nominee, has called a hearing for Saturday. A new protest was received yesterday against Parker, the secretary of the North Carolina State Federation of Labor, Marcus F. Sauls, telegraphing objections.

ECKENER INSPECTS HYBLA VALLEY SITE

Bull's Charge Fails to Daunt Graf Skipper Hunting Dirigible Terminus.

NEW STAMPS ANNOUNCED

Despite the opposition of a bull enraged at the invasion of his domain, Dr. Hugo Eckener yesterday carried his inspection of prospective terminal sites for transatlantic dirigibles as far as Richmond, Va., where he will remain for several days before returning to his headquarters in the Willard Hotel here. The little tilt with the bull occurred yesterday morning at Hybla Valley, Va. In order to reach a hill top overlooking the airfield, Dr. Eckener led the way through a pasture, where the bull stood peacefully enough until the inspection was completed. Just as Dr. Eckener climbed back through the fence, however, the animal charged him, ramming his heavy shoulders into the wire, which, fortunately, held. The commander greeted the bellowing bull with a pleasant "hello," and continued on his way to Richmond.

Found Field Well Suited.

He described the Hybla Valley field as well suited to his proposed dirigible services, but reserved final decision pending inspection of other sites between Baltimore and Richmond. The passenger service that he contemplates will be between Seville, Spain, and a point that probably will be not many miles from Washington.

"We will have airplane-feeder lines on both sides of the Atlantic, and later it is proposed to extend the service to South American ports," he said, adding that much must be accomplished before the first flight is attempted.

At Richmond, where he inspected Turner Flying Field, adjoining the Richard E. Byrd Municipal Airport, Dr. Eckener declared that "there is reason to believe the people of Virginia and the people of my fatherland, Germany, are soo to come even closer together." He declined, however, to elaborate on the statement.

Honored at Luncheon.

He and his party today were formally received by Gov. John G. Pollard and by Mayor J. Fulmer Bright, of Richmond, at a luncheon in their honor.

Today Dr. Eckener and his party will inspect sites at Newport News and Old Point Comfort.

Additional details relative to the ocean mail and passenger service and the forthcoming flight of the Graf in May will be given by Dr. Eckener Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock, when he will speak over the coast-to-coast hook-up of the National Broadcasting Co. His address will take the form of an interview, with the questions propounded by Andrew R. Kelley, local dramatic editor.

Meanwhile Postmaster General Brown announced that a special series of air mail stamps will be issued for the European-Pan American flight of the Graf in May. The series will consist of three stamps of 65 cents, $1.30 and $2.60 denominations. The issue will include 1,000,000 stamps of each denomination, and no reissues will be made.

Engineer Group to Restore Historic Potomock Canal

The old Potomack Canal, which was built under supervision of George Washington, is to be restored and maintained as a memorial, it was announced yesterday.

The restoration will be carried out by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and will represent that organization's contribution to the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

The canal is on the Virginia side of the Potomac River, near Great Falls, and is the only authenticated piece of engineering construction known to have been planned and supervised by George Washington.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d and Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, directors of the celebration of the 200th anniversary of Washington's birth, yesterday invited newspaper correspondents to visit the Potomack Canal on the morning of April 9.

In the party that will journey to the canal on that date will be members of the Washington Bicentennial Commission and delegates to the convention of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. The party will leave the National Press Building at 9 o'clock in the morning.

GAS METER TAX ON PROFITLESS CONSUMERS ASKED IN MERGER

develop this expansion of service, he said, and it was for that reason that the merger was deemed imperative.

One of the most important features of the proposed merger is a provision changing the existing restrcitions on the capital structure of the gas companies. It is proposed to change the 130,000 shares now outstanding at $20 par value, although of much greater market value, for the same number of shares of stock without par value to be issued by the new company. As additional capital was needed stock would be sold under conditions prescribed by the Utilities Commission.

Another provision would eliminate the LaFollette antimerger law i so far as it affected the stock of the merged company. The stock of the Washington company now is held in a trust by five nationally known utilities investment and holding companies. It is proposed to permit the sale of the stock of the new company to be sold to another corporation if that is desired in the future.

William McK. Clayton asked if the gas companies of nearby Maryland and Virginia were to be taken into the new merged company, but Mr Burroughs said that was not contemplated. No action on the measure was taken by the commission, which will make a report to Congress on the subject soon. There is little opposition to the merger of the two companies.

On behalf of the gas company were present, besides Mr. Burroughs, George B. Fraser, a member of the board of directors of the company and vice president of the Georgetown Gas Light Co. and Wilton J. Lambert as counsel.

Taliaferro to Keep Job Pending Senate Action

Commissioner Sidney F. Taliaferro will remain in office as District Commissioner until Dr. Luther Reichelderfer, named to succeed him by President Hoover, has been confirmed by the Senate. Commissioner Taliaferro last month asked the President to relieve him not later than March 31 and the White House acquiesced.

Inasmuch as the Senate is to take up consideration of the nominations of Dr. Reichelderfer and Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, retired, today, and confirmation is expected to follow within the next few days, Mr. Taliaferro said he would put off assumption of his new duties as vice president of Riggs National Bank and would await the confirmation of his successor as District Commissioner.

Autoist Kills Policeman While Being Questioned

Los Angeles, March 31 (A.P.).—James Costello, 27, a policeman, was shot and killed this morning by a motorist whom he attempted to stop for questioning on a downtown street. After firing three bullets into Costello's body, the motorist tried to run down Elmer Hoffman, another police officer, and then escaped in his speeding car.

Costello and Hoffman were questioning motorists about robberies which had been staged earlier in the night.

Rum Raid Murder Charged to Deputy

Kentucky Official Arrested After Shooting Man to Death.

Richmond, Ky., March 31 (A.P.).—A charge of murder was filed today against Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Lane, who shot and killed Ammon Williams, 34, yesterday after a liquor raid at the Williams home. Deputy Lane was released in custody of Sheriff Albert Bogie until his examining trial Friday.

Mr. Williams was shot after Sheriff Bogie, Deputy Lane, Deputy Sheriff John Clarkson and Prohibition Agent H. B. Sandlin had raided his home and found a smal still and a gallon of moonshine. Deputy Lane said that Williams refused to obey his command to surrender.

The shooting took place in the presence of Mr. Williams' wife and two small children, at their home near the Jackson County line. Deputy Lane said that when the agents displayed their search warrant, Mr. Williams made a dash for the county line. A bullet from Deputy Lane's gun brought him down.

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

U-turns may seem the only means of getting into a parking space on the other side of the street, or they may seem much more advantageous than driving entirely around a block in order to head in the opposite direction, but they are forbidden unless they can be made without backing.

The traffic regulations of the National Capital contain this rule which recognizes that U-turns are likely to block traffic in both directions.

Example: A driver is going down Fifteenth street between H and the Avenue. He sees a parking space on the other side. He starts to turn and discovers he can not do so without backing. He has violated the regulations.

Court Dismisses Suit Against Rudy Vallee

The suit was based upon charges that Vallee insinuated Osborne was an imitator.

Hoovers Enjoying Life in Outdoors

First Lady Has Taken Up Horseback Riding in the Parks.

(Associated Press.)

President and Mrs. Hoover, always an out-of-doors couple, are enjoying to the utmost the Capital's first spring days.

Having changed plans to visit his summer camp on the headwaters of the Rapidan River in the Virginia mountains before this, with the fishing season opening tomorrow, the President is eagerly looking forward to a resumption of week-end trips.

Mrs. Hoover has taken advantage of the opportunity to renew her horseback riding, a recreation she has always numbered among the foremost of outdoor sports. Yesterday she rode for nearly two hours along the bridle paths of Potomac Park and noted the blossoming of Washington's Japanese cherry trees. She later viewed them Sunday.

At the White House, spring has found a corps of busy gardeners. The spacious lawns are being groomed, the flower beds tended, with some of the blooms already out. The fountain in the south grounds has been turned on for the season.

How Fire Insurance Inspectors Work for You

Frequent, thorough inspections and surveys of insured properties are an indispensable part of the fire insurance business as transacted by the Stock Companies. Hundreds of men are engaged in this work.

Inspections provide the data from which insurance maps are made—rate-makers compute the rate—the agent writes the policy—the underwriter judges the risk, and accepts or rejects it.

Expert Knowledge

The inspector must understand construction, must have a knowledge of the individual hazards of every business, the details of public and private fire protection, the susceptibility to damage of contents and many other matters relating to the character of an insurance risk.

Through his work defects and hazardous conditions are brought to the attention of the property owner. Inspections are the immediate cause of eliminating fire hazards with their attendant reduction in fire waste and the cost of insurance.

Inspections have substantially contributed to the steady decline in the average rate in this country with the result that fire insurance is today one of the cheapest necessities.

HANDWRITING CLUES IN SQUAW TRIAL HIT

Testimony Ends in Buffalo Case With Grilling of Henri Marchand.

SUMMATION DUE TODAY

Buffalo, N. Y., March 31 (A.P.).—A white man's jury was ready tonight to decide authorship of an Indian legend concerning a "white witch" who cast a curse upon the people of the Cattaragus Reservation and who died because one of that people believed this legend.

Should this jury, after it has listened to brief summations tomorrow morning, decide that the 35-year-old Indian, Lila Jimerson, conceived the story, she will stand convicted as an accomplice in the killing of Clothide Marchand, French artist's wife, who died at the hands of witch-harassed old Nancy Bowen.

If this council of whites believes Lila Jimerson wrote letters over a name of a person who never existed, telling old Nancy that the wife of Henri Marchand was a sorceror, the younger Indian woman, in the eyes of the law, will be equally guilty with Nancy who already has related how she beat down and chloroformed Mrs. Marshand.

Defense Rakes State Charge.

The defense, before concluding its side of the case today, directed heavy fire on the soundness of the State's charge that it was Lila's long brown fingers that penned letters signed "Mrs. Dooley" to inflame the superstitious mind of old Nancy against an allegedly malignant "Clotilda Brown," in Buffalo.

Lila's attorneys placed on the stand the vice president of the Marine Trust Co., of this city, Percy W. Darby, to deny, in the capacity of an expert in chirography, that any similarity existed between letters Lila had written Henri Marchand and the communications to Nancy.

The last witness today was Henri Marchand, recalled by defense counsel after he already had testified for the prosecution. The State has contended it was Lila's ambition to have the French artist for her husband that prompted her to seek the death of Marchand's wife. The artist admitted having been intimate with the defendant, but said it was only because of "professional necessity."

Marchand Is Grilled.

His questioning had moved along to alleged affairs with other women and eventually settled on one specific case, the principal of which Attorney Maloney, of Lila's counsel, said lived in Albany.

Mr. Marchand swung toward the jury, pointed a trembling finger at Mr. Maloney and said in a choked voice:

"If there is anything bad about me that man will find it out."

Mr. Maloney here indicated he was through with the examination and Judge F. Bret Thorn excused the witness, but Mr. Marchand remained on the stand, hands spread out on its rail, staring for a long moment at his inquisitor.

Late Pope's Sister to Be Buried.

Rome, March 31 (A.P.).—Funeral services for Donna Maria Sarto, the only surviving sister of the late Pope Pius X, who died here yesterday after an illness of several weeks, will be held Wednesday. Donna Maria, until election of her brother to the Papacy in 1903, accompanied him on many of his pastoral missions. Recently she has been living in a small apartment overlooking St. Peter's Square.

Highlights of the War

As Related by Veterans Themselves

Try and Find One

It was during the winter of 1918. It was France and it was raining, hailing or snowing, and in fact had been doing so for three days. We were disgusted with the war, although we had not seen any of it, but marching, hiking or limping for three days through this kind of weather had done a lot toward dampening our spirits. Several of the men, for no good reason, other than the fact that they were tired had fallen out to be picked up and transported by the ambulances and had gotten away with it.

John Shiles had asked if I would fall out with him as neither of us had any soles on our shoes and Maj. Sawtelle had given him a call down for endeavoring to pick his way in the snow. I promptly vetoed the suggestion and we continued marching.

The next morning Maj. Sawtelle and I had some words—mine being just two—namely "Yes Sir," and upon starting the hike I promptly informed Shiles that I was ready to fall out at any time.

He suggested that we wait until we saw an ambulance, which suggestion was well taken. For three more days we marched still determined to fall out, but when we reached our destination, we had still failed to see an ambulance.

Ask Neptune!

Is there such thing as the "Port of Missing Ships?" I have often wondered, as all seafaring men have.

It was during the summer of 1918, while serving in the U. S. Navy on the U. S. S. New Orleans, that we left Hampton Roads, Va., with a convoy of twelve ships, bound for Gibraltar.

Three days out one of the members of the "black gang" died and was buried at sea, and this was the first "funeral" I had ever seen on board a battleship.

About three days after this we ran into an awful storm and the fog was so thick, you could hardly see ten feet ahead of you. The fog lasted a week and when it lifted we were alone. We sailed around for a few days and located two of the missing ships. We continued towards Gibraltar, the complete trip taking 28 days.

Where did the rest of the ships go? They have never been heard of since. Is there such a place as the "Port of Missing Ships?"

Three Muscat-eers

At Is-sur-Tille, April, 1918, I received a letter from "Sam," at G. H. Q. in Chaumont. He got leave and popped into my camp one Saturday morning. With two other buddies, all D. C. boys, we started to town for a big time. We made for the biggest hotel. It was marked "Officers Only." Officer Sam secured a room and we started celebrating. From red-ink to champagne, and the best of eats, Sam paying the bill. He had francs and we were broke. After church Sunday we returned to the hotel to eat. All but Sam were barred from the dining room. Sam explained that we were his guests, first to the waiter, then to the proprietor, guard, sergeant of the guard, officer of the day, and finally to the headquarters. Here Sam was given a "special pass" permitting his three buck private friends to the dining room. He counted his bank roll and said: "Let's go to it; we don't know when we'll meet again." The regular meal wasn't good enough for us. We ordered everything special, drinking nothing but champagne. We three buck privates among those officers, who wondered who we were. This was one time "over there" when the sign "For Officers Only" didn't count, thanks to Buddy Sam.

Did He Tell.

Col. Conkling had just been assigned as director of field hospitals in the Rainbow Division, and decided that the companies under his command should pass in review before him.

He then walked up and down the various companies asking the individual men various, sundry and divers questions. One question that he asked real often was "Who Am I?" One of the men decided on a different answer and replied "I don't know sir." Col. Conkling, asked the next three men the same question and got the same answer. By this time he apparently could not think of anything else, so after hesitating a moment proceeded to fire the same question at the next man. This man promptly answered "Well, Sir, I'll bite who are you."

Prove It!

F. H. No. 165, Forty-second Division, A. E. F., was temporarily stationed in a large hospital located in Langres, France, prior to moving to the front.

About 25 beautiful American nurses were assigned to duty in this same hospital, and the ladies' men of the organization immediately started doiling up themselves.

An Army order forbid nurses and enlisted men fraternizing, and this order was lived up to. "Believe it or not."

Dague Seems Indifferent as He Hears Penalty for Killing Officer.

Newcastle, Pa., March 31 (A.P.).—A jury tonight found W. Glenn Dague, former Wheeling, W. Va., automobile salesman, guilty in the first degree of the slaying of State Highway Patrolman Brady Paul and recommended death in the electric chair.

The jury reached its verdict after taking two ballots. Announcement of the decision was deferred for 45 minutes, however, while court attendants assembled representatives of the State and defense.

The courtroom was crowded and tensely silent as the jury filed from the jury room and awaited the time for their announcement. Dague, as silent as the rest, seemed indifferent. He made no motion when the verdict was announced. His demeanor was as calm as that of Irene Schroeder when the verdict of death was returned against her.

Indian Admits Murder Of Wife, Baby, Aged M

Milaca, Minn., March 31 (A.P.).—William Taylor Hanks, an Indian graduate of Carlisle Institute, confessed to county authorities today that he killed his wife, her aged grandfather and his infant stepson Sunday night on the Mille Lacs reservation, north of here.

Hanks, in a signed confession, said he hacked his wife and her grandfather, described as nearly 100 years old, to death with an axe and beat the 14 months old son of the slain woman with a hammer. He said he killed his wife because she was "awfully mean" and slew the grandfather, known as "Shaugabee," after the latter attacked him. He gave no reason for killing the infant.

Hawks Goes Back As Tow Line Parts

Hazardous Weather Conditions Prevent Fresh Start From Tucson.

Tucson, Ariz., March 31 (A.P.).—Gusty winds held Capt. Frank Hawks, transcontinental flier, who is attempting a coast-to-coast glider tour, in Tucson tonight.

The flier, en route from San Diego, Calif., to New York, was forced to ride wind currents back to Tucson this morning when the cable broke and parted his cabin glider from its tow plane 10 miles east of here. He announced that weather conditions tonight were too hazardous for a hop with an emergency tow line to Lordsburg, N. Mex. Tonight his schedule had called for an overnight stop at El Paso, Tex., after refueling at Lordsburg.

Tomorrow Capt. Hawks will attempt to take off behind his power plane piloted by J. D. Jernigan, jr., San Diago aviator, on the hop to Lordsburg. The glider pilot said he expected to be able to make up the lost time between here and New York. He is due in New York City next Sunday. Capt. Hawks arrived in Tucson Sunday after a 400-mile trip from San Diego.

Sunshine on the Wheat -that's ENERGY

Sunshine in the Factory -that's PURITY

GOLDEN grains of finest wheat—browned and ripened by the sun—filled with the health-giving, body-building elements that nature pours from the sky. From the very heart of this wheat comes farina—the most nourishing part. And from farina Mueller's Macaroni is made.

Healthful and Pure

There simply isn't another staple food more healthful and nutritious than this superior macaroni. It supplies energy to growing children. It builds bone and muscle. It is supremely good for every member of the family.

You can have absolute confidence in the purity of Mueller's Macaroni. It is made in a bright, sunlit factory where strict rules of sanitation are scrupulously observed. Every operation, from mixing to final wrapping in triple-sealed packages, is performed by white-uniformed employees who zealously guard the Mueller standards of production.

Light and Fluffy

You will find a delightful difference in Mueller's Macaroni. It has a taste distinctively its own—and it cooks up to a light and fluffy tenderness that means easy digestibility.

American housewives often overcook macaroni. The delightful fluffiness and lightness of Mueller's Macaroni is realized in its ideal form by following the directions on the package and boiling nine minutes. If especial tenderness is desired, one or two minutes more may be allowed.

Buy a package of Mueller's Macaroni today. Serve it tonight. After that, you'll be sure to have it often. Your grocer has Mueller's products or can get them for you.

There are hundreds of ways in which Mueller's macaroni products can be prepared, all delicious. Send for our book of recipes in which many special dishes are illustrated in color. No cost or obligation. Just write to

March must be judged by its Exit

AND SO MUST OIL

MARCH, a fickle month, rushed in with a roar and bluster as though it were out to conquer the world. It seemed to wear itself out, however, and made its exit as meek and docile as any lamb.

Any oil may perform well when it goes into your crank case, but oil, like March, must be judged by its exit.

Even experts can't tell anything about the lubricating quality of an oil merely by looks or by feel. But laboratory tests and the experience of thousands of users show that even after a thousand miles, AMOCO Motor Oil still lubricates promptly and thoroughly, still protects the vital moving parts of your engine.

You needn't bother about the changeable weather of Spring if AMOCO Motor Oil is protecting your motor. For with AMOCO Motor Oil you always have a margin of safety.

The AMERICAN OIL COMPANY
Affiliated with Pan American Petroleum & Transport Company
General Offices: American Building
Baltimore, Md.

In laboratory tests, AMOCO Motor Oil has gone the equivalent of thousands of miles and still remained satisfactory for lubrication purposes. Due to road conditions, however—the accumulation of dirt and sludge—it is advisable to change your oil every 500-1000 miles. Always have your oil drained while your motor is hot, as oil is thinner at high temperatures and carries away the sludge from the sides and bottom of your crank case.

PROSPERITY AGAIN.

The United States is renewing its natural progress toward greater prosperity, greater production, greater comfort and better living conditions for the average man. The signs of vigor and confidence are as unmistakable as the signs of spring. The winter of discontent is over.

All other public questions are subordinate to the supreme question of keeping the American people profitably employed. If the United States is busy and productive, no obstacle is too great for it to remove or surmount. President Hoover has penetrated to the root of the most important of all his duties—that of promoting the national welfare. He has met a national enemy and put it to flight—the deadly danger of economic derangement, with its accompaniments of labor troubles, workless men and suffering families.

If the history of the past few months could be written in full it would be found that President Hoover had earned the thanks of every citizen of the country for his promptness and skill in stopping adversity and turning the country back into the current of prosperity. It was a herculean task, with manifold ramifications. He was alert, resourceful, and superbly competent in a national emergency.

The normal attitude of the American is one of active and practical optimism. This lies at the base of all plans, all extensions, all growth. The country does not stand still. Population increases, nature's products demand attention, and human energies eagerly seize upon opportunities. The shock of last October, with its repercussions down to the wage-earner, was only a shock, after all. The machine was halted, but not wrecked. Nothing vital was destroyed. Now the people perceive that they were "more scared than hurt," and with bright skies and seasonal stirrings they are resuming their activities in a thousand directions.

Industries employing hundreds of thousands of men were forced to be cautious while the tariff bill was under discussion. They could not safely commit themselves in the absence of knowledge as to the effect of tariff legislation. This legislation might not have struck at them directly, but indirectly it might have ruined allied industries or markets. Thus, following the stagnation of the stock market crash, a period of indecision postponed the plans of industry. But now it is certain that the tariff bill will be enacted, and that it will extend protection to industry and labor as well as agriculture. After all flaws have been pointed out and all defects condemned, the fact remains that the Republican party has made a protective tariff a certainty. The country's workers will have work.

The Government's revenues are assured. Large appropriations, including millions for public buildings, are being made without danger of a deficit. The merchant marine is rapidly moving toward first place on the oceans, which means that Americans will soon be released from the grip of foreign shipping and insurance monopolies. Exports are increasing, thanks to American efficiency in manufacturing and marketing. The Nation is determined to make agriculture a solvent industry—and in this stupendous undertaking the world's master economist, Herbert Hoover, is at the helm.

A new year of achievement opens for the United States. The people are eager to go forward. They have the broadest field in the world in which to exercise their energy and genius. They have a vigilant and experienced leader, who can plan and execute on a national scale. It is not surprising to see the country turning away from its recent troubles and rapidly regaining its habitual stride of prosperity.

TAKING THE CENSUS.

When the forefathers drafted the Constitution they provided that representatives should be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers and specified that "the actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States and within every subsequent term of ten years." The first census was made by a handful of enumerators and had for its sole purpose the fixation of a basis for representation. Tomorrow 110,000 enumerators will undertake the task of taking the census, not solely for the purpose of fixing a new basis for representation, but also in order that Uncle Sam may know what progress he has made since 1920.

Decade by decade, the scope of the census has been extended. This year some 25 principal questions are listed, running the gamut from marital conditions to radio ownership. The answers as taken by the enumerators will be forwarded to the Census Bureau, where they will be transferred to punched cards. The cards will be handled by ingenious machines that automatically sort, analyze, compare and tabulate. When the census is completed definite population statistics will be available as well as accurate data with respect to unemployment, social conditions, literacy, national origins, &c.

This year's census will cost the taxpayer $40,000,000. It will be well worth its cost. Just as a business man must keep himself posted on the state of his stock, so should the Nation take a regular inventory. The census enumerator should be welcomed when he knocks at the door.

STUDY OF CANCER.

Eight or more world-famous physicians will journey to San Francisco to investigate the Coffey-Humber cancer treatment. The medical world shows a thoroughly justifiable caution in studying all treatments. Cancer remains a most baffling disease. Drs. Humber and Coffey make no claims of a cure, but they seem to have had astonishing success with the glandular extract they have developed, and the world hopes that at last a release from the suffering of cancer has been discovered.

The extent to which cancer is to be dreaded may be read from a statement made by Dr. Joseph C. Bloodgood, of Baltimore, before a Senate committee recently. Twenty years ago cancer stood eighth in the list of death causes. Today it has advanced to second place. The total number of deaths caused each year in the United States by cancer is estimated at 120,000. The disease is responsible for 10 per cent of the deaths from all causes. In a large percentage of all cases—at least 30—the disease is hopeless from the onset. There must be, said Dr. Bloodgood, between 300,000 and 500,000 cases of cancer living at all times.

Dr. Bloodgood spoke in behalf of a bill that would make available an appropriation of $100,000 to be used by the Public Health Service for the immediate study of cancer. The appropriation for the study and survey should be made.

FOREIGN WHEAT DUTIES.

In the closing days of the tariff debate Senators Connally and Norbeck spoke as follows:

Mr. Connally: Everybody knows that the Farm Board's operations in the case of wheat have not lifted the price of wheat to the farmer, for the very simple reason that the exportable surplus of American wheat must meet in foreign markets the competition of the whole world, the competition of wheat from everywhere, and the little panaceas of cooperative marketing and orderly marketing can not do the farmer any good, because they can not lift the price above the world price. The trouble with the farmer now is that he must sell his products in a world-free market.

Mr. Norbeck: Mr. President, I think the senator has put his finger exactly on the difficulty. The law makes it necessary for the Farm Board, if they want to raise the price of wheat in America 5 cents, also to raise it 5 cents in Australia, 5 cents in Argentina, and 5 cents in Europe. In other words, the job assigned to them was not one of creating an American market for the American farmer; if anything, it was to increase the price in the world market.

The solution of the American wheat problem depends upon an increased price in the world market. Curtailment of production under any circumstance can be made effective only over a period of years, and the clamor is for immediate relief. But even in the event of a short crop, other governments may step in to harass the Farm Board. Recent events in Germany and France evidence to what extent a protective wall against the world operations of the Farm Board may be thrown up.

In Germany the Reichstag this week passed by a comfortable majority a group of tariff schedules increasing the rates on agricultural products. The increases include one on wheat, raising the duty to a possible maximum of about $28.50 a ton, with the authorization of still further increases in case of attempts from abroad to dump wheat. The Reichstag also created a federal corn monopoly, giving it the exclusive right to market domestic and imported corn. In France the Chamber of Deputies set in motion a movement for establishing a huge government reserve supply of wheat to insure adequate supplies in time of need and to make possible government control of domestic prices. An appropriation of approximately $8,000,000 was authorized for the purpose.

Once the Farm Board begins operating effectively, other nations are bound to take retaliatory measures. The wheat problem is a world problem.

PRACTICAL RELIEF FOR THE COURTS.

The House judiciary committee will give attention this week to the recommendations of the Law Enforcement Commission for relieving congestion in the Federal courts. The subcommittee which studied this question was unable to agree, and the same division of opinion exists in the full committee. Chances that the measure embodying the commission's plan will command support of the committee appear to be remote.

Even Representative Christopherson, of South Dakota, sponsor of the bill, expresses doubt that it would relieve the congestion brought about by the increase in prohibition cases. He has introduced a bill which apparently does not now have his support. Other members of the committee are dubious, not only as to the constitutionality of the plan, but as to its effectiveness in relieving congestion. When the commission first announced its scheme to have petty prohibition cases heard by United States commissioners without juries, widespread opposition developed on constitutional grounds. Since members of the judiciary committee have had time to study the situation, it has been found that congestion is localized and that the non-jury arrangement could be applied in only a small fraction of prohibition cases.

Realizing the necessity for relieving the Federal courts in some localities, the House judiciary committee should not report out a bill that has virtually no chance of becoming law, but which may delay action indefinitely. It is time to discard the hodge-podge arrangement worked out by the Law Enforcement Commission and to take up a practical plan for relieving congestion. That can be done much more effectively by the committee before any report is made to the House.

The obvious remedy is appointment of additional Federal judges in districts where the courts are overburdened. More judges are needed in New York, Kentucky, West Virginia and the District of Columbia, whether nonjury trials should be instituted or not. The Law Enforcement Commission opposed this solution because it viewed prohibition as a possible "transient situation." Many other laws contribute to congestion besides prohibition. There is no danger that the new courts created will ever find themselves unoccupied.

Let the committee face the facts of congestion and report to the House a bill that will give relief where it is needed, without attempting to add any fancy fringe to the Constitution.

THE ILLINOIS CAMPAIGN

By MARK MERRILL.

Chicago, March 31.—Go into the private conference of almost any group of influential Republicans in Chicago or almost any other community in Illinois, and you will be told privately that the Republicans of Illinois are fixing to lose the State in the November election.

A month ago the primary campaign—and that means almost wholly, the fight between Senator Deneen and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick—promised to be an amiable contest between the senior Illinois senator and the congresswoman at large, with the loser lining up actively, if not aggressively, behind the winner in the election. But in the last week or ten days there have been unmistakable evidences that this primary for United States senator is breeding dissension in the ranks of the Republican organization, with the prospect that the bitterness that is being engendered will be carried into the election campaign.

The final week of the primary battle promises to be even more personal than it has been, with Mrs. McCormick continuing to make charges against Senator Deneen that reflect seriously upon that gentleman's personal integrity. In Evanston last Thursday Mrs. McCormick launched into a violent attack upon the senator's political organization, making charges that compelled the Deneen followers to make a vicious counter-attack. Edward R. Litsinger, Deneen's principal lieutenant, announced that he would "blow the lid off." "I'll tell you of the 'deals' this lady has allowed herself to be made party to, and the 'deals' she has sought to make," Litsinger declared.

From this it may be judged just what kind of a hectic period the final week of the primary campaign is going to be. Before primary day, April 8, the followers of the two candidates threaten to reach the stage where they will burn their bridges behind them and make a Republican campaign truce impossible.

The contest for the senatorial nomination started out to be a squarely drawn fight over the issue of the United States entering the world court—Senator Deneen standing as the vigorous champion of the court and Mrs. McCormick as vigorously opposing it. Both candidates have proclaimed themselves dry, and the one bone of contention, therefore, has been the court. This went along very nicely in the early days of the campaign, but when Mrs. McCormick began to get personal Senator Deneen followed suit. Now there is no attempt to hide the bitter personal animosity that extends down to the followers of both candidates.

Among leading Republicans, therefore, it is only natural that they look with fear and trembling to the election in November. It is inconceivable that should Senator Deneen prove the winner in the primary, the followers of Mrs. McCormick will see their way clear to support him in the election because he is pledged to the world court. If Mrs. McCormick should be nominated, the Deneen group will do everything possible to defeat her at the polls. In the present temper of the two candidates and their partisans there is no doubt as to what will happen, although Illinois is a strongly Republican State.

On the other side of the fence, the Democrats are having a pretty little tea party in the way of a primary campaign for United States senator. Former Senator James Hamilton Lewis is opposed by two minor members of the party, and will be nominated. There will be no rancor resulting from the contest, and Jim Ham will go forth into the campaign for election with a united and enthusiastic party behind him. Moreover, Senator Lewis seems to have the preponderant sentiment of the State with him on the prohibition question. He is openly against prohibition, and inasmuch as the Literary Digest poll on this question shows the State better than four to one against prohibition it may be judged that the wet vote will play a powerful hand in the election. Also, Senator Lewis is vigorously opposing entrance of the United States into the world court, which has been made a live issue. Senator William B. McKinley was defeated because he voted for the world court. The people of Illinois are dead against the court. Therefore Jim Ham Lewis stands a good chance to be elected senator from Illinois.

JUST FOLKS

ACCIDENT.

I was in health when I arose
And all the world seemed fair.
But strangely no man living knows
How near are pain and care,
Nor just what trifle shall dispose
Of joys he plans to share.

Quitting my room I should have said
A carefree man am I,
With breakfast done I'll push ahead
With men who sell and buy,
There is no danger near to dread,
Nor grief to cause a sigh.

But as I trod the bottom stair
I felt a twinge of pain,
Disaster caught me unaware,
And all my plans were vain.
I fell—nor in an easy chair
I nurse an ankle strain.

I was a well man when I rose,
And viewed the coming day
As wholly mine from dawn to close,
But here at home I stay,
Which only proves that no man knows
His fate one hour away.

It Isn't Disloyal To Be Absent From a Mate Who Wanders Away.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

PEOPLE who have reason to criticize "fair-weather friends" compare them with the rats that desert a doomed ship.

They overlook the fact that the rats are guilty of nothing more blameworthy than sound common sense, and would be regarded as simpletons if they remained on board to go down with the ship.

Friendship is a contract, based on existing conditions, and is void when either contracting party violates its terms.

There is a tacit understanding that the contract shall provide mutual advantages and benefits—the exchange of ideas and services, the mutual enjoyment of fellowship, the sharing of pleasures and sorrows—and since the contract is based on the fact of mutual respect, and this respect is in turn based on the present character of the contracting parties, it must follow that the contract is broken when either party so changes his character as to be unworthy of respect.

Thus it is clear that the fair-weather friends who are classed as deserters may be in fact the innocent victims of unfaithful partners.

If you and a neighbor agree to market your apple crops as a unit, in order to command a better price and reduce handling costs, and you discover that he is boxing off-grade apples and thus injuring your reputation, are you a traitor if you withdrawn from the agreement?

When your friend makes himself unworthy of your respect, he not only violates the terms of the contract and thus frees you of all obligation, but he makes his friendship a menace from which you can escape only by quitting him.

If he charges you with unfaithfulness, you shall say to him: "It is you that is unfaithful, not I. I remained as I was, and you changed. You valued our contract of friendship so little that you deliberately sacrificed my good opinion, and now you would injure me further by requiring me to share in your disgrace."

Those who must be loyal when loyalty no longer is deserved are not friends but subjects.

The obligations of friendship end when the qualities that inspired and justified friendship are gone.

A recent sense of loyalty requires that you remain true to your friend in his adversity and unmerited loss of public respect, but when his character changes you can not follow him without a new contract based on the new conditions—and to accept them is to trim your character to match a lower stadard.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE MICE AND THE MARKET.

The stock market is looking up again. Elevator boys are beginning to talk mergers, barbers are relaying the inside stuff on the oil outlook, and all over upland and lowland the people who were never going to believe bedtime stories again are once more cocking their ears for irresponsible rumors.

• • • •

A burnt child is said to dread the fire, but a man who has been done to a crisp in Wall street will always turn up for another baking. Like the murderer who returns to the scene of his crime, the amateur market operator can always be counted on to return to the scene of his original flattening.

• • • •

The five-million share day is back, popper is coming home with ticker tape in his hair, mother is listening to the delicatessen man's tip on what J. P. Morgan is about to do, Aunt Minnie is again studying the brokers' opinions, and the children are making mind bets that Big Steel will go to 250 in six weeks. The air is full of pre-October dope, apple sauce and boloney.

• • • •

Brokers' offices are not exactly crowded, but the members of the Lost Batallion of Incorrigible Optimists are rapidly feeling their way out of the forest of disillusionment and back to the field of second guesses for another crack at the boys who at all times have them surrounded.

• • • •

They are thinner, weaker, sadder, but no wiser. They still believe in Santa Claus, fairy godmothers, rabbits' feet and the notion that the best place to see rainbows with pots of gold attached is an office with twenty telephones, plenty of white chalk and all the financial magazines.

• • • •

Five short months ago the country was full of people who insisted they were cured of bag-holding and would never again be misled by half-baked sandamn tales that everything was going to 350 inside of three weeks. The national alibi was, "I must have been drugged."

• • • •

Today they are coming back slowly but surely, their gullibility fully restored, eager to believe anything whispered out of the corner of a stranger's mouth.

• • • •

Once more the stenographer is discussing money renewal rates with the cashier, the office boy is arguing over the increase in brokers' loans with mailing clerk, and the janitor, electrician and office manager are in close conference trying to agree on whether the oils, rails, industrials or chemicals offer the best opportunity for 200 per cent profit over night.

• • • •

They still believe that vagabond dreams come true.

BACK HOME STUFF.

Well, the Right Rev. James De Wolf Perry, the new bishop of the Episcopal Church, was some years ago this writer's boss, more or less indirectly. Bishop Perry was then rector of St. Paul's Church, back home in New Haven, and, if memory is to be trusted, had certain fatherly jurisdiction over the Church of the Ascension, where yours truly pumped the organ, tended the furnace, swept the church twice a month and acted as librarian Sundays.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Democratic Party Headed for Anti-prohibition, Says Daniel C. Roper, Holds Raskob Responsible.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In view of the references appearing in your columns and elsewhere regarding my testimony before the House judiciary committee on prohibition enforcement reform, I wish to state that what I did say to the committee was in substance that too much reliance has been placed upon the enforcement of the law by officers and not enough attention given to the same kind of educational work among the people that were responsible for national prohibition; that no entirely satisfactory method of control of the liquor traffic has yet been discovered; that State control as demonstrated in South Carolina utterly failed; that our present program of control is the best yet devised, and will be successful in proportion to the interest aroused among the people to assume their proper responsibilities as citizens; that the enforcement of the prohibition law does not differ materially from the enforcement of other laws, in that those primarily responsible for the law must be active in both observing and in seeking observance; that while I believe every person should be granted the right to seek the repeal of any law which he believes is not contributing to the best interest of the people, he should observe and seek observance for all laws as long as they are on the statute books.

Now, to my political critics, I would say that as political parties are the agencies through which policies of government are outlined for the people, I feel that it is nothing short of a tragedy that a party of the historic background of the Democratic party should be arraigned against prohibition, which is regarded as a moral issue by so many Democrats, especially throughout the South and West where the greatest support of the party is lodged.

I believe that prohibition properly enforced will in time control as satisfactorily as possible the greatest evil and most corrupting political and social influence in modern times. It is natural, therefore, that as a lifelong Democrat, I am greatly concerned with the present organized attitude of my party.

In Chairman Raskob we have a man exclusively schooled in Republican economic thinking as against the traditional Democratic economic thought, but, more important than that at this time, Mr. Raskob is a member of the National Association Against Prohibition. He is one of the largest financial contributors to the fund for the support of this anti-prohibition movement, having at one time, according to published reports, contributed as much as $31,866.69 to the fund.

Thus we have in his attitude an outlined procedure for the Democratic party to contend for the defeat of what many Democrats believe to be a great social reform, a reform for which a large number of Democrats contended and labored for generations to secure. It is easy to see that the party is now heading toward an antiprohibition plank in the 1932 national platform, with former Gov. Alfred E. Smith as the logical nominee for President, committed as he is to a material change in, or repeal of, the eighteenth amendment.

DANIEL C. ROPER.

Plans for Free Garages, Memorials to Mayors, Bigger Parking Spaces, Better Exhibition of Statuary.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Of the various proposals further to improve the Nation's Capital, the most sensible one appears to be that to transform the present District Building into a free garage for Federal employes as soon as the municipal center has been established. Other proposals, equally to be commended, are those to transfer the Japanese cherry-blossom trees from the Tidal Basin to lower Pennsylvania avenue; to increase the local tax rate from $1.70 to $11.75 per hundred in order that the city may erect along the Mall a row of suitable memorials to its ancient mayors; to transfer to the front lawn of the White House all monuments in the Statuary Hall of the Capitol, and to dry up the Tidal Basin and thus provide more parking space for automobiles. The latter suggestion is eminently practical in that it is in keeping with the reported plans of Col. U. S. Grant 3d, to transform Lincoln Park, the Ellipse, Union Station plaza, and other parks and circles into all-day parking areas.

These proposals have, or ought to have, the unanimous indorsement of the Commission of Fine Arts, the National Capital Park and Planning Commision, and the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks. As they in no way affect the Federal and municipal building programs or the plan to make Washington the world's most beautiful capital city, speedy indorsement of them should also be given by all local civic and business groups, as well as Federal employes and other residents of Washington. The traffic pressure must be relieved. Beauty is all right, but we must live. Let Congress make April 1 forever memorable by ordering these great improvements.

Selective Immigration Should Be Made the Rule for the Protection of Americans.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have just read your editorial, "Sifting Immigrants," and can not see how any congressman or senator, or, in fact, any patriotic American could fail to see the fairness and logic in "selective immigration" as expressed in the editorial mentioned.

Mr. Hull, as commissioner general of immigration, should certainly know whereof he speaks, but is it not a fact that we ordinary citizens see on every side this necessity for some restrictive change in our immigration laws? We not only see the overcrowding of trades, professions, &c., but are becoming increasingly aware of these various foreign elements banding together racially, religiously and commercially in their own selfish way without thought of the general welfare of the country that gives them too much freedom.

I am sure that others join me in hoping that you will keep driving on this matter of selective immigration until we become awakened to the grave danger of the present inadequate laws and I might add, the apparent lack of enforcement of those we have. DOUGLAS W. BARCLAY.

ARABS DRAW BLAME IN JEWISH ATTACKS

Palestine Commission, in Report, Says Outbreak Not Premeditated.

WAILING WALL IS ISSUE

London, March 31 (A.P.).—The Palestine commission today made public its report on the disorders in Palestine last year, holding that the outbreak was from the beginning an attack by Arabs on Jews, but that it was not premeditated.

The report said the Arabian grand mufti must accept some responsibility, adding that the part he took in formation of societies for the defense of Moslem holy places "was influenced by a two-fold desire—to annoy Jews and to mobilize Moslem opinion on the issue of the Wailing Wall.

"He had no intention of utilizing this religious campaign as a means of inciting disorder. But inasmuch as the movement which he in part created became, through force of circumstances, a not unimportant factor in events which led to the outbreak, the mufti, like many others who directly played upon public feeling in Palestine, must accept a share in responsibility for the disturbances."

New Commission Urged.

The riots last summer apparently originated in trouble over the historic Wailing Wall, long a sacred place for the Jews, but now part of a mosque. A total of 133 Jews and 116 Arabs were killed, while 339 Jews and 232 Arabs were wounded. Seven American citizens were among the Jewish dead.

While holding that the outbreak was not a revolt against British authority in Palestine, the report recommended that a clear statement of policy by the British government was essential to good government and it urged that such a statement be made soon.

The government also was urged to appoint shortly another commission under authority of article 14 of the Palestine mandate, to determine the rights of claims to the Wailing Wall, as a measure of essential peace and good government. The report recalled that the League of Nations had agreed to such procedure.

Protection of Non-Jews.

Steps should be taken, the commission advised, to insure that government officials watch for inflammatory articles in the Palestine press, and to empower them to prosecute where articles tending to breach of the peace are published. An adequate intelligence service was advocated to check activities of racial agitation.

The report specified that non-Jewish rights be protected in Palestine.

"Our recommendations regarding immigration and land questions," says the report, "are largely based on the assumption that in definition of policy his majesty's government will clearly state that the rights and duties of non-Jewish communities in Palestine are to be fully safeguarded."

The secretary of an Arab delegation from Palestine now in London said tonight it was too early for a statement regarding the reply.

"We are going to read it tonight," he said, "and the day after tomorrow we shall issue some statement. We want to digest it first."

Girl's Threat to Leap Off Bridge Brings Jail

Camden, N. J., March 31 (A.P.).—When a 19-year-old girl who attempted to leap off the Delaware River bridge, declared she would try it again, she was sentenced by City Judge Garfield Pancost today to a term of six months to "think it over."

The girl is Miss Mary Thompson, of Maple Shade, N. J. A bridge policeman saw her leaning over the rail in the center of the bridge early today. When he questioned her she answered that she was going to jump off and that it was none of his business who she was, what she did, or why.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

NOT to prolong the matter of that spelling bee, but ah, little did the thousands who listened in and those who gathered in the National Press Club, realize that beneath the shining faces and the fat, contented looks of the spellers, lay tragedy, as stark and heart-eating as any malady ever known to man.

For example, all of our life we have wanted to spell—well, to spell and to sing.

It was many years ago that we were intrigued by one of those magazine advertisements: "Learn to spell every word in the dictionary in five weeks and by mail."

* * * *

WE subscribed to the thing. With the first lesson we were directed to procure a vest-pocket notebook and a vestpocket dictionary so that we could grapple with the elusive word wherever we found it. The second lesson called for the acquisition of a vestpocket book of synonyms and another notebook and the third for a vestpocket book of antonyms and another notebook so that the word could be chased down through all the years of its existence; indeed, to its very birth; so we could learn not only the word but its sisters and brothers and the little enemy words.

Six vestpocket books was, of course, quite a library so we got a brief case to carry them around in. And it came about, that everywhere we went in pursuit of play or work the library went along, too.

* * * *

ONE Saturday afternoon we were walking down a business street. And it was pretty crowded with all the housewives out shopping. It was before the stores observed the half-holiday.

Suddenly we picked up a strange word out of the conversation that passed us. We grabbed it out of the air, as it were, and moved over to a dry goods box that stood on the edge of the walk with a view to dissecting it, that is, the word, not the box.

We opened up the library and spread it around on the box and immediately got lost in the maze of syllables, monosyllables and the like.

We were so engrossed, indeed, that we did not realize the crowd that had gathered until a policeman pushed his way through and demanded:

"Have you got a license to peddle here?"

We were thunderstruck and in our faltering, confused explanation the law saw nothing but guilt. We were huddled off to the bastile and there we remained until haled before a kindly magistrate. He was an understanding man, one who knew of the ambitions of men. He heard our explanation and let us go.

The word we were seeking was—incarcerate.

LURE OF SIN ON MOVIE SCREEN IS FORBIDDEN BY WILL HAYS

promised to subscribe, contains the following tenets:

"That the use of liquor in American life shall be restricted to the actual requirements of characterization or plot.

"Pointed profanity is forbidden.

"Obscenity in word, gesture, reference, song, joke, or by suggestion is forbidden.

"Indecent or undue exposure is forbidden.

"That scenes of passion shall not be introduced when not essential to the plot; sex perversion or any inference of it is forbidden on the screen.

"That the sanctity of the institution of marriage and the home shall be upheld; that adultery shall not be explicity treated or justified.

Crime Sympathy Banned.

"That crimes against law shall never be presented in such a way as to throw sympathy with the crime as against law or justice.

"That acts of murder or brutality shall be presented only in such a way as will not inspire imitation; that methods or crime shall not be presented in explicit detail on the screen; that revenge in modern times shall not be justified as a motive.

"Dances which emphasize indecent movements are to be regarded as obscene; the subject of white slavery shall not be treated on the screen.

"No film or episode may throw ridicule on any religious faith; ministers of religion in their character as ministers of religion should not be used as comic characters or as villains.

Flag Respect Ordered.

"The use of the flag shall be consistently respectful; the history, institutions, prominent people and citizenry of other nations shall be represented fairly."

The final details of the new code, Mr. Hays revealed, were developed and agreed to in a series of conferences with the production chiefs of the Hollywood studios. He denied it resulted from pressure brought to bear by reform organizations and described the new rules as "self-discipline" of the industry.

The code will be enforced, Mr. Hays said, as follows:

"From the choice of the script to the completion of the picture, the complete machinery of self-guidance which the industry has built up will supervise the interpretation of the code and its translation into picture values. The code will be enforced through the intelligent practicability derived from consultation between those who want to make pictures better and those who want to see them better.

Audiences Have Increased.

"Sound and quality have increased the motion-picture audience of the United States by 15,000,000 weekly. This is a great challenge. The industry can leave nothing undone to express its sense of responsibility to the public."

Mr. Hays concluded with a plea for "sympathetic understanding and support" from the public.

Besides adopting the new code, the directors of the Motion-Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., at their annual meeting today reelected Mr. Hays, president, and Earl E. Milliken, secretary. The directors present were Capt. G. McL. Baynes, Hafram S. Brown, Charles H. Christie, R. H. Cochrane, E. W. Hammons, Will H. Hays, Frederick L. Herron, Nicholas M. Schenck, Albert Warner, Harry M. Warner and Adolph Zukor.

Drama Guild to Hold Three Sessions Tonight

Three sessions of the drama conference being conducted in Washington for the second season under the auspices of the Community Drama Guild will take place tonight at Franklin Administration Building, Thirteenth and K streets northwest, for members of the Drama Guild and others interested in the discussions of the allied arts of the theater.

The first session, at 8 o'clock, with Mrs. John Otto Johnson as leader, will discuss "Make-up for Men and Women," with demonstrations by Edward E. Muth, Miss Anne Ives and Mrs. David Kushner. At 9:15 o'clock "Early Drama" will be discussed by Frank Baer. At 10 o'clock the reading in rehearsal form of the 1930 prize play of the Drama Guild, "The White Dress," written by Miss Ruth Welty, will be heard; and a subsequent discussion of the play and its players will be led by J. Milnor Doray.

CHERRY BLOSSOMS AT BEST TOMORROW

Trees in Better Condition Than at Any Time Since They Were Planted.

BASIN BOATS CROWDED

The cherry blossoms will be at their best by tomorrow, according to Charles Henlock, chief of the horticultural division of the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

For several months Mr. Henlock has said that the blossoms would be out on April 1 or 2, and his prediction has developed more accurately than the weather man's generally does. Sunday afternoon the buds were just beginning to burst, and they formed a pink ring around the edge of the Tidal Basin which was admired by thousands of persons from all over the Nation who were here over the week-end.

Trees Now In Their Prime.

According to park authorities, the trees will be in better condition this year than they have ever been since they were first brought from Japan during the administration of William Howard Taft as President. The trees are in their prime, and weather conditions for the past few months have been very favorable for their best development.

In keeping with the warm weather which the blossoming of the cherry trees indicate to be on the way, several boats filled with admirers of the cherry trees were scattered over the Tidal Basin yesterday afternoon, despite the chilly wind which insisted on remaining to remind one that winter may be just around the corner again. Coats are available for rent at a boat house which was built on the banks of the basin last year, and many will probably take advantage of them while the trees are bedecked with their natural splendor.

Park Is Thronged.

Park police say that the crowds continued to drive or walk through the parks yesterday, as they did on Sunday afternoon, and they predict steadily increasing numbers of visitors during the rest of the week. Next Sunday will probably be the record day for all time, when excursions which have been announced in neighboring cities by railways serving Washington will be coming into the city, as well as countless motorists who drive here from all parts of the country to see the display.

Diplomats, Congressional folk, and other Government officials were seen in large numbers yesterday afternoon driving through the park. Capt. Ray C. Montgomery, in charge of the Park police, stated that Washingtonians evidentally were in accord with his plea made last week that residents of the District give Sundays to out-of-town visitors who might have driven long distances to see the trees and that there were more District cars, in proportion, out yesterday than there had been on Sunday afternoon.

CHINA IS HARASSED BY ROBBERS, REDS

Foreigners Planning to Quit Many Towns as Attacks by Bandits Continue.

SOLDIERS AMBUSH BAND

Shanghai, March 31 (A.P.).—Bandit disorders, complicated by the capture of missionaries and Communist activities, were indicated by reports pouring into Shanghai today to have created a grave situation in various parts of China.

Radicals who apparently had subsided some weeks ago when Chaing Kai-Shek demonstrated the strength of the Nanking government, were reported active again, especially in northern China where Yen Hsi-Shan, Governor of Shansi Province, is heading military opposition to the Nationalist government. Much of the recent lawlessness in south China was attributed to Yen's incitements, as he allegedly is trying to bring about the government's downfall.

Information came from Suchow, about 50 miles from Shanghai, that police and soldiers had united and ambushed boats carrying 500 bandits. The boats were raked with rifle fire until they were filled with dead and wounded, the reports said. Police then boarded the boats and engaged in hand-to-hand conflict with the outlaws, who were finally overcome and many of them captured. Others fled.

Evacuation of many places by foreigners was believed imminent, if not already under way. One of these places is Nanchang, where officers of the Standard Oil Co. of New York reported conditions precarious. Evacuation had not begun there, but dispatches said foreign shipping on the upper Yangtse continued to be subjected to rifle fire and machine gun attacks from bandits who menaced the locality. Other advices said the Nanchang-Kiukang Railway, which affords a means of evacuation, had been interrupted, but the cause was not given. Swatow, Kwangtung dispatches said Communists were increasingly active along the Fukien border.

No new light had been shed on the fate of missionaries captured recently and there were no reports of additional captures. The latest missionary seizures reported were at Yunanchow, western Kiangsi, where, according to reports to the north China Daily News, two women and a man were taken prisoner, three others escaping. Those captured were the Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Porteus, of England, and Miss N. E. Gemmell, an American. All work for a British missionary organization. Their whereabouts is a mystery.

AT 12:25 at night our No. 528, the New York Night Express, pulls out of Union Station. But you can board your Drawing-room Sleeping car as early as 10 o'clock. Plenty of time to get to sleep before the train starts.

And even after your train is under way we think you'll sleep comfortably and restfully. Our engineers do their best to start and stop without jolt and jerk. And we have asked our porters and trainmen to be as quiet as possible so that in the morning you may awake rested.

You arrive in Jersey City at 6:40 A. M. But your sleeper is parked out in the open and you may remain in it until 8 o'clock.

Our Motor Coaches leave directly from the trainside at Jersey City at convenient times, and take you and your hand baggage, without additional cost, to any of our 4 stations in Greater New York (33d Street; 42d Street; Columbus Circle; or Brooklyn) or to any one of nine intermediate route stops.

Interest Day
For American Security Savings Depositors

$175,152.44

—was credited today to the savings accounts of more than thirty thousand thrifty customers of the American Security and Trust Company. This large sum represents the interest that accrued during the past six months on their deposit accounts with the Company's Savings Department.

Surplus funds deposited regularly in a savings account, on which interest is compounded, provide a growing, safe and easily convertible investment. Unaffected by economic disturbances, these funds form a valuable defense when money is needed, and open the way to business opportunities.

The Savings depositors of this institution will again share in this semi-annual distribution of interest on October 1, 1930. You are cordially invited to open a savings account now and participate in our next Interest Day.

Savings Depositors are requested to bring or send in their pass-books so that the proper entry may be made therein.

Society Turns To Sport With Spring Season

Racing at Bowie to Take Many Devotees to Track.

By JEAN ELIOT.

SOCIETY turns to sport as the spring comes on. Horse shows and hunting have been much in the news of late. The racing season at Bowie will open today, with large groups of society folk in attendance, and this will be followed by meetings at Havre de Grace and Pimlico, keeping racing in the foreground of the picture for the next few weeks.

Moreover, Washingtonians display no end of interest in the springtime sports at the Naval Academy, when crew races and baseball are featured. Many will be present on April 19 when the fine new boathouse at the academy will be formally opened and when the first boat race on the Naval Academy schedule, a three-cornered event with Columbia University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology will be run off. There will also be pilgrimages to Annapolis next Saturday to witness the lacrosse game between the Naval Academy and the Oxford-Cambridge team.

With a game between the Oxford-Cambridge aggregation and a St. John's College team scheduled for today at the Central High School Stadium, Washingtonians will, however, have their first opportunity to see the visitors play on our home grounds. After the game members of the Oxford-Cambridge team will be received by the British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay at the old British Embassy in Massachusetts avenue and after this, in turn, there will be two tea parties in their honor, one given by Mr. Ronald Ian Campbell, Counselor of the Embassy, and the other by the Commercial Counselor and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart.

The English team is in this country with the hope of carrying off the Flannery Cup, named for John R. Flannery, one of the pioneers of the game, which goes to the winner of the world's pioneer lacrosse championship and which is now held by Syracuse University. Should the Britishers carry off the cup, however, there should be consolation for Americans in the fact that most of the players are Americans. Rhodes scholars at Cambridge or Oxford. The captain of the visiting team, who is also manager for the tour, is Mr. A. B. Grauer, of British Columbia, a Canadian Rhodes scholar who was a member of the Canadian lacrosse team in the last Olympic games.

Mrs. Sims Bray, of Atlanta, arrived in Washington today to be the guest of Mrs. Jack Hayes. During her stay in town Mrs. Bray will be the guest of honor at several dinners and luncheons arranged by friends. Tomorrow Mrs. Henry M. Morrow, wife of Col. Morrow, U. S. A., will give a luncheon at her home on Columbia road.

Mrs. E. H. G. Slater has returned to Washington for the remainder of the season after passing the winter at Palm Beach.

Mr. Franklin Waltman, special correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, was the guest of honor and speaker at the weekly forum luncheon of the Woman's National Democratic Club yesterday. Mr. Waltman, who accompanied the special commission to Haiti, spoke on Haiti. Among those at the luncheon were Mrs. C. C. Dill, Mrs. John B. Kendrick, Mrs. Harry Covington, Mrs. Reeve Lewis, Mrs. Bertram Chesterman, Mrs. Charles Hamlin, Mrs. Frank Hiram Snell, Mrs. M. de Clare Berry, Miss Ethel Ketcham, Mrs. Rose Yates Forrester, Mrs. Frank West, Mrs. Frank Bright, Mrs. Harry N. Rockey, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. O. M. Spencer, Mrs. Huston Thompson, Miss Elizabeth Sherley, Miss Lilian Otto, Mrs. Mary MacCracken Jones, Miss F. Eleanor Smith, Mrs. E. H. Jackson, Gov. Nellie Tayloe Ross and Mrs. Milton Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler will close their apartment at the hotel the end of the month and will go to their summer home at Janesville, Wis.

Little Cabinet Dinner Is Held At Hotel Here

Annual Event Serves to Bring Together New and Old Members.

Men may come and men may go but the Little Cabinet dinners, jolly events held each month—go on forever. Following a custom established in 1921, the Little Cabinet met last night at the Willard for the "get-together" dinner given to welcome newcomers to the group and to discuss affairs of interest to the various members of the Cabinet departments.

The feminine touch is lacking at the festivities this year, with Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, erstwhile Assistant Attorney General, out of the Little Cabinet and her post filled by a man, Mr. G. N. Youngquist. Pettycoat representation in the group of assistant secretaries dates from the Wilson administration, when Mrs. Annette Abott Adams was appointed Assistant Attorney General, to be succeeded by Mrs. Willebrandt when President Harding came in. But President Hoover, elected by the embattled women of the country, according to preelection prophecies and postelection figures, has not seen fit to carry on the tradition.

Members of the Little Cabinet present last night included from the Department of State: the Acting Secretary of State, Mr. Joseph P. Cotton, Mr. Wilbur J. Carr and Mr. Francis White; Treasury Department, Mr. Seymour Lowman, Maj. Ferry K. Heath and Mr. Walter A. Hope; Department of Justice, Mr. Oscar R. Leehring, Mr. Charles D. Lawrence, Mr. Seth W. Richardson, Mr. Charles P. Sisson, Mr. G. N. Youngquist and Mr. Charles B. Rugg; Postoffice Department, Mr. Arch Coleman, Mr. W. Irving Glover, Mr. Frederic A. Tilton and Mr. John W. Philp; Department of the Interior, Mr. Joseph N. Dixon; Department of Agriculture, Mr. Benick W. Dunlap; Department of Commerce, Mr. Clarence M. Young; Department of Labor, Mr. Robe Carl White and Mr. W. W. Husband.

Mr. Charles Lawrence, Assistant Attorney General, entertained a small company at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Dr. and Mrs. Julius Klein also entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Dr. Jane N. Baldwin and Miss Amy E. Shaw, of Vassar College, were week-end guests at the Dodge Hotel.

Maj. and Mrs. Weeks Are Capital Visitors.

Maj. and Mrs. J. B. Weeks, of Fort Leavenworth, Kans., are at the Powhatan for several days.

Mr. Stanley D. Woodard, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Stanley P. Woodard, at the Mayflower for a few days, has returned to New York.

Miss Virginia W. Stonestreet entertained twelve at dinner and bridge at the Dodge Hotel last evening.

Guests Enjoy Mid-Lent Fete Of Col. Cooper

Musicale Is Attended by About 400 at Hotel.

Entertaining for about 400 guests, Col. Wade H. Cooper, was host yesterday afternoon at a musicale at the Mayflower, which was a happy celebration of mid-Lent. The Diplomatic Corps was generously represented in the company, which also included goodly delegations from official and resident society. A group of pretty girls, among them Miss Engracia Freyer, Miss Peggy Tyner and Miss Helen Walker, distributed programs and contributed a pictorial touch to the party.

The program, for which the ballroom was used, was presented by Miss Helen Howison, lyric soprano; Mr. Henry Sokolov, violinist, who is concert master of the National Symphony Orchestra, and Mr. Michael Shvetz, basso, formerly of the Russian Imperial Theater. Besides Miss Howison's charming song selections and well chosen violin solos, it included a group of Ukranian folk songs, for which the Russian singer is noted, and wound up with the colorful "Song of the Volga Boatmen."

Afterward tea was served in the Chinese room. The group of ladies assisting the host included Senora de Tellez, Senora de Davila, Mme. Veverka, Senora de Diez de Medina, Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, Mrs. Morris Sheppard, Mrs. James E. Watson, Mrs. Walter F. George, Mrs. Porter H. Dale, Mrs. Guy D. Goff, Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg, Mrs. William E. Brock, Mrs. John A. Hull, Mrs. Stephen O. Fuqua, Mrs. Joseph E. Washington, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mrs. Frank B. Freyer, Mrs. Robert Love Taylor, Mrs. John Allan Dougherty, Mrs. George C. Thorpe, Mrs. Charles B. Drake, Mrs. Alice B. Carrier and Mrs. Elonzo Tyner.

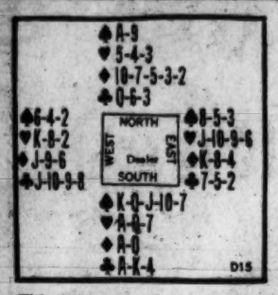
WORK ON BRIDGE



This hand was played in a game of Auction Bridge. South's bid of one Spade obtaining the contract. With such a whale, game is highly probable at either Spades or No Trump, but the Spade honors count 80 against 30 for three Aces.

At Contract South could not risk bidding less than game, so with a count of 25 and nine tricks seemingly assured at No Trump, he might bid three No Trumps, thinking a bid of four Spades a little dangerous. As it happens, North would jump three Spades to four, but South could not know that. It will be noted that a slam can be made at either Declaration (grand at Spades, small at No Trump), but bidding for it would be too venturesome.

When the hand was played the contract was four Spades; the Declarer won the first Club in dummy so as to finesse, and immediately led a Diamond and won with the Queen in the South hand. Next came two rounds of trumps, dummy winning the second, and then a Heart in an effort to win that finesse also. That King, however, was held by West and won; and the adversaries subsequently took another Heart trick and held the Declarer to five-odd.

The Correct Play.

South should have won the first Club so as to keep a Club entry in dummy; then South should have led a trump honor, dummy's Ace winning. Next a Diamond from dummy for a finesse and then the Ace of Diamonds; this followed by the Seven of trumps won by dummy's Nine. After that, another Diamond ruffed by South, and the adverse trumps drawn. Dummy now has the Queen of Clubs as an entry to cash two Diamonds and South discards two Hearts, making a grand slam.

Of course this play would not succeed if the adverse Diamonds were divided 4-2; but in that case the Queen of Clubs still would be in the North hand to make a Heart finesse possible.

GOOD NEWS, BRIDGERS.

We are pleased to announce we can now renew the offer of Milton C. Work's great Contract and Auction booklet entitled "THE PLAYING PROBLEMS." Bridgers who received copies from previous offers are most enthusiastic over it.

"PLAYING PROBLEMS" presents eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding for each hand with reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reason for each answer in complete detail.

"PLAYING PROBLEMS," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high-priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Asking for Love."

DEAR Miss McDonald: Please help me. I do so want to start the new year right, and it seems almost impossible.

I have been married a year and a half and both my husband and I seem to be all wrong. We just seem to get on each other's nerves.

We have a darling baby, but everything I do for her in his sight is wrong. If she crys, I should stop her, if I try to stop her I should let her cry. Now I ask you, what am I supposed to do to be right in his sight?

Some things he does just make me boil. He never tells me how much he cares for me unless I ask him, and then he'll say, "Of course, I love you, why not?" Is that any way to tell a person you love them? So many of the little courtesies shown me before marriage are unknown now. Why? I am the same girl he married just eighteen months ago. Didn't I go through sickness and pain to bring his child and mine into this world? Am I due any consideration at all? Or am I just a wife, housekeeper and mother? Not a sweetheart, best girl and pal? I try, oh, so hard, not to find fault with him, but everything seems to be wrong anyway.

I sometimes think I will leave him, but I know deep down in my heart I will not, for you see, I love him. Yes, with all his fault finding, I still love him. Love is a funny thing, isn't it?

Is there any advice you can give me, Miss McDonald? I would appreciate it very much if you could tell me some way to remedy my married life. Please pardon this long letter but I couldn't tell you in any less words.

WANT-TO-BE-SWEETHEART-AGAIN.

It certainly is a crime, the way these men turn out after they have been elected. But the only thing to do is just laugh it off! And then when he decides that he would like to lapse into the role of lover, tell him you have forgotten how to be loving. Never beg for love. Avoid his even infrequent overtures and you will find that far more effective.

Love your baby, stay out in the air all day long, make friends, so that life is not one long session of waiting for an overbearing and probably self-centered young whippersnapper to come strutting into his kingdom.

Don't take this lad so seriously. Learn to laugh at his inconsistencies. Be as casual with him as he is with you. Be out when he gets home. Let him wonder whether you were run down by an ice wagon or are just sitting in a movie gazing at Richard Dix. Rave about some man you both know, preferably about his manners. Be conscious of the rest of the universe, and let him know how very conscious you are. The trouble with most very young wives is that, deplorably, they are so sunk in love for the youthful husband they really are comatose to the rest of creation, and this is fatal. For even a very level-headed man becomes balloon-minded when he finds he is the entire world to the poor little soul at home!

Get out and see things and people every day. Dress up and doll up, and never forget you are you, a real person, not just somebody's faithful and adoring slave.

Don't quarrel, but learn to be aloof at times when aloofness is not all the indicated role. Frankly state that you do not feel toward him as you once did. Let that sink in. You will find that an attitude of preoccupation is very provocative of interest. Women who really have many outside interests invariably have husbands who are inordinately jealous of those interests.

The stay-at-home wife could profit by their example and at least pretend a few interests besides the all-important man.

MAW SAYS POP HAS BEEN GOING AROUND WITH A BLANK EXPRESSION EVER SINCE HE FILLED OUT HIS INCOME TAX PAPERS.

Dare Interprets the MODE

A sort of chartreuse shantung, with noticeably smart neckline, clever stitching and the almost inevitable flare. (Courtesy of Doupuy-Magnin, Paris.)

Paris, March 31.

THE new waistlines are hard to manage, I'll have to admit. Oh, of course, if you are young and lithesome and hipless, then they are no problem—I have it on the very best authority. But most of us aren't.

Yet a below normal waistline shrieks out loud of being last year's and nothing else, and none of us are ready to just give up and say, "Oh, well, let it be a normal waistline, then, and why worry?" Nor are we quite willing to show our figures at what we are forced to consider a disadvantage, which is what normal waistline does to them, especially if it is belted rather tightly.

This is the reason more than any other why many of the clever couturiers are carrying the waistline to even above normal, and then balancing the silhouette by making the shoulders and just under the arms of these garments rather loose and masculine looking. For it stands to reason that a dress belted slightly above the normal waist is going to be more flattering to the hips than one belted just above them.

* * * *

When chartreuse green silk shantung comes from Doupuy Magnin, and when it is stitched, and when it is an ensemble, and when we sketch it for you as we did today, then spring is here again, tra-la! So also is smartness and chic, and now aren't you glad you read the Dare columns!

* * * *

For the spring and early summer business dress there is nothing I recommend more heartily than black or navy very smartly and simply made with medium long hem—and collars and cuffs. Because unusual collars and cuffs are seen everywhere in Paris on smart women this season, and you may go straight from your office to tea or dinner without the slightest compunction about your dress.

* * * *

But collars and cuffs are new, and very elaborate—and you'll just have to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post to find out what they are and how to make them—sets of lame (lah may), of pearls, of paillettes, of straws and braids—real ideas, these, better send for them.

* * * *

As a contradiction to sleeveless dresses for country wear many of the summer dinner and dance dresses have tiny cap sleeves or short sleeves, or even long sleeves.

* * * *

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Overalls have long been considered an essential part of every American boy's wardrobe. Jolly sun suits might never be recognized as relatives of that prosaic garment, but they are first cousins brought up to date and abbreviated into sun suits. The fabrics are bright—flowered cretonnes much more porous and comfortable than the heavy materials so often used for overalls. The trouser legs are short and loose enough to allow the sun to do its work. They can be lengthened, if the small boy shows too great a tendency to get battered knees.

The Goofus Dromedary

Of all the Goofii—the most wary
Is the Goofus Dromedary.
Behold her eye, the way she winks,
"Someone is after me!" she thinks.
Such silly airs,—I heave a sigh
And put the simple question: "Why?"

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF April 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:40 a. m., and from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m.

An old sorrow or worry will be dropped from your shoulders on this date, and the beginning of a brighter period in your life is augured. Business activities will pick up and financial resources will be increased.

The child born on this April 1 will have a large bump of imagination, and it will have a delightful, but impractical nature. It will be unhappy without considerable love and affection, and it is destined to receive some severe wounds before it really lands upon its feet.

Nature endowed you with a sweet disposition and quiet and retiring qualities. As a woman, you are most effeminate, and you possess all the qualifications essential to a true home-maker wife and mother. Should circumstances force you into the commercial world, many of your charms and graces will be lost. The bashfulness (with which you are often twitted) will be camouflaged by brusqueness, and in your effort to become efficient in a foreign field of endeavor, you will destroy much of your humaneness. You will acquire a false personality—a poor substitute for your rightful one. In your proper sphere, you are very natural, but taken out of it, you become affected.

As one of the so-called stronger sex, you are very masculine in your manners and tastes and you are a real man's man. You have a gentle heart and spirit, but you neither desire nor choose a soft-cushioned existence. Self-reliant in every respect, you resent interference from others and you seldom ask for any kind of assistance. Your life would be an easier one and probably a happier one, if you could learn to be as gracious a receiver as you are a giver. You are extremely generous, but you do not like to be "worked." You are a faithful and extremely loyal lover; a true friend and a bitter enemy.

Successful people born April 1:

Richard Butler, soldier.

Edwin A. Abbey, artist.

Bismarck, German chancellor.

Edward A. Sothern, actor.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

OUR West Coast operative, Mr Hubbard Keavy, reports that by assiduous snooping about he has become apprised that an ex-convict is technical director on a prison story being done for the flickers. . . . Al Jennings, a reformed robber, supervised the robbery scenes in a Western picture. . . . Erich von Stroheim will be monocleless for the first time in "Three Faces East," being made as a talkie already having been done as a silent fillum. . . . Molly O'Day and Sally O'Neil, sisters, are to play in a phonoplay called "Sisters." . . . Overweight has kept Miss O'Day away from the screen for many months. . . . Speaking of poundage, Mary Miles Minter is trying to lose some in the hope of a comeback. . . . $100,000 worth of sets and properties were destroyed in the battle scenes in a recent war opus. . . . When a prop mail box was torn down on one of the movie lots, four letters were found in it. . . . Mary Astor is an enthusiastic amateur photographer. . . . June Collyer, away from pictures for several months, is back with a new contract. . . . A basket ball team in Volga, S. Dak., calls itself "The Boatmen."

It has been interesting recently to watch the rise of Charles Bickford through the medium of such potent dramas as "Hell's Heroes," "Dynamite," "Anna Christie" and "South Sea Rose."

The thought comes to me that there has always been a Charles Bickford riding the crest of the wave since the inception of the movie as a popular form of amusement. He has not, of course, always been called that, but he has invariably stood for the same qualities of physical power and virile manhood that just now find their fullest expression in the person of Mr. Bickford.

The line goes back a long way and includes such illustrious names as William Farnum, Tom Santschi, Mitchell Lewis, the late "Big Bill" Russell and numerous other two-fisted hombres.

Since the motion picture producers have gone in for song plugging in a large way, publicity devices have taken on strange forms and masqueraded in most extraordinary disguises. The observation is prompted by a cordial note from D. W. Winkler, general manager of the music publishing firm of De Sylva, Brown & Henderson, accompanied by complimentary copies of "To Know You Is to Love You," "Isn't This a Cock-Eyed World?" "When the Little Red Roses Get the Blues for You" and "Sing a Little Theme Song." Winnie Lightner's numbers from Warner Brothers' production of "Hold Everything," soon to be seen locally.

The idea, so Mr. Winkler tells me, is that "there is no doubt that your public (sic) is interested in the songs that occur in the feature pictures of the day and we are sending these copies to you in order that you will be familiar with them prior to the showing of the picture in your city."

That's darn sweet, if you ask me, and if you would care to hear any of these ditties before Miss Lightner has an opportunity to spoil them, drop in and I'll be glad to sing them for you in my rich, resonant barytone!

The master of ceremonies with next week's stage unit at the Palace will be Al Evans, who was the so-called permanent m. c. at the same house following Herbert Rawlinson last summer. This will be Al's second return engagement since that time.

If you have not already noticed it, take my tip that the Boys in the trenches are offering a group of exceptionally tuneful overtures in the picture houses this week. Especially is this true at the Earle, Palace and Fox—naming them in the order in which I heard them.

At the Earle, a medley of Southern airs graduates from the dignified measures of the "Southern Rhapsody" to the red hot rhythms of the latest tunes, to bowl the customers into the aisles; at the Palace, Harry Borjes is capitalizing the "Rogue Song" melodies with a recorded number sung through the amplifiers by Lawrence Tibbett, and at the Fox Leon Brusiloff has compiled a rousing potpourri of "Hits of the Moment," which is probably all they will prove to be, although they are torrid while they last.

Claude Burrows, at the Columbia, and Freddy Clark and his genial clowns at the RKO-Keith Theater, are also well up in the running—unless my informants are all crazier than I have any reason to suspect.

It is a source of intense pride and deep gratification to the house management that the first visit made to any Washington theater by Sir Ronald Lindsay, newly appointed British Ambassador to the United States, and Lady Lindsay should have been to the Fox.

Sir Ronald and Lady Lindsay, accompanied by a party comprised of members of the embassy staff, attended last night's final performance at the F street cathedral, and upon entering the marble-colored foyer were enthusiastic in their praise of the beauty of the playhouse soon to house the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company during its brief season in the Capital.

By the way, if you really want to hear me sing those songs, you'll have to bring your own piano!

Mabel Normand Estate $94,000; Cody Gets $1

Los Angeles, March 31 (A.P.).—An estate valued at $94,000 was left by Mabel Normand, screen comedienne, who died here recently after a long illness. The will, filed today for probate, bequeathed the estate to the actress' mother, Mrs. Mary D. Normand.

The estate consisted of $9,000 in cash, $35,000 in real estate and $50,000 in jewelry. Lew Cody, actor and husband of Miss Normand, was left $1 and appointed administrator. In her will, Miss Normand said Cody was amply provided for and he informed the court on posting bond that he was worth $75,000.

Pope Opens Schools For Vatican Citizens

Vatican City State, March 31.—Once more the narrowness of the Papal State is brought home to its citizens. The papal schools, for the exclusive use of children living within its bounds are just opened for the scholars.

But they are outside the territory, being a quarter of a mile away from St. Peter's Square. With the best will in the world, the Pope found it impossible to find room for schools. Every available yard of land here is built on, or planned out for new buildings made necessary by the creation of the state as an independent realm.

Prices realized on Swift & Co. sales of carcass beef in Washington, D. C., for week ending Saturday, March 29, 1930, on shipments sold out ranged from 14.00 cents to 24.50 cents per pound and averaged 19.28 cents per pound.—Adv.

"Now I Feel 100% Better"

"People told my mother how good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was for young girls, so I took it. I used to feel miserable at certain times but now I feel 100% better and have gained a little in weight too. I am only nineteen years old. I do not work but of course I help mother with the housework. We are both much pleased with the results from the Vegetable Compound and we recommend it to other girls who need it."—*Bernice M. GUSHER BELCHES OIL ON OKLAHOMA TOWN

Village Nearly Two Miles From Well Is Sprayed by Petroleum.

FIRE PRECAUTIONS MADE

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 31 (A.P.).—Spraying oil over the top of its derrick, Oklahoma's largest gusher tonight still roared defiance to scores of men working to control its flow of petroleum and gas.

A slight shift in a strong wind tonight diverted the spray from the direction of Oklahoma City. For several hours the oil from the gusher, the Mary Sudik No. 1 of the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Co., threatened to send a spray of oil over the southern part of this city.

Workmen tonight had not relaxed their precautions to guard against possible outbreak of fire. Its oil production is estimated by oil operators at more than 2,000 barrels an hour.

Housewives in Capitol Hill, a sections of Oklahoma City, were warned to close their windows and take drying clothes from the lines, while all fires within an area approximately two miles from the well were extinguished. Warnings were given industrial plants, farther from the well, to be prepared to extinguish their fires on a moment's notice, as flames, once started, oil men believed might sweep the entire South Oklahoma City oil field.

Emergency fire fighting apparatus was placed in advantageous points throughout the field to combat any blaze that might result from the enormous spray of mixed oil and gas.

Tonight the well was belching oil high above the crownblock of the 122-foot derrick. At odine City, more than a mile and a half north of the gusher, a large amount of oil was falling.

The well is one of the largest sweet, high gravity producers ever drilled. It was estimated to have produced approximately 200,000 barrels of oil and 800,000,000 cubic feet of gas since it blew in. Although most of the oil has been wasted as it sprayed over the countryside, much of it was being caught in ground pits near the hole. Lines were being laid to recover this fluid.

Out of Work, Capital Man Hangs Himself

Driven to suicide by failure to find employment, Arthur C. Coffy, 29 years old, of W street near Seventeenth street southeast, was found hanging from the ceiling of his home early yesterday morning by his wife Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt issued a certificate of death by suicide after an investigation.

Coffy is said to have remained in the kitchen of his home to read after the family retired Sunday night. His body was found next morning attached to a piece of cord tied to a nail in the ceiling. Police who investigated were told that Coffy had been out of work and had threatened to kill himself.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES
Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights if you are like thousands of others.
Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel: there's no sickness or pain after taking them.
Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.
Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.
Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color.
Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

S. E. Cochran and Clifford Brooke offer National Theater Players in the romantic comedy-drama, "Holiday," in three acts, by Philip Barry. Staged by Clifford Brooke; scenery by Charles Squires.

Before a capacity audience, the National Theater Players last night inaugurated their sixth annual spring and summer season in Washington.

A play never before seen here, Philip Barry's delightful romantic comedy, "Holliday," served as the opening number.

Usually, Hamlet's line is right: The play's the thing; but last night the players improvised upon their Shakespeare and came in for extra added bows, impeding the action of the play and turning thoughts away from script to personalities.

Several of the old-timers are back: Romaine Callender, Mrs. Adelaide Hibbard and Freddie Sherman. Of the newcomers, the leading lady and the leading man, naturally, drew the focus of attention. They came off winners. Miss Marion Wells, good to look at, and a young lady whose voice is sweet and smooth as a Southern julep, in the old days, has the histrionic powers necessary to carry on in a season such as these that besiege the players. Mr. Walter Gilbert makes a good leading man.

The Barry play, full of subtleties, is rather a difficult play to handle—and yet the Players, under the able direction of Clifford Brooke, manage to make a go of it; first night nervousness and all conceded. As a matter of fact, there seemed to be no first nightitis—all the anxiety being on the far or street side of the footlights.

As Johnny Case, the hero in the play, Walter Gilbert made a great debut as leading man; with two women at his command. An unknown, socially and financially, he happens into the household of Edward Seton—played admirably by Dudley Hawley, an old Poli's player. There, in a realm of riches, Johnny Case decides that he'd rather work out his existence on a scale not so grand; that he'd be much better off away from all this hotsy totsyness. So he tells his beloved, Julia, and Julia, upon the advice of the old gentleman, her father, stands pat for the riches. Incidentally, the new ingenue, Miss Marion Sterly, gets started in this character, the pleasure lovoing Julia, and she makes rather a fine character study of the little vixen.

As Linda Seton, sister of Julia, Miss Marion Wells has nothing else to do but upset a lot of plans and tables, follow in the footsteps of her grandfather, who made all this wealth in the first instance, and capture the heart of Johnny Case, which probably comes off after the curtain goes down on the last act.

Anyway, with the boy between the two girls—one preferring riches and the other yearning for adventure—there's a grand evening in the theater, for the Barry play has many excellent moods and moments and the National Theater Players round them up in good shape.

The studios turned out a first-class job in making the sage sets—two of 'em, and in keeping with the millionaire's mansion—and the company looks good in all this gradeur.

After it was all over but the applause, and the shouting, Mr. Clifford Brooke, the director, stepped to the center of the stage, rounded up his charges and introduced them to the patrons. Nay, he did more. He announced next week's bill, which will see Mr. Walter Gilbert standing in the shoes recently vacated by Bert Lytell; a play called "Brothers," wherein the new leading man of the National Theater Players must essay a protein role.

With flowers in the lobby, an enthusiastic audience, a goodly company of players, and a dandy play, it looks as if the National Theater Players are all set for another record-breaking season—down here on the banks of this old Potomac River. It just keeps rolling along—and they, too, on the Show Boat with Cap'n Cochran.

2,000,000 ACRE CUT IN WHEAT PROPOSED

Coulter Suggestion Made to Have Land Devoted to Other Products.

CAMPAIGN IS LAUNCHED

Chicago, March 31 (A.P.).—A campaign to withdraw 2,000,000 acres from spring wheat production and substitute other needed crops was launched today at a conference between Chairman Alexander Legge of the Federal Farm Board and Dr. John L. Coulter, chief economist of the Tariff Commission.

As a result of the conference Dr. Coulter and James Howard, special worker for the Farm Board, will meet several Minnesota and North and South Dakota farm groups at Minneapolis tomorrow on the subject.

Dr. Coulter proposed the substitution of flax, barley, rye, oats, alfalfa and sweet clover on 2,000,000 acres ordinarily planted to two kinds of spring wheat in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

The economist said he and Mr. Howard would spend at least the next two weeks mobilizing substitute crops and helping farmers plan their spring planting in the Northwest belt. They also were planning to assist the farmers in trading seed wheat to the Farm Board for seed of other crops.

Success of Dr. Coulter's proposal is expected by its sponsors to reduce spring wheat by approximately 10 per cent, which the Farm Board urged as necessary to prevent surplus.

"Most industries must shut down to control surplus," said Dr. Coulter. "This is not true of the farmer. His land need not be idle. Other crops besides wheat are needed, especially for export."

He also said planting of seed other than wheat would benefit the soil.

5 More Days Remain
To Win a Splendid Automobile or Fine Radio

Twenty-eight big prizes, twelve automobiles and sixteen radios, will be awarded to the candidates highest in vote standing when this sensational campaign ends Saturday night at 9 P. M. All candidates have an equal chance to win during the next five days, as all are closely bunched for the finish and the new vote schedules, as listed below, make every subscription and "second payment" good for thousands of votes. Every minute counts NOW as never before and votes alone will decide the winners. Think of the joy in owning one of these beautiful, new cars and resolve that the most valuable of all, the $3,630 Cadillac Sedan, will be yours. It can be if you will to make it so, and put every ounce of energy into the final efforts of this great contest.

Rules and Regulations
Governing Final Period of Campaign

As a matter of caution, and to guard against the possibility of loss to candidates through misunderstanding during these last days of the campaign, final instructions are herewith appended, which should be observed. All candidates, especially those who live in the outside districts, should read and weigh every line carefully.

(1) All remittances mailed from now on should be mailed special delivery to insure their reaching us in time. If you live outside of Washington and intend to mail subscriptions take the precaution to find out what time your postoffice closes, also obtain all possible information as to train service on the railroad which will carry your mail to the campaign office the last day of the campaign, April 5.

(2) You are allowed the privilege of mailing your subscriptions up to Saturday, April 5, 9 p. m. These subscriptions must reach the campaign office by Tuesday noon, April 8, and show a postmark of having been mailed on or before 9 p. m., April 5. The Washington Post will not be responsible for any mail, even though properly postmarked, which fails to arrive within the specified time.

(3) All remittances should be carefully addressed to the Campaign Manager, Washington Post, Washington, D. C. This will assure absolute accuracy and will prevent any of them from going astray.

(4) Examine your official voting ballots carefully and see that the correct number of votes have been issued on same. Pay particular attention to "second payments" and be sure that the proper votes have been issued. If there are any corrections notify the Campaign Manager in person or in writing and proper corrections will be made. The Campaign Department will not be responsible for clerical errors unless notification is given, after which correction will be made.

(5) UNDER NO CONDITION WILL VOTES BE TRANSFERRED FROM ONE CANDIDATE TO ANOTHER. THIS IS AN ABSOLUTE RULE, AND WILL BE STRICTLY ENFORCED.

(6) Be sure and mark your subscriptions properly, Old or New. Be sure they are marked correctly. Every subscription is verified and switching will only result in regret and disappointment.

(7) "Second payments" must be marked as such on the remittance sheet which is sent to the Campaign Department. Also give the amount of the first payment and the name of the candidate obtaining the first payment, if other than yourself.

(8) All remittances sent in after Monday, March 31, must be either postal money order, express money order, certified checks or drafts, excepting the individual checks of subscribers.

(9) Absolutely no subscription money will be refunded. If you don't receive prompt acknowledgment of remittances you send in during the last few days of the campaign notify the Campaign Department immediately.

(10) Only bona fide subscriptions will be accepted. No sums of money will be accepted, the names of subscribers to be supplied later. All remittances should be accompanied by the usual remittance sheets, properly filled out with the amounts.

(11) On the last day of the campaign the campaign staff will be unable to serve any contestant in any way other than by answering questions pertaining to subscriptfons, second payments, &c. Contestants must have their subscriptions properly listed on remittance sheets, taking care that these sheets are properly balanced in relation to the amount of money necessary to cover subscriptions listed. Contestants will then seal their final remittances in envelopes provided for that purpose, personally dropping them in sealed and locked ballot box. Thus no one but the candidate in person will know the amount of final remittances until the auditors break the seal and start the final count.

TWO BANK TELLERS INDICTED IN FRAUD

Embezzlement and False Entries Laid to Man and Woman.

BOND FIRMS COVER LOSS

Two former employes of the Second National Bank were indicted yesterday on charges of falsifying entries of the bank and embezzlement. They are Miss Dora L. Davis, 33 years old, of Laurel, Md., and George A. Watts, 47 years old, of Washington. Both were tellers in the savings department of the bank prior to their resignations last summer.

No loss was sustained by the bank as a result of the alleged peculations, bonding companies having made good the shortages in both instances, it was understood.

Miss Davis is charged in five counts with making false entries in the "general ledger book" of the bank, and in three counts with embezzling $400.

Watts is charged in two counts of the indictment against him with embezzling $275 and in five counts with making false entries in the "general ledger book."

Miss Davis is charged with making false entries on May 1, 1928; October 16, 1928; May 17, 1928; October 8, 1927, and June 1, 1929, and with embezzling various sums between October 8, 1928, and December 28, 1928.

Watts is charged specifically with making false entries on September 24, 1928; July 16, 1928; March 11, 1929; May 16, 1929 and May 20, 1929. He is alleged to have embezzled $200 on December 11, 1928, and $75 on March 21, 1929.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Washington, Monday, March 31, 8 p. m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia—Fair and warmer Tuesday; Wednesday showers and colder; increasing south and southwest winds, shifting to northwest, Wednesday.

The disturbance that was over the Southern plateau region Sunday night is moving slowly east-southeastward over Arizona and New Mexico, Santa Fe, 29.62 inches, and another center has developed over Missouri and eastern Iowa, Kansas City, 29.76 inches. The disturbance that was over western Lake Superior is moving slowly eastward over western Ontario, Cachrane, 29.70 inches, and pressure remains low from Newfoundland to Greenland and Iceland, Julianehaab, 29.48 inches. A disturbance of wide extent and marked intensity is moving rapidly southeastward over Alaska and the Mackenzie Basin with two centers, Dawson, Yukon, and Fort Simpson, N. W. T., 28.98 inches. Pressure is high over the Atlantic and east Gulf States and the Appalachian region, Titusville, Fla., 30.28 inches. The Northwestern area of high pressure is moving slowly southeastward over the Northern plains States with diminished intensity, Valentine, Nebr., 30.06 inches. There have been local rains within the last 24 hours in the plateau region, and local snows from the northern Rocky Mountain region eastward to Wisconsin and upper Michigan. Elsewhere fair weather has prevailed. The temperature has risen from the southern Lake region and the upper Ohio Valley southwestward to the Rio Grande and the west Gulf coast and from the Pacific coast eastward over the Northern plateau and Northern Rocky Mountain regions, North Dakota, and the western Canadian provinces, and it has fallen from Wisconsin and eastern Minnesota southwestward to Utah and Arizona.

Fair weather will prevail in the Atlantic States, Tennessee, and the Appalachian region Tuesday, but the eastward advance of the Western disturbances will be attended by showers in the lower Lake region and the Ohio Valley Tuesday afternoon or night, and in Tennessee and the Atlantic States, except the Florida peninsula, during Wednesday. The weather will become warmer throughout the Eastern and Southeastern States Tuesday, but colder weather will overspread the Ohio and middle Mississippi Valleys and the lower Lake region Tuesday night and Wednesday, and the Appalachian region and the South Atlantic States as far south as the northern portions of Georgia and South Carolina during Wednesday.

Editor Again Gets Stay From Extradition Move

New York, March 31 (A.P.).—Committed again to the custody of the United States marshal today, William J. Lavarre, Southern newspaper publisher, immediately obtained another two-week respite in his struggle against extradition to Georgia, where he is wanted on a charge of criminal contempt of the Federal Court.

United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill, after hearing more than three hours of evidence and argument, refused to alter his original decision recommitting Lavarre to the marshal for removal. Lavarre's attorney immediately went before Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman and obtained a writ of habeas corpus pending a review by the judge of the evidence submitted today. The writ is returnable on April 14.

Baby's Body Is Mailed; Slayer Search Begun

Duluth, Minn., March 31 (A.P.).—Postal inspectors and police began a search today for the slayer of a baby believed killed about ten days ago and mailed parcel post to a fictitious address at Erie, Pa.

Word from Erie said the body was discovered after it had been in the postoffice for two days while postal employes vainly sought the person to whom the parcel was addressed.

MAN ADMITS HAVING COUNTERFEIT PLANT

C. F. Foote Is Jailed in Lieu of $5,000 Bond After Arraignment.

COIN MOULD DISPLAYED

Arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage yesterday, Chester F. Foote, of Second street northwest near A street, pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing equipment for counterfeiting and was ordered held for action of the grand jury under $5,000 bond. He was committed to jail.

Foote was arrested by Secret Service men and Fifth Precinct policemen, who expressed the belief that a wholesale plot to counterfeit silver dollars had been nipped in the bud.

A board containing several holes as large as silver dollars was the equipment offered in evidence. Detective T. M. McVeary, of the Fifth Precinct, declared that the board was used in the manufacture of spurious coins, pointing out that soft plaster was first placed in the hole and a silver dollar pressed into it. This, he said, made a mold, which could be used in reproducing the design on the front and back of the dollar.

None of the coins said to have been manufactured by Foote have found their way into circulation, according to James A. Hollinger, a Secret Service operative. He declined to state how the agents learned of Foote's alleged activities.

Foote, according to police, recently was paroled in Baltimore, Md., on a grand larceny charge.

Two School Students Bitten by Same Dog

Two students at the Peabody School were bitten by the same dog during recess yesterday morning.

They were Martin Learn, 10 years old, of 401 B street northeast, who was bitten on the left leg and arm, and Everett Clore, 14 years old, of 306 Seventh street northeast, who was bitten on the right leg. Both children resumed their school work after receiving treatment. The dog was turned over to health authorities.

[COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES]

Ice-Box Cookies
—they're double-quick

(Mixing time: any spare moment)

The ice-box cookie is the new and improved 1929 model home-made cookie. They can be stirred up in a spare moment, set aside in the ice-box to harden and baked at your convenience. Crisco with its sweet, fresh flavor keeps the unbaked dough (and the baked cookie, too) fresh and sweet. If you like cookies hot from the oven, as I do, try my plan of always keeping dough in the ice-box and baking cookies a few at a time. I find that cookies baked from Crisco dough two weeks old are as fresh as the very first ones from the roll.

I am giving you a master recipe and several variations I've tested.

1 cup Crisco
2 cups brown or white sugar
2 eggs, beaten
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
(¼ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon each, cinnamon and nutmeg)

Blend Crisco and sugar. Add beaten eggs and flour which has been sifted with salt and baking powder. Mix well. Add flavoring. Shape into rolls about 3 inches in diameter and place in ice-box to harden. Next day slice about ⅛ inch thick, sprinkle with mixture of sugar, cinnamon and nutmeg. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for about 10 minutes. This recipe makes about 50 cookies.

Filled Cookies

Use ice-box cookie master recipe. Cut rolls in ⅛ inch slices. In center of one slice place a little jam, marmalade, conserve, ground nuts, or ground fruit. Cover this with another slice the same size and pinch edges together. These cookies require 10 minutes in a moderate (350° F.) oven to bake.

Fruit-Nut Cookies

Add 1 cup ground nuts and raisins (or nuts or fruit alone) to ice-box cookie master recipe mixture and bake as before directed.

Taste Crisco's sweet, fresh flavor

HAVE you ever tasted Crisco itself? You taste milk. You test eggs. Now, taste Crisco—then any other shortening. Then you'll understand why Crisco's own sweet, fresh flavor so improves the taste of your cakes, pies, hot breads, cookies and fried foods.

These recipes have been tested and approved by cooking authorities. You will get best results by using level measurements and the ingredients specified.

CRISCO was used in the Cooking School recently conducted by this paper

Mrs. Frances Northcross, in The Post Cooking School, made a point of modern methods in cooking. Naturally, then, she used Crisco, the modern shortening. Not only is Crisco easy to use; in addition, it helps you secure better, surer results.

Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

PREVENTING SCARS.

IF a wound or a sore is deep enough to involve the fibrous tissue below the covering tissues, scarring is likely to result. Shallow wounds and sores, involving only the skin or mucous membranes, or other covering, do not cause scars. Even a shallow wound may leave a track behind, say, a pale spot in a red area, or a red spot in a pale area, a pigmented spot in a white area, or a white spot in a pigmented area, but these are not commonly called scars. That term is usually reserved for the appearance which results from an overgrowth of scar tissue, known by physicians as fibrous tissue.

The possibilities of preventing scar formation are great—good news for many who, for various reasons, are anxious to retain their facial beauty. There are parts of the body where scars seldom form, and it is from these that we take our cue. The dentist pulls a tooth, leaving a deep wound. Rarely does any scarring result. Wounds in the mouth, on the tongue and lips are not expected to leave scars. Strictures are of the same structure as scars. Strictures do not form in the walls of the freely moving intestines. They do form in fixed tubes, tubes that dilate and contract but do not move lengthwise. Scar tissue starts as fibrous tissue cells. These cells develop into fibers. If the fibers come to be arranged in ropes or bundles scarring is the result. In certain locations we call this structuring. If, on the other hand, the fibrous tissue runs helter-skelter, in every direction, there is no scarring or stricturing. The direction of the fibers or bundles is determined by the direction of the pull, and this points the way to the prevention of scarring. If a sore or wound is properly rubbed as it heals and for some weeks or months thereafter, scarring is avoided. Rubbing of the edges of the wound must be begun as healing progresses and before it is completed. It must extend to the surface of the wound as soon as tenderness and pain will permit. It must not be severe enough to injure the delicate covering. It must extend in every direction.

The purpose is to prevent fibres of scar tissue from forming in bundles and running from one point to another. If there are any signs of puckering that means fibers have formed in bundles which run lengthwise of the puckers.

In that case most of the rubbing must be along the lines of pucker. The rubbing must be kept up for an aggregate of more than an hour daily. In fact, from time to time, the wound should be rubbed and pulled this way and that, just as the tissues are almost constantly pulled this way and that in those areas where there is little tendency to scar formation. The rubbing and pulling must be gently done. Developing soreness or tenderness means it has been overdone. The advice to grease the rubbing fingertips is usually given. This lessens friction and, therefore, prevents soreness and, for that reason, is advisable. Beyond this the grease or salve does no good.

THREE DISTRICT TITLES WON BY JEWISH CENTER BOXERS; BOBBY JONES' PAR GOLF LEADS IN SOUTHEASTERN OPEN

NO CAMP LIFE AT TRAINING CAMPS

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, N. Y., March 31.—Next to a tournament for the class B flyeasting championship of the Middle-Atlantic States, the most monotonous sport assignment that I can imagine nowadays is that of covering the so-called news of a baseball club in one of the so-called training camps down South.

In the first place, no ball club ever goes into a camp for training and consequently there is no camp life with which to adorn a dispatch. The clubs take quarters in very commonplace American plan hotels, most of them called the Royal Jones Arms, the Princess Emma Terrace or the New Park Hotel and the athletes are to be distinguished from the rest of the guests chiefly by their social inertia.

This trait of the players nowadays is due in part to the enforcement of the advanced ideas of industrial efficiency, forbidding them to frequent the local speakeasies, gamble for money, stay out beyond half past ten, or to play tricks on the new boys lest their sensitive natures be wounded and their careers blighted with a consequent loss to the management of the amount paid down on the purchase price.

At Practice Before Writers Awake.

Few of the players have any conversational knack, so at night they go to the moving pictures or sit in the hotel lobbies with an occasional visit to the cigar counter for a few words of banter with the lady presiding there who will have it understood that she is a respectable married woman and not to be kidded beyond the bounds of innocent, gentlemanly fun.

In the morning, before the baseball writers are yet awake, the ball players will be at the practice ground going through precisely the same gesticulations which precede every one of the 154 ball games of the league season, to-wit, infield practice, outfield practice, hitting practice, bull pen work and pep-work, all accompanied by forced cries of "Hi boy," "Attaboy," "Let's go," and "The Ol' Pepper boy."

In the afternoon, while the baseball writers are at their golf there will be another round of the same until the club, after two or three weeks of this, begins to play practice games with the other teams quartered in the same general vicinity, but in the meantime there will have been two or three cases of split fingers, Charley horse and toothache, all of which will be treated by the club trainer whose name, of course, will be Doc. He will let it be known that these cures were wrought by his own liniment which is now being produced on a commercial basis in response to popular demand, and due mention will be made of this magic remedy, to be duly deleted by the copy desks as a snake ad.

Leaves Base to Canvas Tank Towns.

Presently to offset the cost of the baseballs used in practice and filched from the road secretary's trunks by the athletes to be handed out as souvenirs to admirers who never even heard of them before, the club will break camp, as the phrase goes, and take to the road to barnstorm its way home.

Sometimes, for the purposes of this tour, two major league teams will get together to play one another day after day, weather and railroad schedules permitting. But generally a team goes its way alone, crossing the trails of various other teams, meeting on the field, in railroad stations, on isolated sidings late at night or hotel lobbies as one club moves in and the other moves out.

Smith Trails Amateur by 4 Strokes

Jones Has 2 Rounds of 72 Despite Missing Many Putts.

Kerrigan and Farrell Tied for Second, 3 Strokes Behind.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 31 (A.P.).—Showing perfect figures for the first two rounds of the $5,000 Southeastern open golf tournament here, Bobby Jones tonight led the field of nearly 100 golfers with his 144 and showed a four-stroke lead over his rival, Horton Smith.

It was the second meeting of the year for Jones and Smith. A gallery of 2,000 followed them through two rounds over the difficult par-72 hill course at the country club. Smith beat the Atlanta golfing barrister by one stroke in their battle at Savannah last February. Had "Calamity Jane" been functioning smoothly, Jones would have had an even greater lead over the field. With few exceptions his drives were long and straight and his approach shots were true, but he missed more than a dozen putts of varying distances. On one hole he was forced to use three putts before he could find the cup.

Jones Over Par on Only One Hole.

Tied for fourth place at the end of the first round, Bobby started out badly for the first two holes in the afternoon, and then tightened up to shoot brilliant golf throughout the rest of the day.

A sliced drive on the sixteenth and a misjudged putt on the same hole caused him to take a six, his only over-par score of the round after the wobbly start.

Smith, playing the course for the first time, was three over par on the morning round, but shot steadily for a 73 in the afternoon round.

Johnny Farrell, former national open champion, from Mamaroneck, and Tom Kerrigan, Swlanoy, N. Y., profesional, who led the first round with a 70, were tied for second place at the end of the day, three strokes behind Jones. Except for a bad eight on the fifteenth hole of the second round, Farrell might have tied Jones for the lead.

Joe Turnesa Fifth With 150.

Smith was alone in fourth place with 148 for his efforts, while Joe Turnesa, young Elmsford, N. Y., professional, was two strokes farther away with 150.

Three veteran professionals, Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del.; Whiffy Cox, of Brooklyn, and Tony Manero, of Elmsford, N. Y., had cards of 152. Billy Burke, of Greenwich, Conn., and Frank Walsh, of Chicago, posted 163. Gene Sarazen, who shot a great par round this morning, took 82 strokes during the afternoon and found himself far to the rear with 154.

Several of the Nation's outstanding shot makers fell victims of the hazards of the course and recorded high scores. These included Denny Shute, of Columbus, Ohio, who had 157; Frank Ball, of Atlanta, 159; Jack Forester, Hackensack, N. J., 155; Al Espinosa, Chicago, 160; Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y., 159; Harry Cooper, unattached, 156, and Roland Hancock, Lynchburg, Va., 160.

Scalzi Hits Homer, 3 on Base, As G.U. Defeats Drexel, 10-3

Lomax and Coppinger Hurl Hilltop to 5th Straight Victory.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, Jr.

JOHNNY SCALZI'S home run with the bases loaded in the third inning started Georgetown on the way to a 10-to-3 victory over the Drexel College Nine yesterday on the Washington Barracks diamond to extend the Hilltoppers' winning streak to five straight games.

With Georgetown boasting a scant one-run lead, Scalzi was faced with his opportunity through the wildness of the Drexel pitcher, who had filled the bases by walking Lomax and Dunn and hitting Morris with a pitched ball. Catching hold of a fast one, Scalzi socked the pellet far over the center fielder's head, but so swift was the return of the ball from the far regions that the hitter was forced to exert his speed all the way to the plate in following Dunn, the last of his mates, across the counting block.

From that advantage, G. U. went on to add three more tallies in the fourth and a pair in the sixth, meanwhile holding the enemy well in check.

G. U. Pitchers Strong In Pinches.

Although outhit, 9 to 8, Georgetown produced two pitchers always able to bear down in the pinches to keep the visitors at bay. Lomax, hurling the first seven frames, gave but six hits while walking but one, and except for the fourth, when one alien run trickled across the plate on a force play, was unscored upon. Coppinger, his successor, although a trifle wild, managed to escape unscathed until

C. U. Pitcher Holds Green To 2 Hits

Hurley Hurls Cards to 4-1 Victory Over Dartmouth.

Catholic Groups Hits to Score 3 Runs in Second Inning.

By JACK ESPEY.

WITH Lou Hurley, husky junior, yielding but two hits in a rare early season pitching performance, Catholic University's Nine opened its 1930 campaign yesterday by defeating Dartmouth, 4 to 1, before 500 fans in Brookland Stadium.

It was a well-played, interesting ball game and deserving of more support than was evidenced by the size of the crowd. Hurley's pitching, in spite of the fact that he granted eight bases on balls, was a real treat, while the work of Hollstrom, who relieved Allen on the hill for Dartmouth at the start of the fourth inning, was good enough to keep the Cardinals from repeating an early onslaught which netted them the lead in the third. In addition to this, Catholic fielded well with Oliver and Dunn making sparkling catches.

Has Fast Ball and Change of Pace.

Hurley, for whom Coach Chick Gagnon previously had predicted a successful season, had a fast ball and a baffling change of pace. He struck out eight Big Green batters and tightened in the pinches. With the able support of Dunn and Oliver, he turned back the visitors scoreless on three occasions when they had a runner on third base. The ten Indians left on bases further attest to Hurley's effectiveness.

Rolfe, the heaviest hitter on Dartmouth, made the only solid hit off Hurley. This was a double into the right field stands in the third inning. The other Dartmouth base hit was made by Eagan, who beat out a roller to short in the ninth.

Catholic had a punch and uncorked it at the right time. After Rolfe had doubled, scoring Clough for the Big Green's lone tally, the Cardinals came back in their half of the third and scored two runs before an out was recorded.

Capt. Gene Murphy opened the attack with a scratch single to center and romped to third on a slashing double to right by Whitey Peifer, the Washington boy playing center field for the Brooklanders. Carl De Mello then cracked a single to center, sending both runners home. After Gioffre forced De Mello at second and reached the midway on a wild pitch, Tommy Dunn singled to left to score Gioffre.

Allen Relieved By Hollstrom.

Hollstrom assumed the pitching burden for Dartmouth in the fourth and soon showed an improvement over Allen, striking out five and allowing but one hit up to the seventh. Then Peifer singled to left, went to third on Gioffre's one-baser to right and continued home as the return peg trickled through Rolfe, Dartmouth shortstop.

1,800 Cheer Fighting of Amateurs

Nathanson, Tardugno, Miller Score for J. C. C. in Finals.

Irving, of City Club, Stops Morman in Only Knockdown.

By JACK ESPEY.

AMIDST the cheers of 1,800 red-blooded fans who thrilled to the greatest exhibition of amateur boxing ever witnessed in the Capital, seven champions were crowned last night in the finals of the first annual boxing tournament of the District of Columbia Association of the Amateur Athletic Union in the Jewish Community Center auditorium.

As the tiny auditorium, which refused to bulge another inch, fairly rocked with an appreciative din, eager contestants tossed leather at one and another with the determination of men fighting for much bigger rewards. All that the winners received—owing to the local law against award of prizes—was recognition as champions and the glory that goes with that.

Although no team championship was at stake, the team representing the Jewish Community Center provided the greatest number of individual titleholders. The J. C. C. champions are Maynard Nathanson, flyweight, 17-year-old schoolboy; Angie Tardugno, bantamweight, and Jocko Miller, lightweight, who won the South Atlantic lightweight title in 1929.

K. of C. and City Club Share Other Titles.

Two champions were presented each by the Knights of Columbus and the City Club. The Casey winners are Nevin Barber, featherweight, and Eric Sonnichsen, welterweight, while Henry Irving, middleweight, and Russell Wolfgram, heavyweight, took the honors for the G street club.

All but Miller captured their championships in action, the J. C. C. lightweight receiving a forfeit from Max Kosof, a teammate. The default was not explained, but it was thought that Miller would have proven too good for his rival had they clashed.

A taste of the pulsating competition that marked the entire program was given in the opening bout in which young Nathanson, formerly quarterback of the Central High School Eleven outpointed Pat Sullivan, game little flyweight of the Knights of Columbus, in three rounds. Pounding each other relentlessly, both lads fought themselves out, with Nathanson, by virtue of a better left jab, winning the judges' favor. Sullivan, a comparative novice, held his own in gameness, however.

Tardugno Too Clever For Swetman.

The bantamweight bout opened in a whirlwind of action with Tardugno meeting a clever opponent in Douglas Swetman, of the City Club. Tardugno displayed greater experience and sent home numerous body blows, for which his foe had no defense. In the second round Swetman got over a sizzling right to the head, but Tardugno weather this one and back back to take the final round.

For sheer fighting spirit the leader of the program turned up in John

BRITISH PLAY ST. JOHN'S TODAY

U. S. Lacrosse Champions Meet Foreign Stars at Central.

THE first major lacrosse game of the season will be staged in Central High School stadium this afternoon, marking the first appearance of the champion St. John's College Team, of Annapolis, as well as the first game of a long series arranged for the Oxford-Cambridge Twelve, making its third invasion of this country in quest of the John Flannery Cup.

Officials of many of the foreign embassies here have accepted invitations to witness this game and a large number of Washington's growing list of followers of the stick game are expected to fill the stands when play is started at 4 o'clock.

Little is known of the comparative strength of the two teams. The team which won the intercollegiate title last year for St. John's has been largely rebuilt by Coach Dinty Moore, former Johns Hopkins star, due to the loss of many players by graduation last June. He has had little opportunity to see his squad under fire this spring.

Americans to Aid Invading Team.

The invading team includes in its regular line-up three former American college athletes and several others on its reserve list. Larkin Farinholt, former Johns Hopkins star; M. A. McIntyre, an erstwhile lacrosse captain at Yale, and Al Cornsweet, former all-around athlete at Brown, are included in the regular line-up of the English team. M. J. Grove, former Yale baseball star, and a native of Frederick, Md., is one of the reserve defensive players with the invading team, as well as L. P. Giddens, graduate of Birmingham Southern College, and J. J. McDonough, former football star at the University of Chicago, who is managing the present tour of the English team. He has played lacrosse at Oxford the past two years.

A former Tech High School athletic star, Bob MacCartee, is likely to start in the out-home post for the St. John's Team. MacCartee is making his first bid for fame as a stick wielder, having captained the St. John's Basket Ball Team the past season; gained all-Maryland football recognition last fall as a half back, and has starred at first base in previous years with the Johnny Baseball Team. Baseball has been abandoned at St. John's and MacCartee now promises to become a star in a fourth major sport.

Last Tour Was Unsuccessful.

The last tour of the Oxford-Cambridge twelve in 1926 was not very successful. Twelve of the thirteen American teams met gained victories, many by narrow margins, however. In 1922 the Flannery Cup was carried back to England by virtue of eight victories in fifteen games.

The teams will probably line-up as follows this afternoon:

GARDEN BOUT FOR SINGER, MANDELL

Champion Risks Title Against N. Y. Star on July 17.

NEW YORK, March 31 (A.P.).—Prospects for a dull market among the cauliflowers rose sharply today with every indication that business at the same old turnstiles will be brisker than ever this summer.

As an addition to the program including the heavyweight title fight June 12 at the Yankee Stadium between Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling, Madison Square Garden paired Sammy Mandell, light weight champion from Rockford, Ill., for a fifteen round title test against Al Singer, sensational Bronx youngster, in the same ball yard July 17.

Singer signed the papers today and agreed to take 12½ per cent of the receipts as his wages. Mandell, who trounced Jimmy McLarnin in his last championship battle here, accepted the match some time ago. He will receive the champion's 37½ per cent.

Singer Confident Of Victory.

In signing today, Singer registered his confidence in his ability to beat Ignacio Fernandez, Filipino fighter, in the Garden Friday night. The last time Singer tangled with the brown-skinned veteran, Fernandez shocked the cauliflowers by knocking out Young Al in three rounds. Since then Singer has come back in sparkling fashion with a steady string of knockouts.

The Garden outdoor schedule also calls for a welterweight tussle between Jackie Fields, the 147-pound king from Los Angeles, and Jimmy McLarnin, Cletic clouter who whipped Young Jack Thompson here last Friday night. This match will be saved for August.

Wolgast-Genaro Bout Planned.

Somewhere in the early summer the Garden plans a flyweight title test between Midget Wolgst, recognized here as the 112-pound ruler, and Frankie Genaro.

Kid Chocolate will be matched either with Bat Battalino, the featherweight title holder, in a 126-pound title scrimmage, or with some crack lightweight. A light-heavyweight or a middleweight championship bout may be reserved for September, when Victorio Campolo may get a chance to test the heavyweight greatness of Primo Carnera, the home-run hitter of the distant spaces.

Goslin to Go to Chattanooga To Talk Terms With Griffith

Conference Asked by Holdout at Team's Expense Granted.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 31. President Clark Griffith has scored a moral victory in the "watchful waiting" game he is playing with Goose Goslin. Goslin tonight telegraphed the Washington Club owner that he would be willing to come here and further discuss salary terms provided his transportation is guaranteed him. He was advised by long-distance telephone tonight that the club would be willing to pay his expenses here and he is expected to arrive within the next two or three days.

Griffith already has gone on record that he will not yield an inch as to terms, insisting that Goslin work for $10,000 straight salary and that any excess he may get will be in the form of bonuses.

Coincidental with the receipt of Goslin's telegram was the arrival here of Bill Friel, secretary of the St. Louis Browns, who is motoring home from the Florida training camp. He broached the question of trade to Griffith, it is understood, but was given little encouragement. Just what Friel offered is not known, his only statement tonight being, "We'd like to get Goslin, but not at the expense of having to break up our whole team," this indicating that if the Nats' owner did make a proposition, it called for several players in return for the "Wild Goose of the Potomac."

Nats Playing True To Form.

The advance dope regarding the 1930 model of Nationals was that the team would lack punch, but would, to a certain extent, make up for this deficiency by showing good pitching

EXHIBITION GAMES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 31 (A.P.).—With Babe Ruth again showing the way, the New York Yankees pounded out a 14-to-4 victory over San Antonio of the Texas League today.

The Babe contributed a home run, a double and a single to the Yankees 18 safeties off a trio of Texas League hurlers. The circuit drive was the Babe's fourth of the season and his second in three days. A pair of walks and a sacrifice fly on his three other trips to the plate gave the home-run king a perfect day at the plate.

8 Central Courtmen To Receive Letters

Eight members of Central High School's 1929-30 basket ball squad and Manager Angus Lamond will receive their letters as a result of their play for the court season just ended, it was announced last night.

Besides Manager Lamond, those to be honored are: Capt. Cross, Lampson, Parkins, Brandt, Delisio, Farhood, Korman and Rice. Central will wait until next year before appointing a captain, with the probability that Coach Bert Goggins will use the system of appointing a leader for each game.

RAPID TRANSIT CHOICE IN BOWIE INAUGURAL TODAY

Notable Field Of 17 Enter Stake

Track Is Fast for Opening of Eastern Turf Season.

Paul Bunyan Dangerous Contender in Sprint Feature.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

BOWIE will ring up the curtain on Eastern racing this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Everything points to a successful season here and all through Maryland. Fifteen thousand people are expected to welcome the thoroughbreds back to Prince Georges Park, after a long absence at the winter tracks or in temporary retirement. The weather is perfect, the track fast, and an attractive card awaits the bugle.

There are more horses here than ever before for the spring racing. Of course the $5,000 Inaugural Handicap is the center of interest and has drawn the best horses of the day. It is seven furlongs and seventeen have been listed to start.

Joseph Farrell, the new general manager, who has been elected to succeed James F. O'Hara, who is ill, and whose genius and geniality had so much to do with erecting a million-dollar racing plant on a scrub oak and pine knot hill, will have a hard job of it, for O'Hara made it so pleasant for his patrons that few can fill his place.

Public Is Eager For Bugle.

But Joseph McLennon, racing secretary; Richard Pending, track superintendent, and Farrell each has appeared to have done all things possible in preparation for the meeting. Upward of 2,000 horses are here for the fray. The racing public of Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York seems eager for the bugle, for spring seems to give this sport the aura of newness and freshness.

It is quite a notable field that will promenade in the Inaugural. Among the seventeen, RAPID TRANSIT easily outranks them all. He was almost invincible at Miami. He conceded weight there as he must do here, but on the Florida track he won five races, four of them in a row, and lowered the track mark twice. He has been moving right along in his training since arriving at Bowie.

PAUL BUNYAN probably is the dangerous contender, although his racing is by no means restricted to sprints. He has beaten good horses at varying routes during the winter, and winter horses are going to hold sway for a while over those which have been resting during the cold weather. Strongheart, Tantivy, Patricia Marian are among the good horses he has beaten. GUN ROYAL, which defeated Rapid Transit once—but that was in the mud—should get in the money. Others having a chance are the fast filly Dinah Did Upset, Pennant Lass and Searcher.

The first race is for 2-year-old maiden colts and geldings at 4 furlongs. The Dorwood Stable's WESTEBNER is picked to win. He has never started, but the son of Westy Hogan has outworked most of the juveniles he has been up against. The Mad Hatter youngster, AIRLINER, from the Whitney barn, is rated the next best, although the Dixiana Stable's SWEEP ALL has given evidences of being a good one. The three named have never started. Only their moves in training are available for a forecast.

FRIAR CLIFF looks best in the second race. He has not raced since the last Bowie meeting. He beat some good horses last year here. COG-AIR, conqueror of False Pride at Miami, is the one offering the strongest opposition. WATER LAD should be in the money on his New Orleans racing. CRYSTAL DOMINO has an outside chance.

The third race is a sprint for 3-year-olds called the Springtime, in which PARNELL BOUND seems to be the best. CHLO BOY would have a better chance on a slow track. CHLO BOY beat some good ones last year, like Sun Craig and Night Signal, but always when the track was not fast. On a fast track H. P. Whitney's PROMETHEUS is liked better for place, and he is trained to the minute.

SANDY FORD is picked in the Promenade Purse, fifth race. He beat FAIRY MAIDEN in his last Florida race. Annapolis looks like the contender, with FAIRY MAIDEN next best. The race is a mile and a sixteenth. That also suits SANDY FORD. MOLE HILL should not be entirely overlooked.

The sixth race, in which there is a large field of platers, appears to be between PRUDE II and TALL GRASS. PRUDE has been working satisfactorily. LAURIE or SEARINGTON for the short end of the purse.

Villager is best in the seventh, which is very much like the sixth, both as to distance and class of horses. TURQUOISE and KEYDET should battle it out for the place.

Young Corbett Seeks Battle With Fields

Chicago, March 31 (A.P.).—Young Corbett, sensational Pacific Coast welterweight, today presented the Illinois State Athletic Commission with a petition, demanding a title fight with the ruling champion of his class, Jackie Fields.

The petition, backed by a forfeit of $2,500, will be considered by the commission during its regular weekly meeting tomorrow. Details of the petition were not divulged.

Haymann Goes Home To Defend His Title

New York, March 31 (A.P.).—While Max Schmeling is bound for the United States to fight Jack Sharkey for world heavyweight championship recognition, another German heavyweight, Dr. Ludwig Haymann, will return to defend the championship of the fatherland. Dr. Haymann today received notice from the German boxing rulers to be home for a title bout in May.

Don Fails in 6 Tries At Auto Speed Mark

Ocean Speedway, Daytona Beach, Fla., March 31 (A.P.).—After making six runs over the ocean speedway here in his Silver Bullet racer, Kaye Don, veteran British driver, was forced to postpone his assault upon the world's automobile speed record because of a bumpy beach and motor trouble.

He plans to renew his attempts tomorrow if conditions are favorable. His highest speed today was 186 miles an hour, which was 45 miles an hour slower than the record of 231.

SEKYRA MATCHED.

Dayton, Ohio, March 31 (A.P.).—Joe Sekyra, local heavyweight, and Rosy Rosales, Indian fighter, will box twelve rounds here Wednesday night, April 9. Rosales won over Sekyra at round. The Indian was awarded the Buffalo two weeks ago in the first decision on a foul and Sekyra was suspended for 30 days by the New York Athletic Commission.

Cochrane Names 20 Likeliest Base Stealers

St. Augustine, Fla., March 31 (A.P.).—Mickey Cochrane, Sparkplug catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics, says there are about twenty American Leaguers who are always a threat when on base.

Those most likely to try to steal, he says, are: Yankees—Lazzeri and Combs; Washington—Rice, Goslin, Myers and Bluege; Boston—Rothrock and Barrett; Chicago—Cissell, Hunnefield and Metzler; Cleveland—Morgan, Fonseca and Jamieson; St. Louis—Blue and Manush; Detroit — Gehringer and Johnson. Of the Athletics, Cochrane lists Miller as the most dangerous on the paths.

Alexander Batted Out In Debut With Phillies

Winter Haven, Fla., March 31 (A.P.). Grover "Pete" Alexander, making his first appearance on the mound against a league team for the Philadelphia Nationals since 1917, was driven from the box with a four-run rally in the third inning by Columbus, of the American Association, today. Old Pete previously had worked against a semipro team here, but today's was his first opportunity against a team of league standing. The four runs gave Columbus a lead of 4 to 3.

W. & L. Yearlings Win Diamond Debut, 8-3

Lexington, Va., March 31.—Washington and Lee's Freshman Baseball Team opened the 1930 season here this afternoon by defeating the Staunton Military Academy Nine, 8 to 3. The Generals' yearlings gave Jarrett good support.

Washington and Lee scored one run each in the first, third, fifth, sixth and eighth, with three runs batted across in the fourth. The visitors scored once in the first and twice in the eighth. Errors were five for Washington and Lee to ten for Staunton. The Freshmen made nine hits to four for their opponents.

ROAMERS MEET TONIGHT.

The Roamer A. C. will meet tonight at the home of Manager Thompson, 343 Tennessee avenue northeast. The following are asked to report: Robertson, Bray, Borto, Adair, McIntosh, Wood, Batson, Applk, Turner, Millison, Clark, Ruppert, Bradley, Scanlon and McAboy.

Tilden, Coen Target Of French Criticism

Cannes, France, March 31 (A.P.).—Open criticism followed Bill Tilden and Wilbur Coen today as they left for four days of exhibition tennis at San Remo and other resorts on the Italian Riviera.

Considerable indignation was expressed at the refusal of Tilden and his young protege to go through with their scheduled match in the final round of the Cannes tournament yesterday. Tilden's official explanation, according to the referee, was that he did not care to play on account of his friendship for Coen.

Officials in charge of the tournament freely asserted that Tilden was desirous of having his youthful compatriot go down in the records as undefeated in at least one of the Riviera tournaments.

They recalled that Tilden and Coen have competed in many tournaments in Europe, but never once met in a singles final. Tilden eliminated Coen in the French championships of 1929, but only after the younger player had him two sets down.

EASTERN A. C. MEETS.

The Eastern A. C. Nine will meet tonight at 1508 Gales street northeast, at 7:30 o'clock. Eastern has a field and wants a practice game for Sunday. Write W. H. Mills at the above address.

GEORGETOWN NINE BEATS DREXEL, 10-3

the ninth, when three hits and a walk gave Drexel two runs.

Aside from Scalzi's homer, there were but two extra-base hits during the game, doubles by McCarthy and Tierney, of Georgetown being the only blows good for more than one base. Tierney's wallop, however, looked good for a sure home run, but the catcher's stocky frame enabled him to reach but the midway sack.

Hilltop Players Field Well.

Notwithstanding the four Hilltop errors Georgetown looked good in the field, two double plays retiring the Drexel Team after hits had given them a start in the early part of the inning. However, the fielding gem of the day was contributed by Kershner, Drexel shortstop, who dug what looked like a sure hit out of the dirt to throw out Donato in the eighth inning.

Besides contributing the punch of the G. U. attack, Scalzi performed brilliantly in the field, accepting nine chances, including seven putouts without a slip.

CAMP LIFE EXTINCT AT TRAINING CAMP

There will be hearty yells of greeting as the boys pass, like traveling drummers, but, of course, nobody is surprised at meeting anybody else because the ball clubs canvas the southern country very thoroughly in the spring.

I have been hearing some very disparaging remarks about Primo Carnera's American campaign and was of a mind to twit him some myself, but it must be admitted that he has very respectable precedent in the spring baseball exhibitions of the major league ball clubs. Primo has been knocking over some pathetic set-ups for the entertainment of the rustics way out yonder and way down yonder, but it strikes me that if the New York Yankees may pick on a Class D club in Jacksonville, Fla., charging admission at the turnstiles, then Primo need not apologize for leaning his weight against Old Farmer Lodge, Jim Sigman of Jack McAuliffe.

Primo Barnstorming Like Yankees.

The Yankees frankly state that these contests are not to be taken seriously, but I don't believe Primo or any of his imported or domestic managers will claim the heavyweight championship of the world on the strength of anything he has been doing to the Class D boys up to date. Primo is simply out barnstorming like the Yankees, the Giants and White Sox, and, if it be fair enough for ball clubs, prohibition debaters and other native American barnstormers to play for the gate, the same privilege should be accorded the guest artist of the roped arena.

After two or three weeks of this prowling through the minor leagues, the ball clubs arrive at their respective bases pretty well done up. The men will have been sleeping in Pullmans, and eating at lunch counters to save a few centers out of their per capita allowance of $3.50 per day, and those who are not taking pills for heart burn will be taking quinine for the flu. It is the end of a tedious, wearing journey following a month of blank monotony in the Royal Jones Arms, The Princess Emma Terrace or The New Park Hotel. All hands are eager for fresh vegetables and ice cream for their cereal which does not come from contented cans.

The baseball reporter then goes out to cover the opening game of the regular season and as he sits in the press coop, blowing on his fingers to warm them, he looks down at the familiar figures on the field and sees, what? He sees the boys at infield practice, outfield practice, hitting practice, bull pen work and pen work all accompanied by forced cries of "Hi boy," "Attaboy," "Let's go" and "The Ol' Pepper boys."

Clarendon Bowling Claim Denied by U. S. Official

Protest Involves 9-Pin Credit on Strike; Carbon Shows Mistake; Cost Team First Place; To Press Claim.

GEORGE L. ISEMANN, secretary of the National Duck Pin Bowling Congress, yesterday wired Maj. E. P. Goff at Clarendon to the effect that the claim of the Geo. H. Rucker Realtor Team to the national championship has been denied. Maj. Goff wired a protest last Saturday to Isemann at Waterbury, claiming that his team had been credited with ten less pins than actually scored.

The Clarendon team was credited with a 1,797 total, which was second to the 1,805 score of the Bethesda team, which won team honors. The Clarendon team claims that its score should be 1,807.

Carbon of Score Shows Mistake.

A carbon copy of the official score sheet which Maj. Goff has, shows that Thurston Furr struck in the fourth box of his first game and was credited with only nine pins for the box. His teammates claim that he made a nine pin count on the strike and he should have been credited with 19 pins in the box instead of 9. With the added 10 pins, Furr would have rolled 101 for the first game instead of 91 and his team would have had a 581 total instead of 571.

Maj. Goff announced last night that he will carry his protest personally to Isemann when the latter arrives here today.

Found Error After Leaving.

The captain of the Clarendon team also said that he saw the error in the score soon after leaving Waterbury last week, after his team had rolled, and that he called Isemann from Bridgeport, Conn., offering to return and have the mistake corrected.

Maj. Goff declared that Iseman assured him that the error would be corrected and Furr would be credited with a 101 game instead of a 91 score.

Furr's teammates were "kidding" him after leaving Waterbury for rolling a 91 game after striking and counting nine pins. A check of the score sheet revealed the error, Maj. Goff said.

Misses No. 5 in 8th To Ruin Flat Game

Arthur L. Kleisath missed a perfect flat game at Convention Hall by a single pin last week. He failed to drop the No. 5 pin with the third ball in the eighth box. His 99 flat game has seldom been duplicated in local duckpin circles.

3 DISTRICT CROWNS TO J. C. C. FIGHTERS

Ryon, City Club featherweight, who lost to Nevin Barber, K. of C. Ryon, who hadn't been regarded seriously before the fight, absorbed a real lacing and would have continued to the end but for the merciful action of his seconds, who tossed in the towel in the third round. Barber gave a convincing demonstration of his right to the featherweight crown.

In the next bout Eric Sonnichsen, K. of C., won the welterweight championship with a rousing rally that took the decision from William Miller, hard-hitting City Club representatie. Miller, scoring frequently with lefts to the body, easily took the first two rounds, but in the third Sonnichsen drove a left to the jaw that bolted him through the ropes. The Casey battler evened the fight in this round and then proceeded to cuff Miller about at wil lin the extra round which was ordered by the officials.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., March 31.—The George Mason High School Baseball Team is fast rounding into shape under the watchful eye of Coach Prex Wilson. This afternoon they defeated the Alexandria High School Freshman Team, 8 to 2.

The George Mason boys appear to have one of the best teams that has represented that school in a number of years. In Hutchinson the Potomac boys have a real pitcher and one who will carry the burden this season. Coach Wilson is confident that his boys will win the third district honors this spring. He is not devoting much of his time to track and therefore has all the time to give to his baseball team.

The St. Mary's Celtics went through a hard workout yesterday afternoon and will do so every day this week in an effort to get in shape for one of the hardest games that is on their schedule this season when they entertain the Reading International Team. The Reading Team is on their way North after just completing their spring training down South. This will make the second year that the local aggregation has played this team.

Last year they attracted one of the largest crowds that has ever witnessed a baseball game in this city. Manager Corbett stated today that they had made provision for the extra large crowd that will be on hand. The team is working out each afternoon under the watchful eye of Brownie Lemeric, their manager for the second season. Only one injury is on the list for the locals, that being Shorty Gardner, an infielder, who has an injured shoulder.

Twenty-nine of the city's best bowlers got into action Saturday night for the first half of the city sweepstakes. Cliff Wood carried off the honors with a score of 587, being closely pushed by Bert Lynn, with 578. Three prizes will be offered for the three winners and on next Saturday night the finals will be held and the winners will receive the prizes.

Coach Clayton Sryphus is very much pleased with the showing of his freshman team at the high school and promises to give the high school team a real battle before the season is over. Next week he will start his team playing in his class, such as Episcopal Light Weights, Woodward and others.

REOPEN SWEEPSTAKES.

For the benefit of those who were unable to roll in the John Blick duckpin sweepstakes opening block Saturday night at the Arcadia, an opportunity will be afforded this week for added entrants to roll their first five games before Saturday night at the Arcadia. The final block is scheduled at Convention Hall Saturday night. The event is open to all bowlers averaging 100 and under.

LIST PIN MATCH.

The Naval Reserve and the Vesegarian Civile Filipino bowling teams will meet Wednesday night at Convention Hall at 8 o'clock in a special match.

TAYLOR, MASTRO SIGN.

Chicago, March 31 (A.P.).—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, Ind., has been signed to replace Earl Mastro, of Chicago, for a ten-round match with Fidel La Barra at the Chicago Coliseum April 21. Mastro has canceled immediate bouts because of the death of his mother.

POOR HITTING OF NATS IS APPARENT

and an airtight defense. So far the dope has been running true to form. Figures compiled recently and published herein showed that the moundsmen were doing good work and hold out rare promise, while it also might be mentioned that the defensive play has been exceptional.

The punch, however, is sadly lacking, especially as to timeliness. True, the batting averages show that, excluding the pitchers, the team is hitting at a .326 clip, but this has been against rather mediocre minor league hurling. None of the Washington batters has been able to hit the ball out of any of the parks, although 6 triples and 7 doubles are among the 79 hits credited to the Johnson swatters.

Phelps and Powell Nominal Leaders.

The two "green peas," Phelps and Powell, are showing the way, with perfect marks, but the real leader is Sammy West, who has a .381 mark at which to point. All of the other regulars, except Catcher Muddy Ruel and Shortstop Joe Cronin, are hitting better than .300, with Red Barnes leading in driving in runs, being responsible for ten mates scoring. Bluege has made the most extra-base hits, being credited with two doubles and one three-bagger, with Judge the only other Nat credited with more than one. He has smacked out a brace of doubles.

The averages to date excluding those of the pitchers are:

Game With Lookouts Listed Today.

Although no game was originally scheduled for tomorrow, the Nats and Lookouts have agreed to meet in another tussle which will see two of Nats' hurlers who have been allowed to take their time getting ready making their debuts. Sad Sam Jones and Garland Braxton will divide the Washington box burden and the performance of both will be watched with interest by Manager Walter Johnson.

Jones, 37 years "young," is being counted upon to turn in a number of victories during the coming season, although he will draw a longer rest than allowed his mates between assignments, while Braxton, with his ailing tonsils and infected teech yanked, is expected to have a banner year. He has what diamonders call a "rubber" arm and rounds to form with little or no work. His assignment tomorrow follows, less than a week's training here, and already he is showing signs of being close to ready.

Manager Walter Johnson was highly elated at reports of Irving Hadley's work while going the entire route against the Chicks in Memphis Sunday. The big boy was strong at the finish, had plenty of stuff, and is sure to be ready this season when the regular schedule starts. He probably will be asked to take another 9-inning shift before the team returns to Washington.

Both Manager Johnson and Capt. Judge, who are suffering from bad colds, reported themselves much better tonight, but the chances are that the first-sacker will be excused from playing tomorrow with "Old Folks" Gharrity holding down the cushion. The latter, by the way, does not play a bad game at the doorway while he also is showing quite a punch at the tee.

TITLE HOPES OF 8 QUINTETS IN BALANCE TONIGHT

A. A. U. Court Battles at Tech Gym

Boatmen Tackle G.W. Frosh; Woltz Plays Montrose.

100 Pound Honors at Stake; St. John's Plays J. C. C.

NERVOUS persons had better stay away from the Tech High School Gymnasium tonight. Four crucial battles in the District A. A. U. championship basket ball tournament are scheduled and after some four hours of excitement more than one spectator may have to be carried out. But one thing is certain, every basket ball fan, rabid or casual, will take this chance of being over-thrilled.

The nominal admission fee of 25 cents will be the only charge.

Two unlimited class semifinals occupy the feature positions on the program, the Woltz Photographers, defending District champions, meeting the Montrose A. C. at 9 o'clock and the famed Georgr Washington Freshmen facing the Potomac Boat Club at 10 o' lock.

Spartans and Optimists In Titular Games.

Preceding these clashes, the Jewish Community Center Spartans and the Boys Club Optimists will battle in the final for the 100-pound District championship and the St. John's Quintet will tackle the J. C. C. Flashes in a semifinal of the 130-pound class.

Finals in the unlimited, 130, 115 and women's classes will be played tomorrow night.

Many close followers of the tournament are backing Montrose's combination mustered from the Western High teams of the last few years, to end the winning streak of Woltz. The superiority that Montrose showed in its startling upset of the J. C. C. "Big Five" has drawn it many backers.

They figure that Bob Freeman, the long center, can offset the presence of Jack Forney in the Woltz line-up and that the Thompson Brothers, aided by Sheele and Baer, can run up more points than the Woltz sharpshooting group of Bucky Buscher, Carl MacCartee, Peewee Walker and Bill Banta.

G. W. Frosh Face First Test.

The George Washington Freshmen, led by Jack Connor, have not been extended in three tournament games but many believe they have a fight on their hands to stay in the competition tonight. The Cubs play a style of game something similar to that used by J. C. C. and they may be bothered by the deliberate and slow system of the husky Potomac Boatmen.

Connor, Burgess, Carlin and Wells are the chief scoring threats of the Freshmen's speedy attack. Potomac has a number of outstanding defensive players to assign to those stars, Adkins, Wiler and Lilly rank with the best guarding players in the tournament.

St. John's Flashes A "Natural."

The St. John's-J. C. C. Flashes game has been the subject of discussion around the tournament for the last week. Fans were right in selecting these 130 pounders to gain the semifinals. St. John's packs more weight than the Flashes, but the latter players are generally considered better shots.

The 100-pound final appears a toss-up. Both teams have showed their mettle in previous contests and a great little team will be crowned when the Spartans or Optimists carry off the A. A. U. championship medals.

Union Printers' Nine Play Reading Saturday

Washington fans will have their first opportunity in a number of years to see a fast minor league team in action when the Reading Keys, of the International League, appear here Saturday against the strong Union Printers in Catholic University Stadium at 3:20 o'clock.

Reading broke camp at Savannah, Ga., last Saturday and started on an eighteen-game tour which includes a game with the world champion Philadelphia Athletics at Richmond Friday.

National Scholastic Court Tournament Opens Today

CHICAGO, March 31 (A.P.).—All confident of placing their home towns, large and small, definitely on the basket ball map, entrants in the University of Chicago's Twelfth National Prep Basket Ball Tournament went through their final workouts for the campaign today.

The national classic, with 36 teams from 26 scattered States in the competition, opens at 11 a. m. tomorrow at Bartlett Gymnasium, Reagan High of Houston, Tex., and Linsley of Wheeling, W. Va., clashing in the inaugural hostilities.

Seven Teams Appear Standouts.

Seven teams performed so impressively in today's workouts that they were regarded as big favorites tonight. They were Athens, Tex., which is the defending title holder; Robert E. Lee High School of Jacksonville, Fla.; Spartanburg, S. C.; Kavanaugh High of Lawrenceburg, Ky.; Corinth, Ky.; Denton, Tex., and Chinook, Mont. Each of these teams displayed exceptional teamwork and is supported by enough beef to carry it through such a strenuous compaign as the national tournament.

Chinook, especially, surprised the early practice spectators, the Montana champions, who welded a string of 30 straight victories this season and scoring 1,120 points to 484 by their rivals, appeared to be the best team out of the Northwest for many years.

Wyoming Quintet Delayed.

Casper (Wyo.) High School today advised the tournament officials that it would be unable to arrive in time for its scheduled game, at 2 p. m. tomorrow, with Northwest Military Academy of Lake Geneva, Wis., so a change in the pairings was made, pairing the Westerners against St. John's of Delafield, Wis., at 1 p. m Wednesday. Corinth, Ky., which was to play St. John's at that hour, will meet Northwest Military Academy at 2 p. m. tomorrow instead.

MISS ORCUTT PINEHURST MEDALIST

Mrs. Haynes, of D.C., in Title Fight After Play-Off.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 31 (A.P.).—Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. J., with a card of 40—40—80, today won medal honors in the 18-hole qualifying round of the women's North and South golf tournament.

Helen Hicks, of Hewlett, Long Island, finished second with a score of 81 and Glenna Collett, of Providence, Rhode Island, the national champion, third with an 82.

Four players were tied at 90 and an extra hole was played to determine which two should enter the select sixteen.

Mrs. Johnsten Arends, Chicago, and Mrs J. M. Haynes, Washington, were victorious, beating out Miss Honor Bright, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Miss Helen Waring, New York.

Match Play Begins Today.

Match play will begin tomorrow and continue through Friday.

Bunched behind Miss Collett, all with scores of 84, were Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake, of New York; Mrs. Leo G. Federman, New York; Mrs. O. S Hill, Kansas City, and Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, N. Y.

Edith Quier, Reading, Pa.; Mrs. E H. Baker, Boston, Mass., and Betty Abernethy, Pittsburgh, all had 85s.

Louise Fordyce, Youngstown, Ohio, and Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago each had 86. Dorothy Smith, Brooklyn, and Mrs. Arthur Harrison, Lockport, N. Y., qualified with 87s.

Heston, D. C. Pro, Wins Special Doubles Match

Special to The Washington Post.

Aiken, S. C., March 31.—Paul Heston, Washington, D. C., professional, paired with Rudy Nobel to defeat Bob Murrray and Dave Meharg in an exhibition tennis doubles match here yesterday on the new indoor court of the George Mead place, 3—6, 10—8, 6—2, 6—4. Murray and Nobel are professionls at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, N. Y.; Meharg is private professional to Mr. Mead and Heston is private professional to Edward B. McLean, of Washington.

ROCKVILLE NINE READY.

The Rockville A. C. is looking for Saturday and Sunday games. Call Rockville 231 during the day. The Rockville manager requests all players to report to him at Welch Field Friday and Saturday evenings for practice.

ROCKVILLE NINE PREPS.

Candidates for the Rockville A. C. Nine will drill Friday and Saturday evenings at Welch Field. Manager Cole asks all to report. Games may be scheduled at Rockville 231 during the day.

Marines Again Defeat Vermont U. Nine, 7-3

Quantico, Va., March 31. — The All-Marine baseball team again defeated the University of Vermont Team here today, the score being 7 to 3.

Yanshak for the Devil Dogs allowing only four hits and but for the errors of the Marine infield, would probably have let the Collegians down with only one run.

In the eighth inning Tolan errored twice in succession, allowing Traynor and Winant to reach the bases and both scored on Howard's triple. Howard coming home on Dimmon's second safety.

Eddie Gorman, for the home team, had a field day getting two hits scoring two runs, stealing three bases and making three putouts in center, helping to hold the hits down for his pitcher.

Gatewood in left made a nice running catch to rob Dimmon of his third hit.

Local High Racqueters On Episcopal Schedule

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., March 31.—Three Washington High School tennis teams are on the schedule of Episcopal High School, it was announced today. Tech, Central and Western will all be met during a list which calls for 10 matches.

With four members of last year's squad, Capt. Morgan, Shuford and the Taylor twins on hand, a banner year in the sport is envisioned by Episcopal. Haysnuth, Swift and Elliot, of the newcomers, have shown up the best in the early practice.

April 12, Tome; 16, Friends; 17, Tech; 19, Central; 22, Western; 26, Staunton; 30, Friends.

May 3, Gilman; 8, Maryland University Freshmen; 13, open; 17, Woodberry Forest.

Uzcudun Put Money In Spanish Property

New York, March 31 (A.P.).—The only portions of American banks Paulino Uzcudin, Spanish heavyweight, trusted with his $200,000 ring earnings were the safety deposit vaults, a former trainer, Arthur Soulies, said today in an affidavit filed in State Supreme Court. The Basque woodchopper, along with Bertys Perry and Alfred Mayer, former manager, is sued by the Porto Rican Boxing Commission for the return of $3,000 advance guarantee for a bout in Porto Rico.

After each fight here, Soulies said, Paulino put his money in safe deposit boxes and as soon afterward as possible sent it to Spain for the purchase of real estate.

Attorneys said Paulino's permit as an alien to remain in the United States expires April 10.

Allegany High School Celebrates State Victory

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 31.—After a special assembly of Allegany High student body today held to jubilate over the local school winning the State scholastic championship over Cambridge at Chestertown Friday night, a procession of about 300 students "walked out" during the noon hour and in automobiles they made enthusiastic demonstrations through the city. The students called it a "strike" because no holiday was given the students in honor of their victory, but said they would return to their scholastic routine tomorrow.

More than 1,500 persons greeted the train at Central Y. M. C. A. upon its return home Saturday about midnight. The high school band played, and Coach Bowers and his squad were almost "mobbed" by the enthusiastic throng when they alighted from their cars.

There is criticism in local school athletic circles because Allegany, it is declared, will not be allowed by the Playground Athletic League to participate in the national public tournament at Chicago, beginning April 5. Cambridge, which Allegany defeated for the State championship, will represent Maryland at Chicago. Coach Bowers, of the Allegany Team, had all along stated that if the local boys would win the State bunting they would go to Chicago, but the Playground Athletic League has decreed otherwise.

Randolph-Macon Nine Opens Year Wednesday

Special to The Washington Post.

Front Royal, Va., March 31.—Randolph Macon Academy's baseball squad has been busy for the past several weeks in preparation for the opening game on Wednesday, April 2, when it plays Bridgewater High School on the local diamond. Although the practice has been hindered by the cold weather the squad is rounding into shape well.

The brunt of the pitching will fall on D. Johnson again this year, with Cover and Adams helping out. Bowler will be on the job again as catcher, Troutman will play first base, Eskridge and Sherer are having a battle for the keystone sack, Capt. Beal is an improved player at short, while Ourand on third base will complete the inner defense. J. Marchi will be shifted this year to the left field and Crompton will take care of center field, while the right fielder will be picked from Gilbert, Cover or Price.

The schedule:

April 2, Bridgewater, at home; 5, Front Royal All Stars, at home; 9, Fishburne, at Waynesboro; 15, Woodberry Forest, at Woodberry; 19, Fishburne, at home; 23, Strasburg High, at home; 25, R. M. C. Freshmen, at Ashland.

May 3, Swavely, at home; 6, Shenandoah Valley Academy, at Winchester; 10, Augusta M. E., at Fort Defiance; 14, Swavely Prep, at Manassas; 16, Augusta, at home; 21, Shenandoah Valley Academy, at home.

Four Games in 4 Days Ahead of Navy Nine

Annapolis, Md., March 31.—Four games in as many days is the extraordinary program that confronts the Navy baseball team this week. On Wednesday the Middies will tackle University of Vermont. The Yale squad, bound southward on its annual trip, will spend a portion of the week here, using the Naval Academy diamond for practice workouts, and the Tars are booked to meet the Bulldog crew on Thursday and Friday. On Saturday the Middies will stage their only road game, journeying to Durham, N. C., to meet Duke University.

DIXIE PIGS READY.

The Dixie Pig A. C. Nine, runner-up last year in the Capital City League unlimited race, will open its season April 13 at Seat Pleasant with the French A. C. Nine. A practice game is scheduled Sunday with the Red Sox.

BERTHS OPEN ON VA. POLY TEAM

Line-Up for Debut on Thursday Uncertain Despite Veterans.

BLACKSBURG, Va., March 31.—George Kircher, Virginia Poly baseball coach, is puzzled. With a letter man for every position, this task of choosing a Gobbler nine looked easy, but is proving to be anything else. With the opening game scheduled for Thursday in Miles Stadium here, Kircher has a puzzling task in naming the winners of nip and tuck battles for almost every post.

Stout-hearted youngsters, many sporting varsity togs for the first time, have arisen to threaten the places of monogram wearers. The veteran mentor lost Jim Coffey, veteran first baseman and captain of the team, and now must choose between Bill Fisher and Gene Brown, sophomores, and Bird Hooper, football captain-elect. Coffey dropped out of school at the end of the winter quarter on the eve of his third and final year as the hardest-hitting first baseman here in recent years. His loss leaves the first base post wide open and a merry scrap is on.

This is true of many other positions. Despite the presence of a likely array of "monogram" wearers, Kircher has a puzzling problem in naming his infield and outfield regulars. Nelson Bibb, sensational midget second baseman of the '29 team, is one of the letter men fighting for dear life to hold his old position against any one of a sturdy trio including Walter Carpenter, Langdon Moore and Roy Tibbs. All three of these boys are playing real ball in practice and forcing Bibb to the limit.

Nicholas May Play Shortstop.

Johnny Nicholas, a junior, may be at Sam Rice's old post at shortstop. Nicholas made his letter as utility infielder last spring. Rice is on third base, the position left vacant by the graduation of Tommy Tomko, greatest of V. P. I. thirdsackers. Rice played a fast brand of ball last year at shortstop, although originally a third baseman. Sammy's chief concern right now is a youngster named Lee Wagner, who has just donned his first varsity uniform but is asking no odds of the veterans in the scrap for a place.

Muddy Ruel and Joe Logan are back for outfield duty, with two seasons of fly chasing to their credit. Kircher has uncovered a new slugger in Phil Spear, the fleet little Gobbler half back. Sam Hardwick, tsar of the '29 freshmen, is hitting and fielding in great style, and Red Neihouse looks ready for regular duty.

Kircher has veteran pitchers in Reggie Mapp, Lloyd Murden and John Billingsley, and promising rookies in Buck Chandler, Doc Ayers, Jim Craun, Bill Green and Sonny Land. Macauley McEver, Bob Smith and Speck Anderson make up an experienced trio of catchers. With close battles all along the line, Kircher will not name his starting lineup until midweek.

WARWICK INSECTS START.

The Warwick Insects, winner of their section in the Boys Club Vacation League last year, will hold their first practice Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock on the Plaza. The following are asked to report: Yates, Lamb, Herbert, De George, Principe, Billings, Grace, Clamp and Kennedy.

STOCK PRICES FIRM IN 1930 RECORD DAY

Prices Climb Irregularly Higher as Sales Reach 5,161,320 Mark.

AUBURN RISES 13 POINTS

New York, March 31 (A.P.).—The bull movement in stocks was impeded by heavy profit taking today, but operators for the rise pressed forward their favorites with increasing vigor and closing prices were irregularly higher. Trading continued to gain in volume, total sales aggregating 5,161,320 shares, a new record for the year, and the third 5,000,000-share day in the past week.

Many traders were inclined to feel that a moderate reaction was due, in view of the rapidity of last week's advance, as contrasted to the slow recovery of business. The attitude of those committed to the rise, however, as summed up by Matthew C. Brush, president of the American International Corporation, is that the market discounts the business situation from two to six months in advance, and "while we are probably several months away from a definite prosperous period * * * nevertheless there are definite evidences of a change in trend giving every indication that in certain lines at least business has commenced to turn for the better."

Sears Roebuck's sales report for its third month was at first glance decidedly unfavorable, showing a decline of nearly 11 per cent from the like period a year ago. Close comparison, however, is not possible, as the pre-Easter trade last year came in March, while it is deferred until April this year by the late date of Easter Sunday. The unfavorable aspect of Radio Corporation of America's 1929 earnings report, showing net of less than $1.60 a share, appeared to have been already discounted by the market action of the stock, and Wall street was favorably impressed by the successful reduction of inventories. California Crude Oil production figures for last week were again favorable, showing a reduction of about 20,000 barrels daily.

Market Slumps at Midday.

More than 50 issues were boosted into new high ground for the movement in the first hour of trading. The market fell into a decided slump around midday, but later was turned upward again by heavy buying of U. S. Steel and several of the utilities. U. S. Steel sold up 1½ points to 195, a new high for the year, but lost all but a fraction of its gain. Bethlehem rose nearly 2 points to a new peak for the year at 108½.

In the utility issues, several of the recent laggards, such as International Telephone, American & Foreign Power and Southern California Edison were bid up smartly, the first-named gaining nearly 6 points. In the Morgan-Bonbright group, Commonwealth & Southern, United Corporation and United Gas Improvement rose moderately to new high ground. American Telephone rose a couple of points to a new peak at 266, then lost most of its gain. One block of 31,000 shares of Commonwealth & Southern changed hands.

A few of the oils were again turned upward. Sinclair and Continental were strong spots, reaching new high ground in active trading.

Motors were highly irregular. Auburn jumped 13 points to a new high for the year, and among the low-priced issues, Moon and Graham-Paige sold up a point or two to new peaks. Chrysler and Packard, however, lost about a point, General Motors closed fractionally lower and Checker Cab dropped 4.

Goodyear Rubber Advances.

Radio was an active feature, rising 2 points to 55⅝, a new high for the recovery and closing at 54½. Goodyear Rubber sold up more than 2 points to the best levels of the year on announcement of election of several Otis-Eaton representatives to the board. United States Rubber mounted 3 points to a new peak. In the tobacco shares, the Ligget & Myers issues were heavily bought.

Worthington Pump reacted more than 10 points. Westinghouse Electric about 5, and Du Pont, Air Reduction, American Can, Eastman Kodak, Electric Auto Lite, Atchison, Chesapeake & Ohio, United Carbon and Underwood Elliott lost 2 points or more.

Commodities were irregular. Cotton mounted 90 cents to $1.75 in trade buying and short covering. Corn gained about a cent and more on bullish weather forecasts, but wheat lost about 1½ to 2 cents on bearish Kansas crop reports.

Leading foreign exchanges generally sagged, sterling cables ruling at $4.86 15-32, off 5-32. The Canadian dollar, however, again moved to parity.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 31 (A.P.).—Cotton was higher today on a renewal of trade buying or covering by near months shorts while commission house buying in later deliveries was supposed to include consiederable transferring of scattering long contracts from May and July to the new crop positions. Prices made new high ground for the movement with May selling up to 16.25 or 37 points net higher and 222 points above the low level touched early this month. May closed at 16.23 with the general market closing firm at net advance of 18 to 35 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 5 to 13 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and favorable weekly reviews of the domestic goods situation. The advance to 16.00 for July and 15.43 for the new October contract seemed to attract considerable realizing in both the old and new crop positions. This was absorbed on very moderate reactions, however, and the market soon firmed up again on a continuation of the covering movement in the old crop positions, while scattering long accounts in May and July were apparently being transferred to the new crop in some cases. This helped supply the demand for near months and furnished some support for the later deliveries.

The highest prices of the day were reached in the late trading when July sold at 16.27 and the new October at 15.54, making net advances of 19 to 37 points on the general list. At the close May was apparently 73 points over the new October, compared with a difference of 66 points at the close on Saturday.

There may have been some buying of new crop months on reports that the weather in the South was too cool for planting or germination, although it was considered fairly favorable for farm work. Reports from the domestic goods market indicated that there had been some slackening of business last week, but that sales for March were thought to have exceeded actual production.

Liverpool cables said there had been local and continental buying there with contracts scarce, and reported moderate sales of cloth to Egypt and the Near East, with a broadening demand for yarns.

Port receipts today, 16,299. United States port stocks, 1,849,130. Exports today, 24,318, making 3,892,225 so far this season.

BANK DEPOSITS HERE GAIN $3,478,701.06

Advance Is Made in Spite of Withdrawals to Meet Tax Payments.

BANK GOLF PRIZE READY

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Predictions of local bankers that following the stock market collapse last fall, there would be a return of money to the banks were confirmed locally yesterday by an increase in bank deposits revealed by the call of Comptroller of the Currency Pole. The first call for the year showed total deposits in the 40 banks of the city as of March 27 to have been $256,339,865.81, as against $252,861,164 75 on December 31, a gain of $3,478,701.06.

The gain in deposits occurred in spite of recent withdrawals for income taxes and was the first advance since the call of October 4, which showed an advance of $5,119,243.72 over the June call. The December call results represented a $13,923,158.26 decline from the October call.

The national banks of the city listed a total gain of $3,160,536.38 over the previous call and the savings banks, one of $752,458.25. Their aggregate was reduced, however, by a net decrease of $434,293.57 in the trust companies, numbering but six since the merger of the Continental Trust Co. with the Commercial National Bank.

$878,000 Gain in Commercial Bank.

Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of Commercial National Bank, stated yesterday that on December 31, date of the last call, deposits of that bank were approximately $1,500,000 in excess of their normal amount around that period and that although his bank now only shows a deposit increase of $878,000 in the latest calculation, the actual increase is around $3,000,000 of which amount $2,850,000 represents the deposits of the Continental Trust Co. consolidated January 18, with those of the Commercial National Bank.

A complete tabulated report of the call results is published in this issue. Washington bank clearings for March were $114,113,696.73 against $96,545,212.86 in February.

President Robert V. Fleming, Riggs National Bank, and a past president of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, is donating a silver cup as an annual trophy for the golf tournament preceding the annual preconvention dinner of the association, taking place this year at the Columbia Country Club, April 14.

Winners of the cup hold it a year and have their names inscribed on it. Those eligible to compete for it are active officers of member banks or active partners in banking or brokerage houses that are members of the association.

Financial Corp. Dividend Made.

The Continental Finance Corporation of New Jersey announces that the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents per share and an extra dividend of 21 cents per share has been declared on the preferred stock of the corporation payable today to stockholders of record on March 15.

Announcement from San Francisco yesterday stated the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. and the North American Co. are planning a merger of gas and electric companies in northern California. The North American Co. has large holdings in Washington Railway & Electric Co.

Word received from Indianapolis yesterday stated G. Bowie Chipman, resident partner of Harrison & Co., was elected a director in the Van Camp Packing Co.

Guaranty Co., of New York, and W. E. Hutton & Co., are offering today $5,000,000 first mortgage gold bonds, series "B" 6 per cent of the Cincinnati Street Railway Co., due April 1, 1955, at 99½ and accrued interest to yield over 6 per cent.

The Cincinnati Street Railway Company

First Mortgage Gold Bonds, Series B 6%
To mature April 1, 1955

Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Trustee

The following is contained in a letter written to us by Mr. Walter A. Draper, President of the Company:

Business

The Cincinnati Street Railway Company (formed by consolidation in 1880) owns and operates the entire street railway system in Cincinnati, together with an extensive supplementary bus system.

Franchise and Fares

The Company's franchise, which extends for 25 years from November 1, 1925, is of the "service-at-cost" type and provides for the automatic adjustment of railway fares to cover operating expenses, depreciation, interest, sinking funds and a 6% return on capital stock.

The present railway fare is 8 1-3c for tickets or 10c cash, a reduction from a straight 10c fare having been made on November 1, 1925. The bus fares are 10c and 15c cash.

Capitalization

Outstanding after giving effect to this issue

First Mortgage Gold Bonds:
Series A 5½%	$ 6,784,500
Series B 6% (this issue)	5,000,000
Equipment Trust Certificate 6%	217,500
Total Funded Debt	$12,002,000
Capital Stock	23,761,950
Total Capitalization	$35,763,950

Security

The mortgage under which these Bonds are to be issued has a direct first lien on all fixed property and all equipment now owned by the Company, except about one-eighth of its railway cars, on which the mortgage has a lien subject to the $217,500 outstanding equipment trust certificates.

Retirement of Bonds

The Company will be obligated to make sinking fund payments, beginning January 1, 1931, which are calculated to retire more than 75% of the Series B Bonds by maturity.

If by November 1, 1940, the franchise has not been extended to November 1, 1960, or a later date, the Company will be required, as long as no such extension has been made, to increase these payments sufficiently to retire all Series B Bonds by the expiration of the franchise or the maturity of the Bonds, whichever shall be earlier.

Earnings

Calendar Year	Gross Revenues	Operating Expenses, Maintenance, Taxes and Depreciation	Net earnings Available for Interest
1926	$8,102,518	$6,580,205	$1,522,313
1927	8,748,279	7,103,800	1,644,479
1928	8,846,665	7,073,508	1,773,157
1929	8,844,733	6,725,909	2,118,824

Net earnings for 1929, as shown above, amounted to more than 3 times annual interest requirements of total funded debt presently to be outstanding.

General

The Company has paid dividends without interruption since its formation nearly 50 years ago. At present prices the outstanding stock has an indicated aggregate market value of more than $20,000,000.

All of the Company's directors and over 80% of its stockholders of record, of whom there are approximately 6,475, are residents of the Cincinnati area.

Authorized by the Director of Public Utilities of the City of Cincinnati and The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio

Dated April 1, 1930. Interest payable April 1 and October 1 at Guaranty Trust Company of New York or, at the holder's option, at The Central Trust Company in Cincinnati, without deduction for any Federal income tax up to 2%. Redeemable as a whole or in part on 30 days' notice on any interest date, at 107½% and interest on or before April 1, 1935, and thereafter at ⅜ of 1% less for each year or fraction thereof expired subsequent to April 1, 1935. Coupon Bonds of $1,000, registerable as to principal.

When, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. All legal matters pertaining to this issue will be passed upon for the Bankers by Messrs. Davis, Polk, Wardwell, Gardiner & Reed, of New York, and for the Company by Messrs. Taft, Stettinius & Hollister, of Cincinnati. It is expected that temporary Bonds or interim receipts will be ready for delivery on or about April 15, 1930.

Now-

61 YEARS

of unfailing returns to EVERY INVESTOR

THIS WEEK we begin our 62d year of financial service to the people of Washington. Behind us stands this record:

—"Sixty-one Years without a Loss in Interest or Principal to Any Investor."

—We are taking stock today of what this policy—the safeguarding FIRST of our clients' interest and principal—has done . . .

—It has built for hundreds of investors who started with a modest $100 First Mortgage Note, a steadily growing, unshakable fund to fall back on in time of stress . . .

—It has given every client a safe, worry-free income of 6 per cent per annum, an income which he always receives exactly on the day it is due—regardless of the ups and downs of speculative stocks in Wall Street . . .

—It has been the firm foundation on which many men have built successfully their plan for future independence of earned salary. . . . Today these men are letting their savings, invested in the 6% First Mortgage Notes we offer, work and earn for them.

With this record of achievement, we start our 62nd year.

CONVERTIBLE BONDS FEATURE IN MARKET

Exchange Presents Firmer Appearance as Share Prices Vary Little.

FOREIGN ISSUES DECLINE

New York, March 31 (A.P.).—Listed bonds without share conversion features failed to shake off their dullness today, and traded irregularly in a quiet market.

Convertibles and their kin, however, displayed considerable vigor. This was especially true of the two telephone 4½s, for the American Co.'s debenture soared to 185¾, closing 1½ below the top, for a net gain of ¼. International Telephone 4½s, comparatively dormant during the past fortnight, came to life with the advance in the stock and rose 3½ points, to 122½, the best price of the current movement.

American I. G. Chemical 5½s, up 1¼; Chicago & North Western 4¾s, up ⅝; Warner Bros. Pictures 6s, with warrants, unchanged on the day, and Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, also unchanged, were other active issues. Atchison 4½s went to the new high of 141½, but closed a point lower for a small net loss. General Theaters 6s touched a new peak, at 132.

United States Governments softened in the late dealings when the Treasury 3¾s were offered in some bulk, resulting in a decline of 13-32. The Treasury 4s lost 6-32.

Foreign bonds eased, with losses of more than a point in numerous South Americans.

Turnovers in representative domestic rails, utilities and industrials were small and price changes generally important, which gave the market a firmer appearance. New issues had a relatively small part in the day's dealings, while the volume of new financing was negligible. In recent weeks the market has demonstrated excellent resistance to competition from that source and there is little fear of a repetition of the recessions that accompanied the enormous flotation of securities in January.

Among the firmer listed issues were American Telephone 5s, Bethlehem Steel refunding 5s, Chile Copper 5s, New York Central 5s, Pennsylvania 6½s, Postal Telegraph 5s, Wilson Co. first 6s, Illinois Bell Telephone 5s, Rock Island 4s and Santa Fe general 4s.

Money rates were virtually unchanged from last Friday. The rate on 60 to 90 day time loans was advanced a quarter of 1 per cent, but other quotations, including the 4 per cent call money rate, showed no variation.

Fox Firm Receiver Proposed by Judge

Magnate Asks to Restrain All Legal Action on Finance Plans.

New York, March 31 (A.P.).—Federal Judge John C. Knox said today that he would attempt to dispose as speedily as possible of the tangled mass of litigation in Federal court involving the Fox Film and Fox Theaters Corporations.

"It seems to me," he said, "that the only thing that can save these companies is an immediate receivership which will avoid the possibility of some creditor asking for an execution of judgment."

Earlier in the day William Fox filed in State supreme court an application to restrain all legal action in the State courts on refinancing plans for the Fox companies, declaring that the Federal courts had assumed prior jurisdiction in such proceedings.

$500,000 Toledo Blaze Burns 350 Automobiles

Toledo, Ohio, March 31 (A.P.).—More than 350 automobiles, a loading dock and shed owned by the Willys-Overland Co., near the Terminal Railway, were reported destroyed by fire that raged there late this afternoon. This is not the main plant of Overland.

First reports estimated the damage at approximately $500,000.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

DEMOCRAT PRIMARY WILL BE HELD TODAY

Seven Alexandrians Seek Three Vacancies on City Council.

6,000 VOTERS ARE SEEN

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Democratic primary for the nomination of three candidates for membership on the city council will be held today, the polls opening at sunrise, 5:54 a. m., and closing at sunset, 6:31 p. m. The nominees will come up for election on June 3.

There are seven candidates for the three vacancies: Edmund F. Ticer, incumbent; Arthur Herbert, Mrs. Dolly Peyton Shepperson, Mrs. Naomi P. Craver, Emmett V. Davidson, Richard B. Washington and Clyde C. Lamond. Of the foregoing, the first three are from the older section of Alexandria, and the last four from the recently annexed territory, Mrs. Craver having served as councilwoman of the Town of Potomac prior to its annexation by Alexandria.

The voting places and election officials are:

First Ward—The Armory, South Royal street, between Prince and Duke streets: Scott Grimm, J. Edward Shinn and T. Alton Moore, judges; L. Bernard Fagen, clerk.

Second Ward—110 North Royal street: J. Frank Creighton, Edward J. Fleming and E. E. Lawler, jr., judges; R. E. McDonald and Henry Callan, clerks.

Third Ward—Odd Fellows Hall, Columbus street, between Cameron and Queen streets: Frank R Monroe, F. D. Moore and Charles F. Downey, judges; Charles Sherwood and Ray Andrews, clerks.

Fourth Ward — Friendship Engine House, Alfred street, between King and Prince streets: George H. Railing, Claude W. Fletcher and Vernon Dyson, judges; W. H. Hunter and Howard J. Fannon, clerks.

Fifth Ward—Rosemont Police Station, at Rosemont Station: John J Kiger, John W. Brookfield and James Armstrong, judges; Harry Hinken and Ebner Duncan, clerks.

Sixth Ward—Clinic Building, west side of Mount Vernon avenue, near the George Mason High School, Potomac: J. Hugh Rollins, J. Frank Moriarty and J. R. Harding, judges; George Jones and John Peed, clerks.

There are 4,215 qualified voters in the older portion of the city, according to the list of the city treasurer, Roger C. Sullivan, which was closed December 10, the last day on which voters could qualify for this primary and the June election. Figures furnished by County Treasurer Wade Ball show that in the annexed territory there are 3,501 voters, of whom probably only about one-half have qualified, or an aggregate of approximately 6,000.

The indications are that a light vote will be polled, due in part to the listlessness with which the campaign has been conducted. This is the first time a woman has ever been a candidate for the city council, although not the first time one has entered a race for an elective office. Both women entrants in this campaign are conceded to have a strong following, and it is regarded as highly probable that Alexandria will be among the leading cities of the State in electing women to important offices.

A letter was addressed yesterday to Fred C. Goodnow, president of the Chamber of Commerce, by Frank W. Noxon, chairman of the committee which has been holding conferences with Robert L. May and his assistants in the hope of reaching an agreement as to an equitable basis for rates of passenger fare between Alexandria, Washington and intermediate points on both the A. B. & W. bus line and the Washington-Alexandria Railway, both of which are now controlled by Mr. May.

Mr. Noxon stated that the committee of which he is chairman had expected to make a report on April 1, but now asks for more time, promising to report as early as possible. The hearing of the application for a rate increase is scheduled for April 8, in Richmond, but Mr. Noxon points out that although the representatives of the transportation companies desire an early decision, if the Alexandria public is given more time in which to prepare its case, this may result in an earlier decision, by obviating the necessity for a postponement of the hearing.

Mr. Noxon's committee is making a thorough study of the books of the two companies, and he states that many hours have been devoted to discussions of various proposals for fare schedules and estimates of their effect upon the public convenience. Another meeting of the committee, he says, will be necessary to review the detailed data and agree if possible upon a statement of the facts as found and an estimate of the income which would be yielded by an alternative scale of fares that has been suggested, and he says that the joint conference and the general public will be made acquainted with the finding of the committee at the earliest possible moment.

Dr. H. E. Cross has returned from Richmond, where he attended the meeting of the Virginia Academy of Optometry, and was elected president of that body.

The city gas works was the loser yesterday of approximately 125,000 cubic feet of gas, it was stated, caused by water becoming low in the holder. The fire department was called out and stopped the leak and then filled the tank with water and the normal supply of gas was soon restored.

The cottage prayer meeting schedule has been changed for this week as follows: Instead of meeting with Mrs. D. W. Schofield on Wednesday evening, the meeting will be held with Mrs. L. M. Evans, 914 Cameron street; Mrs. Pierce S. Ellis, leader. The same evening, the meeting at the home of J. T. Preston has been changed to 222 South Fairfax street, the home of J. G. Rodgers, with Miss Nettie Henshaw leader, and the meeting at the home of Mrs. W. L. Clark that night has been transferred to W. A. Bolton's home, 118 North Peyton street, Miss Pitts leader.

The funeral was held at the residence today. Interment was in the home burying ground.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

WHEN I came home Luella was singing praises of the street car company.

"What's happening now?" I asked, anxious to get the low-down. Usually no one has a good word for these heartless corporations.

"Don't you call the street car company a heartless corporation," cried Luella; "it has a heart of gold——"

"A heart of gold? Yeah!

"Tell me all about it," I urged, and she did. It seems she forgot her pocketbook, left it at a friend's house, and boarded the car to come home. Lo and behold, on the back platform Luella made the painful discovery.

What did you do then; get off and walk?"

* * * *

SHE looked at me as if I were losing my senses, thrust out a chiffon - and - lizard skin - clad foot. "Does this look it?' and she smiled.

"How did you work it?" I asked, "and if you're that good why didn't you get a taxi?"

"Well," said Luella, all agog, "the conductor kept waiting for me to put my fare in the cash register——"

"The cash register"

"Whatever they call that little box he has——"

"The collection plate," I suggested.

"No," she said, "that's in church—the collection plate. This is the——"

"The slot machine."

* * * *

"WHATEVER it is. Anyway, I didn't have any money, so——"

"So you flirted with him, eh?"

She jumped from the sofa. "I did nothing of the kind," she flashed, "I waited, patiently, until all the passengers had left the rear platform, and then——"

"And then?"

"Then I walked over and whispered to the conductor——"

"You whispered to him?"

"Yes," she avowed, "I told him the sad, sad story."

"And he fell for it?"

"Indeed he did," she answered, "I tell you what, a friend in need is a friend indeed——"

"So he was a friend in need——"

"No, I was in need——"

"And you were a friend of the conductor——"

* * * *

"NO, the conductor was a friend of mine, I being in need."

It was all quite bewildering, especially since Luella first told me she had never even seen the conductor before—and here she was calling him a friend in need.

"And now I'll write to the president of the company and ask him to promote my friend," Luella said, getting out her best stationary.

"Promote him? For what?"

"Why—for letting me ride free, of course."

Tomorrow, this conductor will certainly be Luella's friend in need—of a job.

ROCKVILLE TO PLAN NEW STREET LIGHTS

Council Will Also Discuss Water Situation and Town Zoning.

RED CROSS WILL MEET

Modernization of the street lighting in Rockville will be the main subject for discussion at the monthly meeting of the town council tomorrow night, it was announced yesterday by Mayor J. Roger Spates.

The members of the town council have thoroughly gone over the lighting situation in Rockville with representatives of the Potomac Electric Power Co. and are all agreed that the town needs better lighting. Some of the streets in the town are so dark that they encourage crime, the council members decided. "Bright lights are the best policemen a town can have," according to Mayor Spates. The water situation and town zoning also are likely to be discussed.

Joseph Brightfull, colored, 35 years old, of near Rockville, yesterday was adjudged guilty of manslaughter by a jury in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville. He was alleged to have mortally wounded Henson Carroll, also colored, in the course of a drunken brawl, February 1, near Halpine. State's Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr., appeared for the State.

In an effort to provide more suitable quarters for the elementary school children of Rockville, a special committee of the county board of education headed by Dr. George L. Edmonds is endeavoring to arrange for a conference with the board of trustees of the Rockville Academy.

The doctor has written to the trustees asking if it would be possible for the county to improve the old academy building and possibly add more classrooms, or whether the trustees would be willing to provide the better facilities. The first and second grades are housed in the academy, which ceased to function as a private educational institution a number of years ago. The other classes are housed in the high school building.

Dr. Edmonds is assisted by Mrs. Thomas W. Perry and Mrs. Julian B. Waters, of the board of education, and County Superintendent of Schools Edwin W. Broome.

The Bethesda-Chevy Chase Parent-Teacher Association will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School.

The Takoma Park branch of the American Red Cross will meet Thursday morning at 11 o'clock in the basement of the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church.

Laurel Man Is Killed When Struck by Auto

Frank Young, 46 years old, of Laurel, Md., was fatally injured yesterday morning when he was struck by an automobile driven by Morris Spilkloser, of Chapin street near Fourteenth street northwest, according to Maryland State police of the Laurel Substation. Young was walking along the road near Savage, Md., when he was struck by the car. Spilkloser took the injured man to St. Agnes Hospital in Baltimore, where he died a short time later.

The driver and Max Block, of S street southwest near Fourth street, a passenger, were held in Baltimore pending a coroner's inquest. State Policeman C. C. Serman investigated the accident.

Officers Are Elected By Loudoun Teachers

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., March 31.—The Loudoun County Teachers Association has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: J. F. Harrison, of Round Hill, president; A. O. Hutton, of Unison-Bloomfield, vice president; Mrs. Isabel Goode, of Aldie, secretary-treasurer.

The teachers attending a recent meeting of the association recommended that the school board pay annual salaries of the teachers on a twelve months rather than a nine months basis.

Funeral Rites Are Set For William J. Read

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 31.—Funeral services for William J. Read former mayor of Cumberland and former member of the Allegany County bar, who died at the home of his son, Elkins Read, West Pittston, Pa., will be conducted at the grave in Rose Hill Cemetery here tomorrow afternoon by the Rev. Henry F. Kloman, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church. His wife, Nora Sears Read, who died last April, is buried here.

Mr. Read, who was 85 years old, is survived by six children. He leaves a number of relatives in this section.

MT. RANIER GROUP ATTACKS PARK UNIT

Approval of Permits for Recent Structures Sharply Assailed.

BLAST FURNACE IS CITED

Activities of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission with respect to approving construction permits in Mount Rainier drew sharp criticism last night at a meeting of the community's civic association called to work out a cooperative plan of preventing violations of the zoning laws. The principal speaker was R. W. Rogers, landscape architect of the planning board, who had been asked to explain how that organization functioned with respect to the smaller communities under its jurisdiction.

Although officials of the association pointed out that it was not the sense of the meeting to criticise the board, several members openly charged that the board, several members openly charged that the board had been negligent in at least three instances. Mrs. A. W. Appell complained in particular about a blast furnace which she claimed had been erected in the community.

Mr. Rogers explained that if the town had more stringent rules than the planning board, the town's regulations would be given priority. "The commission does not wish to force anything on you," he added. "If we have permitted construction that is in violation of your laws, you can easily get a policeman to stop the work."

Upon the motion of H. W. Blandy, secretary of the association, further discussion of the problem was postponed until the next meeting, and a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Rogers for his explanation.

Smallpox Spreads In Maryland Town

Two New Cases Reported. State Health Official Takes Charge of Village.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., March 31.—The little town of Rouzerville, at the base of South Mountain, near here, is panic-stricken as a result of the discovery of two new cases of smallpox today, with the knowledge that virtually every one of the several hundred residents has come in contact with the postmaster and proprietor of the general store, Albert Hartman, the latest to develop the disease. His housekeeper, Mrs. Elmer Kreps, also developed the malady today.

Dr. John H. Kinter, county health officer, immediately closed the post-office and store and sent word to the State board of health of the conditions there. The board sent a health officer to Rouzerville this morning and he will take charge of the situation. The village may be quarantined. The first case of smallpox was discovered two weeks ago when Mrs. Lydia Crout was taken ill.

It was recalled that she had washed some bedclothing used by an Ohio man who had stopped at the Hartman home about five weeks ago. The man had returned to Marietta, Ohio, and there developed smallpox, from which he died within a week. All of the cases are believed to have been started by these contacts.

Mayor of Moorefield Dies From Pneumonia

Special to The Washington Post.

Moorefield, W. Va., March 31.—M. M. Harwood, 35, Mayor of Moorefield, died at his home here late Sunday night after a short illness. Death was due to pneumonia. He was reelected for his second term to the office of mayor two weeks ago. He was a clerk in a mercantile establishment here, proprietor of an ice cream manufacturing company, a World War veteran and former commander of the local post of the American Legion. Surviving are his widow, formerly Miss Hazel Tanner, of Moorefield, one daughter, one son and his parents. Burial will be here.

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., March 31.—Miss Henrietta King Page, daughter of Mrs Henrietta Page and the late N. B. Page, of Minturn, Clarke County, and granddaughter of Mr. R. Powel Page, of Saratoga, and Miss Westwood Beverley Byrd, daughter of the former Gov. and Mrs. Harry F. Byrd, of Rosemont, Clarke County, have accepted the invitation to be princesses to represent their county in the Apple Blossom Festival, to be held in Winchester about the latter part of April.

MONEY IS FORFEITED AT FAIRFAX HEARING

HISTORIC MILL BURNED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 919-J-1.

Police of Fairfax County, led by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams, swooped down upon the Thompson place in the rear of Penn Daw Hotel about 3 miles south of Alexandria and arrested several persons for disorderly conduct early yesterday morning. It was the same house in which Raymond Grover, of Alexandria, was killed last Armistice Day.

The hearing was set for yesterday before Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie at Fairfax. The following forfeited $10 collateral on the charge of disorderly conduct: Florence Wilson, alias White; Horace Raymond and C. N. Read, all of Washington; W. L. Northrop, Harry Scanlon and Elsie Harrison, all of Alexandria.

Mildred McAlexandria, said to be in charge of the house, forfeited $50 collateral for running a disorderly house.

Joseph Kidd, G. F. Devers and J. L. Collins, all of Alexandria, appeared for trial yesterday, and Justice Ritchie, after hearing the testimony, imposed a fine of $10 and costs for being drunk and $10 and costs for being disorderly upon Kidd and Devers. Collins was fined $15 and costs for being drunk. All three noted an appeal to the Circuit Court.

The police that took part in the raid were Capt. Haywood Durrer and Policemen Louis L. Finks, Carl R. McIntosh, and A. W. Mills of the county traffic police.

Fire, believed to have been started by children playing with matches, destroyed the historic old mill in Vienna Sunday evening. The building was owned by W. U. Thompson, who lived nearby. The mill has been idle since 1922, but prior to that time furnished flour and meal to the citizens of Vienna and surrounding territory.

It was first owned and operated in 1878 by A. Freeman as a saw mill. In 1882 an addition was built and machinery was installed for a grist mill. In 1884 a spelter was installed for making buckwheat flour. In 1888 Julius Graham became the partner of Freeman in making window frames and dressed lumber. The mill was closed for a short period until 1895, when it was reopened by Freeman and his son, Leon, as a grist mill. The property was sold shortly after that to several persons and its operations became infrequent until 1918, when it was purchased by its present owner. Then it was operated as a feed store for several years. Persons seeing the smoke Sunday evening from a distance believed it to be a brush fire along the railroad right-of-way which runs nearby. The fire department was not notified until the building was past saving. The loss was estimated to be about $1,000.

J. E. Carr, of Martinsburg, W. Va., was arrested Sunday for driving on West Virginia dealers' tags between Merrifield and Falls Church on the Lee Highway by Capt. Haywood Durrer and Traffic Policeman A. W. Mills, of the county road police. He was taken before Justice of Peace A. C. Ritchie at Fairfax and fined $10 and costs.

Gilbert McIntosh, of Fort Humphreys, was arrested Sunday evening by Traffic Policeman Louis Finks for being drunk on the public highway at Accotink. He was taken before Justice of the Peace Harry Shepherd, at Accotink, where a fine of $14 and costs or 30 days in jail was imposed.

William Schriver, of Washington, was arrested on a charge of violation of the State prohibition law on the Lee highway by Capt. Durrer and Policeman Mills. The arrest was made about 2 miles east of Fairfax. Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie held Schriver for the action of the grand jury.

Marvin Jenkins, of Washington, was arrested by Traffic Policeman Carl McIntosh Saturday night for disorderly conduct at Chimney Villa, on the Lee highway. He was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie at Fairfax.

Edward S. Dove, of Washington, was in a collision with the cars of L. M. Soper, of Broad Run, Va., and E. H. Soper, of Marshall, Va., at Legato Sunday. Dove was arrested by Capt. Heywood Durrer for reckless driving. He was taken before Justice of the Peace Thomas P. Chapman at Fairfax and fined $20 and costs after he had paid for the damages to the other cars.

The Blessed Virgin Sodality of the St. James' Catholic Church at West Falls Church will meet tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas Probey in Falls Church.

The Oakton Community League's play, "A Poor Married Man," which was to have been presented tonight in the Vienna town hall under the auspices of the Vienna Methodist Church, has been indefinitely postponed owing to the illness of one of the leading members of the cast.

The Fairfax Council, Order of Fraternal Americans, will meet tonight in Robel Hall at Fairfax. Four candidates for the Herndon council and two for Fairfax council will be initiated at this time. Refreshments will be served by a committee consisting of J. Frank Swart, Robert R. Buckley and S. W. Sisson.

The Lenten study class of the Daughters of the King at Falls Church will meet today at the home of Mrs. Gillette on Great Falls street in Falls Church.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woodlawn Gavel Club will be held tomorrow night in the I. O. O. F. Hall at Accotink.

The prize lists for the Fairfax County Horse Show, which is to be held in the fair grounds in Fairfax on June 6 and 7, are being prepared by the president of the Fairfax County Fair Association, Estler M. Palmer. The lists will be made public within the next few days.

The women of Herndon and vicinity will hold a mass meeting in Wilkins Hall at 8 o'clock tonight. They plan to organize a ladies' auxiliary of the Herndon Volunteer Fire Department. They will assist the firemen in raising funds to help pay for the modern fire-fighting equipment recently purchased by them.

The Groveton Community Club will hold its regular meeting in the school house tonight. An entertainment program will be presented following the business meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Franconia School and Civic League will be held tonight in the Franconia School. Plans will be made for the entertainment of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce, which will meet Tuesday evening, April 8.

The Fortnightly Club of Herndon will meet tomorrow afternoon in the Herndon Library. The subject for discussion will be Argentina.

A volunteer program during the lecturer's hour will be the feature of the entertainment of the Pioneer Grange at Masonville, which meets in the Grange Hall tonight.

The contest which has been in progress for several months, will close with this meeting. It is expected that a long program will be given, as the two sides are close rivals and additional points are awarded for each member that participates in the contest.

The Falls Church Ministerial Association will hold its annual election of officers this morning at a meeting with the Rev. George Conner in Falls Church.

The radio broadcast of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce this afternoon over station WJSV at Mount Vernon Hills, will be in charge of W. F. P. Reid, chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors. Mr. Reid will outline the great increase of the amount of business now transacted by the board since he first became a member 20 years ago. Several other prominent speakers will participate in the program. Musical selections will be furnished by local talent.

The quintennial State-wide census of school children will be taken in Fairfax County beginning today. This census forms the basis of the State contribution for the running expenses of the schools in the various counties. The Fairfax County School Board asked that the citizens of the county cooperate with the census takers.

Mother Kills Son, 4, and Calls Police

West Virginia Woman Uses Butcher Knife to Slay Child at Play.

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 31.—Apparently seized with a sudden fit of insanity, Mrs. George E. Hagerly, 45, attacked her 4-year-old son, Robert, with a rolling pin and then slashed his throat with a long butcher knife, causing instant death this afternoon as the child sat playing with toys in front of a fireplace at their home on Austin avenue.

Then the woman calmly called police headquarters. When officers arrived she said, "Yes, I have murdered my baby." Taken to jail, she raved maniacally. The husband, an electrician at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co.'s local plant, said his wife had been in failing health. Three weeks ago she attempted suicide by jumping into Elk Creek, but was rescued.

Fire Ousts Lynchburg Family From Residence

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., March 31.—The family of E. J. White, 3417 Memorial avenue, was driven from home at 2 o'clock this morning by a fire which did several hundred dollars' worth of damage before firemen extinguished it. Sleeping members of the family were aroused by falling timbers.

Origin of the fire is unknown. The loss is covered by insurance.

Leesburg, Va., March 31.—"The Chain Store Menace" will be the subject of an address by Wilbur C. Hall, of Leesburg, delegate from Loudoun County in the General Assembly, at a meeting to be held at the Armory in Petersburg, Va., on the evening of April 8.

This meeting is being held under the auspices of the community stores.

LIBRARY WILL OPEN IN NEW QUARTERS

Clarendon Institution Now Has More Than 3,000 Volumes Listed.

W.C.T.U. HOLDS CONTEST

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Having leased the frame building located at the intersection of Wilson boulevard and Virginia avenue, Mrs. Nat Hynes, president of the Arlington District Library Association, announced that plans for the opening of the library Friday are progressing rapidly and it is hoped to have the building in shape by that time.

"The growth of the library, which has surpassed the expectations of all those who have been connected with the project during the past seven years, has a most interesting history," said Mrs. Hynes.

"Conceiving the idea that the section should have a public library, the Clarendon Woman's Civic Club got busy and, with less than 100 volumes, the library was opened in the small room on Clarendon avenue," Mrs. Hynes stated.

With donations of books being received which more than filled the shelves and most of the floor space, the executive committee got busy sometime ago and the new quarters were secured.

When the new rooms are opened Friday the public will find more than 3,000 volumes listed.

Mrs. Hynes announces further that the library which has recently been opened by the ladies of Arlington near the Patrick Henry School are cooperating with the Arlington District Library Association in a financial way and that the association is exchanging books.

The Clarendon Women's Christian Temperance Union held its fifth silver medal contest last night in the Cherrydale Methodist Church.

Miss Mary E. Rogers was adjudged the winner, with Miss Margaret Myers carrying off second honors. Those taking part in the contest were: Miss Carmen Billington, Miss Dorothy Brynes, Miss Mabel Maffett, Miss Mary E. Rogers and Miss Margaret Myers.

The judges were Mrs. Florence E. Gannon, Miss Mary Loving and Hugh Reid.

At a largely attended meeting of Mary Washington Chapter, No. 50, Order of the Eastern Star, held last night in the Masonic Temple at Clarendon, the newly elected officers were installed by Mrs. Mary E. Teacheum, grand lecturer of the grand lodge of the District of Columbia.

Those installed are Mrs. Bessie Waddell, worthy matron; Lee B. Robertson, worthy patron; Mrs. Zenoba Massie, associate matron; Dr. John C. Whitehead, associate patron; Miss Mary Balster, secretary; Mrs. Jennie Lee Smith, treasurer; Mrs Hazel Kessler, conductress; Mrs. De Lana Robertson, associate conductress; Mrs. S. Hunt, chaplain; Mr. Alba McKnight, marshal; Mrs. Helen Hayes, organist; Mrs. Kelley, Adah; Mrs. Vernon Virts, Ruth; Mrs. Mabel Brooks, Esther; Mrs. Ella Clarke, Electa; Mrs. Louise Barley, Martha; Mrs. May Shawen, warder, and Edgar Shawen, sentinel.

The vestry of the St. George's Episcopal Church will hold its monthly meeting tonight at the rectory at 8 o'clock.

Funeral services for Mrs. Florence R. Lunquest, 67, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lee B. Roberson, 16 West Taylor avenue, Clarendon, yesterday will be conducted from the home this afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Charles R. Flory, former pastor of the Clarendon Methodist Church. Burial will be in Columbia Gardens Cemetery, Arlington County.

Mrs. Luhquest is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lee B. Robertson, of Clarendon; Miss Mignon Lunquest, of Philadelphia, and two sons, Thurman T. Lunquest, of Texas, and J. B. Lunquest, of Maryland.

Betty Toone was adjudged the winner of the silver medal contest of the Waverly Hills Loyal Temperance Legion held last night in the Mount Olivet Methodist Episcopal Church, at Ballston. Stuart Johnson received honorary mention. Others who participated are Frances Gore, James Hodges, Margaret Wernig, Dorothy Clark and John Hodges.

The monthly meeting of the Arlington County Civic Federation will be held tonight in the Lyon Park Community House at 8 o'clock.

The ladies of the Ballston Presbyterian Church will serve a dinner at the church Thursday night from 5 to 7 o'clock and not on Wednesday night, as previously announced.

Elaborate plans are being made by the George Washington Chapter, Order of the DeMolay, for the meeting which will be held in the Masonic Temple at Clarendon the evening of April 15, at which time Columbia Lodge, No. 285, A. F. and A. M., will be their honored guests.

Ballston Council, No. 221, Junior Order United American Mechanics, will meet tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Ballston Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

Leon Harris and Henty Actie, both charged with transporting alleged liquor, were each held for the action of the grand jury by Judge Thomas. Bond in each case was set at $500.

Lloyd Brown, 26, being held at the Arlington County Jail for investigation in connection with the alleged assault upon two colored women at Halls Hill, will be given a hearing today before Judge Thomas.

Edward Long and Edward J. Pensock are being held by the military authorities at Fort Myer for the county authorities on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a girl under the age of 18. They will be given a hearing today before Judge Thomas.

The executive committee of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce will meet today at 12:30 p. m. with the industrial committee at the Little Tea House, on Mount Vernon avenue.

Plans for the play, "The Comical Country Cousin," to be given under the auspices of the Dramatic Club of the Thomas Nelson Page School at Ballston the early part of May, are being completed.

The Scout Mothers of Scout Troop No. 101 will be entertained at luncheon Friday by Mrs. Henry C. Young and Mrs. Frank Sherwood at the home of Mrs. Young at Lyon Park.

Judge R. Thomas, of the Police Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, who has for the past week been confined to his home, was at the courthouse yesterday and conducted his court.

Thomas Wardrope charged with grand larceny and pleading guilty was held for the action of the grand jury by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas yesterday.

A marriage license was issued yesterday as follows: John William Dameron, 60, and Janie E. Thompson, 63, both of Park Lane, Arlington County. The Rev. Charles R. Mateer.

The executive committee of the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross, met last night at the courthouse with Mrs. Bertha Kelley, newly elected president, presiding. Mrs. Kelley was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Jennifer Broaddus, made necessary due to her home being within the territory recently annexed by Alexandria.

The report of Mrs. W. W. Willis, chairman of the home service department, shows much work is being accomplished and that plans are under way for much more activity by the local chapter during the year.

It was stressed by the president that while the annual roll call is one of the big projects carried on there is much that is being done by the various committees of the chapter in aiding those in need throughout the county.

Speaking at the meeting of representatives of the Parent-Teacher Associations, Citizens Associations, the Arlington District Council of Citizens Associations and the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, held last night in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce at Clarendon, Fletcher Kemp county school superintendent, stated that the county school board is now holding many meetings studying plans for the school bond issue as outlined in the report of the United States Bureau of Education and that within the next week will be prepared to submit several plans for the citizens to determine upon and make such recommendations as they may deem necessary.

Discussing the present crowded conditions which prevail in a majority of the schools, Superintendent Kemp declared that it was unfair to both the teacher and the pupils that the teacher should have classes of between 40 and 50 pupils.

"I consider the child of this county is entitled to the best education facilities possible and we should strive to give the child those opportunities," he said.

When asked how soon work on the enlargement of the buildings could be started, Mr. Kemp replied that, assuming all goes well and the bond issue carries, work would be started about May 20.

Woman Breaks Wrist Cranking Car.

In an accident rare in these days of improved motorization, Mrs. Edna Hager, 19 years old, of Boulevard Heights, Md., suffered a fracture of the right wrist while cranking an automobile near her home early last night. The crank suddenly "kicked" and threw her backward to the ground. She was treated at Casualty Hospital and dismissed.

TRADE IN FEBRUARY NEAR NORMAL TREND

Variations From Season Average in Either Direction Are Not Striking.

DISCOUNTS ARE DOWN

Richmond, Va., March 31 (A.P.).—Business conditions in the Fifth Federal Reserve District during February followed seasonal trends without strikingly favorable or unfavorable results, the review of February and early March trading announced here tonight by William W. Hoxton, chairman and Federal Reserve agent, discloses.

Labor conditions did not improve materially, but the outlook for future employment brightened somewhat, the review states.

Retail trade in department stores was better than in February last year, 21 of 35 stores reporting showing larger sales. Wholesale trade also compared more favorably with the trade of February last year.

Member banks in the district were borrowing 57.5 per cent less from the Reserve Bank on March 15 and in turn were lending less to their customers. Demand deposits in member banks were down moderately this year in comparison with those of a year ago, but deposits in mutual savings banks in Baltimore at the end of February were the highest on record, and time deposits in reporting member banks were only slightly lower than last year.

Rediscounting Falls Off.

Contrary to the seasonal trend, member banks reduced their rediscounting at the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond between February 15 and March 15, early crop planting needs usually bringing an expansion of reserve bank credit at this season, the review explained.

Business failures in the Fifth district in February this year were more numerous and liabilities involved were greater than in February last year, but the district record for the month was better both in number of insolvencies and liabilities involved than the average for the United States.

Building permits issued and contracts awarded in February were below those of February, 1929, in aggregate value, but the review noted signs that a considerable amount of construction work is being planned for the near future.

Tobacco markets closed after a successful season, the review stated, adding that sales probably totaled somewhat
